Array of 70 Booths Is Witnessed by Throng at Armory

An estimated 2,700 persons turned out for the first night of the Lions Club industrial, automobile show and mercantile exhibit at the state armory here Tuesday night. The exposition continues through Saturday night.

Crowds surged through the aisles to view the more than 70 exhibits, witness the opening events and the impressive flag presentation ceremonies. Lions Club officials were confident that this year's show, held a week later than last year's, will be even more successful from an attendance standpoint.

During the opening exercises, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk told those present that their attendance "enabled the Lions Club to continue the good work it is doing for the community."

The mayor gave his brief welcoming address after a patriotic opening in which the Color Guard of the Headquarters Battery, 156th Field Artillery, remained on the stage while the Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps sounded "To the Colors," followed by the playing of The Star Spangled Banner by Roger Baer at the organ. The invocation was given by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, and Lions President C. Robert Cousins officially opened the exposition.

Flag Ceremony

The flag presentation ceremony at 8:45 p. m. featured 22 attractive Kingston High School students, each representing a country in which the Lions International maintains clubs. Two at a time, the girls in evening dress mounted the stage as a bugler sounded "To the Colors." Lawrence Jenson was master of ceremonies. When the Flag of the United States was presented, the entire assemblage joined in singing a verse of America.

The exposition lived up to its title, "Kingston Area on Parade," with exhibits ranging from automobiles and television sets to cash registers, paint and carpeting. The main floor of the drill shed was crammed full of exhibits, as was the gymnasium room.

11 Billions' Bid To Be Made for Foreign Aid Use

Administration Putting Bill in Final Shape for Presentation to Congress

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Congressional refusal to follow administration wishes on the troops-for-Europe and Indian grain issues has deeply worried officials who will soon ask Congress for a new $11,000,000,000 foreign aid program.

The huge aid bill, combining foreign military and economic assistance in a single measure for the first time, is now being put in final shape by the administration. President Truman is slated to send it to the Capitol late this month. It will contain provisions for an appropriation of about $7,500,000,000 for military assistance to foreign countries, mostly in Europe.

Administration officials have expected for a month or more that they would face a hard battle to win all they will ask.

But even though they were preparing for a fight, their analysis of present congressional sentiment has raised fresh doubt whether they can obtain all the authority and funds they consider necessary for building the defenses of the free world against Soviet power.

First Upset Comes

The first upset in their calculations came when Mr. Truman's request for $190,000,000 to furnish free grain to India met with stiff opposition in the House despite considerable bi-partisan support. It has been bogged down in the rules committee for several weeks.

Eventual passage is expected but only in some compromise form, possibly as a loan rather than a grant.

The second upset occurred Monday when the Senate, reversing itself, voted that if the president proposes to send to Europe any American troops beyond four divisions already planned he should ask Senate approval.

Specific Reasons

There are specific reasons applying to each of these two events. In the case of Indian grain, for example, Prime Minister Nehru of India has caused considerable resentment in Congress by his frequent criticism of American policy in Korea.

In the case of the troop resolution of the Senate, political experts generally agree that Mr. Trumna himself aroused resentment in some sections of the Senate by saying at a press conference early this year that he had authority to send divisions to Europe as he considered necessary, regardless of Congress' attitude.

Beyond such specific factors, however, responsible authorities are concerned about several general reasons which they believe have contributed to the present low state of administration relations with Congress.

One of these is said to be that many people throughout the country are worried about the general trend of the United States foreign policy.

College Draft Ruling

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Draft headquarters announced today that freshmen in the upper half, sophomores in the upper two-thirds and juniors in the upper three-fourths of their classes will be deferred during their next undergraduate years. These collegians may also rate a deferment by scoring 70 on the forthcoming aptitude tests, Selective Service said. Seniors planning graduate work will be deferred for a year if they either rank in the top half of their class or score 75 on the test. Selective service emphasized that students are not required to meet both qualifications. They get a deferment either by ranking in the top percentage of the class or by getting high enough a test score.

Mayor Wins Ballots

Kennelly Is Reelected in Chicago With Wide Margin

Chicago, April 4 (AP) — The Democratic Party's 20-year rule of Chicago's city hall remained unbroken today with the reelection of Mayor Martin H. Kennelly.

Kennelly won his second four-year term in yesterday's city election, defeating his Republican challenger, Robert L. Hunter, by 152,545 votes. He took the lead from the start and never trailed during the counting of the 1,265,074 votes cast.

Kennelly, the handsome, 63-year-old bachelor, polled 697,871 votes. Hunter, 52, a lawyer making his first bid for a major elective office, received 545,326 votes.

Cook Sells Agency To New Jersey Man

H. L. Barrows Purchases Lincoln-Mercury Business

The local Lincoln-Mercury dealership has been sold by George B. Cook, Inc., to Howard L. Barrows of Ridgewood, N. J., who will continue the business under the name Barrows Motors, Inc.

The transaction was completed Monday. The law firm of Cashin and Ewig represented Barrows and Attorney Harry Gold represented Cook.

Barrows Motors has been incorporated with Howard Barrows as president and secretary, and Mrs. Barrows as vice president and treasurer.

They plan to continue the business at its present location, 301 Broadway. Barrows said today that employes who worked for Cook will be continued in their positions.

Worked for General Motors

Barrows, 44, is a native of New Jersey, worked for General Motors Corporation, and for 16 years was in production control work with Wright Aeronautical Corporation at Paterson. He joined the Ford Motor Company in 1945 as an executive in the sales department, and served that company as a business manager, sales office manager and in other capacities. He left Ford in January of this year to establish himself in a Lincoln-Mercury dealership.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrows plan to rent or buy a home in Kingston when a suitable one is available, and they plan to be active in civic life. Barrows' chief hobby is golfing.

One of the new owner's first activities here was the taking over of the firm's booth at the Lions Club exposition, now in progress at the state armory, in which are shown the 1951 models of both automobiles handled by the firm.

Announces No Plans

George B. Cook has no announced plans other than a vacation and retirement following a recent illness. He held automobile dealerships in Kingston the past five years, first for Hudson and the past two years for Lincoln and Mercury automobiles.

During World War 2, Mr. Cook served in the salvage department of the War Production Board, working in Montgomery. Previous to that he was a Pontiac dealer at Peekskill.

Red Purge Reaches New High, Report

Hong Kong, April 4 (AP)—Reports from Red China indicated today the Communists' bloody purge reached a new high the last two weeks of March. Still, the Reds declared, the program of blotting out all opposition must be increased in intensity.

The Reds' Peiping radio announced mass executions Saturday of "a large group of counter revolutionaries" at Tientsin and of 23 at Swatow. This brought to at least 212 the number of executions officially announced in the 13-day period ended March 31.

It is impossible to determine the exact number executed.

The Nationalists have charged the victims of the Red purge already total more than 1,000,000

Says Big Inflation Problem in U. S. Can Be Controlled

Mobilizer Wilson Tells Plan to Committee; America Must Have Strong Economy

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today inflation is the nation's greatest problem, but it "can be controlled."

Wilson made the statement to the Senate-House "watchdog" committee on mobilization at the start a public survey of the defense program.

In advance of the hearing, Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) said a "terrible" inflation plight confronts the country and that Congress "certainly is partly to blame."

In his prepared statement, Wilson reviewed the highlights of the week-end report he made to President Truman on building America's might.

A Tough Test

He reiterated that the task of whipping inflation is in many ways "a tougher test of our ability to survive" than attaining high production.

"We take the view that inflation can be controlled," Wilson said. "In order to do this, however, we must have the national will and the national unity to take the necessary steps. The decisions that must be made to check inflation are hard decisions. Each appears to hurt someone.

"We will do our best to make the stabilization effort as painless as possible, but only where it can be done consistently with the ultimate objective—a strong America with a healthy economy."

May End in 1953

Wilson also said, as he did in his report, that with the "the wholehearted cooperation of everyone" it may be possible to remove wage-price controls and other emergency curbs "sometime in 1953."

Senator Maybank (D.-S.C.) chairman of the joint committee, said his group is after "all the enlightenment we can get" on how Congress can push the defense program.

The present Defense Production Act, which includes wage-price control authority, expires June 30. Maybank's committee will advise Congress regarding any changes in the measure when it comes up for extension.

Bobby Hiftline Dies

Adrian, Mich., April 4 (AP)—The body of little Bobby Hiftline rested today in the good earth he loved. Bobby had dreamed of being a farmer when he grew up and running his own tractor. The six-year-old farm lad died of cancer Friday at a hospital in Detroit. The day before he had looked out from his oxygen tent and whispered: "I've got to get home. It's almost time to plant oats." Those were his last words. He rallied the next day only long enough to smile faintly at his parents.

Guard Plans Ready

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Governor Dewey's office said today basic plans are ready for activation of state guard units to replace national guard outfits that go into federal service. But James C. Hagerty, Dewey's secretary, said there would be no announcement until the national guardsmen had actually left. Several non-divisional units of the New York National Guard have gone into federal service, and three anti-aircraft battalions were alerted last week—the 773rd and the 663rd from New York city, and the 336th from Utica.

Dormitory Fire

Geneseo, N. Y., April 4—Forty-three girls are looking for a new "home" today as a result of a $50,000 fire which wrecked the third floor and attic of Emerson Hall, a dormitory at Geneseo State Teachers College. The fire apparently started yesterday in a waste paper chute, according to Fire Chief George Westland, who estimated the damage. None of the girls was in the three and a half story frame building at the time.

Master Plan Is Ready for Application

Johnston Is Reported to Have Worked Out Program to Forestall Further Inflation

Has Three Phases

Tentative Proposal Is Aimed at Profits, Wage Boosts, Parities

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The administration was reported ready today with a tentative new master plan to smother inflation with interlocking business, farm and labor price controls.

Simultaneously, President Truman appeared set to take personal charge of the effort to woo labor back as an active element in the mobilization command.

Mr. Truman arranged to meet with the united labor policy committee, representing most principal unions at the White House tomorrow.

Well-placed officials said Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has worked out the following tentative plan to close leaks in the anti-inflation dikes:

(1) To set an over-all limit on industry's profits; (2) to end cost-of-living wage increases on June 30; and (3) to freeze the "parity" formula by which farm prices are set.

Johnston's idea, the officials said, is to put an end to "catch-up" jockeying by business, agriculture and labor resulting in a never-ending, inflationary, spiral.

Representatives Refrain

Labor's representatives have refrained from participating in the mobilization program for nearly two months. Their gripe has been that big business is running the government's economic show, that wage controls have been too strict in relation to controls over prices, and that labor has been left out in framing big decisions.

All this has been denied by the administration's mibilization chiefs. But, meanwhile, the wage control program is stymied because the union chiefs won't go along.

Charles E. Wilson, the defense mobilization chief, is reported considering, after repeated overtures to heal the breach with the union, a move to set up a labor stabilization board made up entirely of public members.

Wilson Is Called

The Senate-House "Watch-Dog" Committee on Mobilization today called Wilson as its first witness in public hearings on the progress of mobilization and the fight against inflation.

A wage board of public members only would simply hear labor's pleas, along with those of industry, and go ahead and rule on any issue. This would replace the board composed of public, labor and industry members from which the labor members walked out.

With Mr. Truman trying to get labor back shouldering part of the economic-control load, Stabilizer Johnston worked on details of his plan to make the controls more effective. The highlights of the plan reportedly are:

1. To curb further price increases by requiring that industry absorb cost increases until profits fall below 85 per cent of the rate of the three most profitable years from 1946 to 1949 inclusive.

2. To set June 30, 1951, as the

Council Passes Measures On Bond Issues, Takes Deeds

Ex-Convict Admits Abducting Girl

Found in Mountain With 16-Year-Old Who Charges Rape

McAlester, Okla., April 4 (AP)—Sixteen year old Jackie Parris was liberated early today from a 23-year old ex-convict who admitted to officers he abducted the girl and her high school skating date Sunday night.

The girl was found about 1 a. m. huddled beside a fire under a rock ledge atop Blue mountain in the San Bois range, nine miles south of Kinta. Kinta is 35 miles northeast of McAlester in eastern Oklahoma.

On the other side of the fire, his head buried in his hands, sat Robert M. Phillips. Pittsburg County Sheriff Bill Alexander had issued a warrant for his arrest on suspicion of kidnaping last night.

Phillips made no attempt to escape when a posse of 13 men led by Chester Palmer, Kinta sawmill operator, surrounded him. Phillips was unarmed except for a penknife.

Glad to see Posse

"I told him to stay where he was and not to make any trouble or we'd save the state some money," Palmer said. "The girl started crying and said she sure was glad to see us.

"I guess we got there about two hours too late. She said he took her into a tin pipeline shack about

Two-Thirds Vote Is Given on Bonds; Claims Are Referred

The Common Council last night enacted final legislation on B.P.W. and fire department bond issues, accepted deeds for the proposed Florence street extention and for the widening of two other streets.

Three Democratic and one Republican member of the council were absent, but the nine present were enough to carry a two-thirds vote as required on the bond issues.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel, (D) who had previously voted against the bond issue proposals, last night went along on the vote. Tenth Ward Alderman James J. Carroll, (D) who had formerly voted for the bond issues, also voted for them again.

The aldermen absent were John Buboltz, fourth ward; Charles Cole, 13th ward and J. Richard Smith, seventh ward, all Democrats, and Republican Alderman Robert C. Cullum, of the 12th ward.

The bond issues approved total $150,391.93 of which $75,000 is for street improvement, $55,391.93 for new public works department machinery and $20,000 for two new fire trucks; one for Cordts and the other for Rapid Hose company.

The council also provided for bond anticipation notes pending the sale of bonds with the exception of the amount for the fire trucks which are not expected to be delivered for some time.

A deed for property offered by Helen G. Garabrant for the extension of Florence street, and deeds by Harold and Viola Halwick and John W. and Eugenia Evans for other land for the widening of Colfax Place and Wilson avenue, were accepted by the council. Action on both was recommended at the March meeting of the Board of Public Works.

Came on Anniversary

Before voting on the Florence street deed, Alderman Radel said the council's vote favoring the proposed street extension came almost on the anniversary date of introduction of the proposal to the councilmen. Yesterday was the 364th day after the request was submitted, he said, and added, "I am very happy to vote for it."

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, informed the councilmen that legal work on the proposal entailed much work and there were 132 documents filed with the deed.

Elmer Carney, 79 Lincoln street, who had spent much time and effort in support of the proposed street extension, in a statement to a reporter said:

Thanks Kelly, Radel

"I want to thank all the members of the Common Council for their cooperation in passing the legislation for the extension of Florence street, and I particularly want to extend my gratitude to Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly for his fair mindedness in helping to obtain proper action,

Farm Man, 23, Says He Fired Gun Into Cabin; 4 Killed

Sheriff Says He Refuses to Give Reason for Shootings in Ozarks

Conway, Mo., April 4 (AP) — A 23-year-old farm man admitted pumping a volley of shots through an Ozarks farmhouse window and killing four persons.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham identified the farmer as Kenneth Essery who lives near the scene of the slayings.

Essery was arrested early today at his father's home in Conway.

The sheriff said Essery verbally admitted the shootings to him and Prosecuting Attorney John Hosmer.

The slayings occurred last night about four miles southeast of here in the Ozark hills of southern Missouri.

Four persons who responded to a call for aid from the farm family also were fired on. One of the four was wounded.

Reason Is Declined

The prosecuting attorney said Essery declined to give a reason for the shootings. Essery was undergoing further questioning.

First degree murder charges will be filed against Essery, the prosecutor said.

Hosmer quoted the youth as saying he always "got along" with the shooting victims, members of the family of William Shockley. He said Essery appeared quite calm, refusing under questioning to give any motive.

The dead were William Shockley, 43; his wife, Clara, 44; their daughter, Helen, 16, and Shockley's mother, Mrs. Gus Shockley, 73.

Six other Shockley children ranging in age from 10 months to 14 years were asleep in upstairs rooms.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham said a .22 caliber rifle was used in the slayings.

Vetoes Two Auto Bills

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Governor Dewey has vetoed a bill that would have required motor vehicles manufactured after Jan. 1, 1954, to have windshield defrosters, if licensed in New York state. Dewey made no comment in rejecting the measure yesterday. Democratic Senator Harold I. Panken of Manhattan introduced the bill, which had the backing of the State Automobile Association. Dewey also vetoed a bill that would have increased from 96 to 102 inches the maximum width of buses permitted to operate wholly within cities and adjoining villages and towns.

34 Men Take Tests

Local Draft Board 18 (city) yesterday sent 34 men to Albany for preinduction examination. Local Board 19 (county) is scheduled to send a group for induction April 9, and another group for induction will be sent by Local Board 18 on April 12. Local Board 19 will send a group for preinduction examination on April 18.

County Families Are Asked To Register With Red Cross

Ulster county families that suffered loss in Saturday morning's flood are invited to register at Red Cross chapter headquarters, 308 Clinton avenue for possible rehabilitation assistance.

A preliminary survey has resulted in an estimate of 50 families in the county that were affected by the flood. This estimate was described by Red Cross officials as "conservative."

Up to Tuesday afternoon, a total of 13 county families had already registered.

Rehabilitation, the second stage of Red Cross disaster relief work, is based upon need rather than loss and assistance is given after individual investigation of the families that register.

Mrs. Anne Cragin of Poughkeepsie, Eastern area disaster representative has arrived in this city, and will do case work for the local chapter and will remain in this area as long as the chapter needs her services.

Explaining the procedure for Red Cross assistance, Mrs. Cragin said that both a family's needs and its abilities to help itself are taken into account. Thus, a family with many children and in which the father may be unable to work due to disability would probably receive more assistance from Red Cross than one in which the father may be holding a good job.

The type of assistance varies greatly, Mrs. Cragin said. House repairs and rebuilding, medical expenses, clothing, furniture and appliances may be obtained if conditions warrant, she explained.

Assistance is not a loan, she said, but is considered a gift from the American people to those who suffered loss through no fault of their own. The cost of assistance is met not through governmental appropriation but from the money raised in the annual Red Cross fund drive, which was held only last month.

No cash is given directly to families, but a disbursing order is issued. Articles purchased through a disbursing order are obtained from merchants selected by the family in question, and in most cases the purchases are made locally, Mrs. Cragin said.

First stage in disaster relief, which is now being completed, consists in meeting the emergency needs of flood victims for such items as clothing, food and shelter. The first stage is accomplished in cooperation with other agencies without the complete individual investigation that is required in second-stage rehabilitation.

Reds Offer Heavy Fight At Topyong

Half-Million Troops Are Reported Massed for Offensive; Allies Probe Strength

Attack Is Expected

Rain and Mud Seen Favorable to Chinese Assault

Tokyo, April 4 (AP)—An allied task force drove four miles north of the Red Korean border today against heavy Communist resistance.

A field dispatch said the task force met heavy Red mortar fire and some artillery fire near Topyong, four miles north of the border on the western front. But it drove ahead.

Another allied force nearby punched two miles into Red Korea in the Longpyong area.

Earlier reports said an American patrol had crossed Parallel 38 on the central front and routed Chinese Reds from two hills. The patrol was probing the outer areas of a huge Red buildup where almost one-half million Communist troops were massed for an expected Red offensive.

Withdraws by Nightfall

The strong force which crossed Parallel 38 Tuesday along a 10 mile stretch of the western front withdrew by nightfall under heavy fire.

In the air, American Sabre jets destroyed one Russian-type MIG-15 jet fighter and damaged two others Wednesday in a swirling dogfight near the Manchurian border.

Other allied planes ripped into Communist ground forces and supply lines. They destroyed four tanks, six trucks and five railroad cars in 270 sorties flown by noon.

From the central front came an ominous report that a large group of Reds was moving into the Communist buildup area north of 38.

Intelligence reports say there are now nearly 500,000 combat troops in this area, primed for the long-expected Red offensive. Korea's rainy spring weather and glue-like mud will favor the Reds. They may launch their greatest attack of the war any day now.

Fought Near Sinuiju

For the second straight day the big air battle was fought near Sinuiju south of the Yalu river. Twelve F-86 Sabre jets tangled with eight red-nosed MIGS. The Communists broke off and raced to refuge in their Manchurian sanctuary.

In two days Sabre jets have knocked down four MIGs and damaged seven others. No Allied losses have been reported. Official pictures raised Tuesday's toll to three destroyed and five damaged.

Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers hammered the Red transport network. Preliminary reports Wednesday showed 28 vehicles damaged or destroyed and several direct hits on the Sonchon rail yards.

Scattered Ground Fighting

There was scattered ground fighting on the western front, a brief skirmish was reported eight miles southwest of Yonchon and another eight miles southeast of

Tobey Would Question Fischetti Brothers About Gambling

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.) urged today a prompt reopening of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee's public hearings to question Charles and Rocco Fischetti.

The two Fischetti brothers, named by the committee as top leaders of the Capone Syndicate of Chicago, were placed under bond yesterday after they surrendered to Senate Sergeant-at-arms Joseph C. Duke.

"They are kingpins in the gambling world and could contribute a lot to the committee's information," Tobey told reporters.

Another top figure in the Capone mob, Murray L. (The Camel) Humphreys, also surrendered to Duke.

Says Big Inflation Problem in U. S. Can Be Controlled

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today inflation is the nation's greatest problem, but it "can be controlled."

Wilson made the statement to the Senate-House "watchdog" committee on mobilization at the start a public survey of the defense program.

In advance of the hearing, Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) said a "terrible" inflation plight confronts the country and that Congress "certainly is partly to blame."

In his prepared statement, Wilson reviewed the highlights of the week-end report he made to President Truman on building America's might.

A Tough Test

He reiterated that the task of whipping inflation is in many ways "a tougher test of our ability to survive" than attaining high production.

"We take the view that inflation can be controlled," Wilson said. "In order to do this, however, we must have the national will and the national unity to take the necessary steps. The decisions that must be made to check inflation are hard decisions. Each appears to hurt someone.

"We will do our best to make the stabilization effort as painless as possible, but only where it can be done consistently with the ultimate objective—a strong America with a healthy economy."

May End in 1953

Wilson also said, as he did in his report, that with the "the wholehearted cooperation of everyone" it may be possible to remove wage-price controls and other emergency curbs "sometime in 1953."

Senator Maybank (D.-S.C.) chairman of the joint committee, said his group is after "all the enlightenment we can get" on how Congress can push the defense program.

The present Defense Production Act, which includes wage-price control authority, expires June 30. Maybank's committee will advise Congress regarding any changes in the measure when it comes up for extension.

Bobby Hiftline Dies

Adrian, Mich., April 4 (AP)—The body of little Bobby Hiftline rested today in the good earth he loved. Bobby had dreamed of being a farmer when he grew up and running his own tractor. The six-year-old farm lad died of cancer Friday at a hospital in Detroit. The day before he had looked out from his oxygen tent and whispered: "I've got to get home. It's almost time to plant oats." Those were his last words. He rallied the next day only long enough to smile faintly at his parents.

Guard Plans Ready

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Governor Dewey's office said today basic plans are ready for activation of state guard units to replace national guard outfits that go into federal service. But James C. Hagerty, Dewey's secretary, said there would be no announcement until the national guardsmen had actually left. Several non-divisional units of the New York National Guard have gone into federal service, and three anti-aircraft battalions were alerted last week—the 773rd and the 663rd from New York city, and the 336th from Utica.

Dormitory Fire

Geneseo, N. Y., April 4—Forty-three girls are looking for a new "home" today as a result of a $50,000 fire which wrecked the third floor and attic of Emerson Hall, a dormitory at Geneseo State Teachers College. The fire apparently started yesterday in a waste paper chute, according to Fire Chief George Westland, who estimated the damage. None of the girls was in the three and a half story frame building at the time.

Master Plan Is Ready for Application

Johnston Is Reported to Have Worked Out Program to Forestall Further Inflation

Has Three Phases

Tentative Proposal Is Aimed at Profits, Wage Boosts, Parities

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The administration was reported ready today with a tentative new master plan to smother inflation with interlocking business, farm and labor price controls.

Simultaneously, President Truman appeared set to take personal charge of the effort to woo labor back as an active element in the mobilization command.

Mr. Truman arranged to meet with the united labor policy committee, representing most principal unions at the White House tomorrow.

Well-placed officials said Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has worked out the following tentative plan to close leaks in the anti-inflation dikes:

(1) To set an over-all limit on industry's profits; (2) to end cost-of-living wage increases on June 30; and (3) to freeze the "parity" formula by which farm prices are set.

Johnston's idea, the officials said, is to put an end to "catch-up" jockeying by business, agriculture and labor resulting in a never-ending, inflationary, spiral.

Representatives Refrain

Labor's representatives have refrained from participating in the mobilization program for nearly two months. Their gripe has been that big business is running the government's economic show, that wage controls have been too strict in relation to controls over prices, and that labor has been left out in framing big decisions.

All this has been denied by the administration's mibilization chiefs. But, meanwhile, the wage control program is stymied because the union chiefs won't go along.

Charles E. Wilson, the defense mobilization chief, is reported considering, after repeated overtures to heal the breach with the union, a move to set up a labor stabilization board made up entirely of public members.

Wilson Is Called

The Senate-House "Watch-Dog" Committee on Mobilization today called Wilson as its first witness in public hearings on the progress of mobilization and the fight against inflation.

A wage board of public members only would simply hear labor's pleas, along with those of industry, and go ahead and rule on any issue. This would replace the board composed of public, labor and industry members from which the labor members walked out.

With Mr. Truman trying to get labor back shouldering part of the economic-control load, Stabilizer Johnston worked on details of his plan to make the controls more effective. The highlights of the plan reportedly are:

1. To curb further price increases by requiring that industry absorb cost increases until profits fall below 85 per cent of the rate of the three most profitable years from 1946 to 1949 inclusive.

2. To set June 30, 1951, as the

Ex-Convict Admits Abducting Girl

Found in Mountain With 16-Year-Old Who Charges Rape

McAlester, Okla., April 4 (AP)—Sixteen year old Jackie Parris was liberated early today from a 23-year old ex-convict who admitted to officers he abducted the girl and her high school skating date Sunday night.

The girl was found about 1 a. m. huddled beside a fire under a rock ledge atop Blue mountain in the San Bois range, nine miles south of Kinta. Kinta is 35 miles northeast of McAlester in eastern Oklahoma.

On the other side of the fire, his head buried in his hands, sat Robert M. Phillips. Pittsburg County Sheriff Bill Alexander had issued a warrant for his arrest on suspicion of kidnaping last night.

Phillips made no attempt to escape when a posse of 13 men led by Chester Palmer, Kinta sawmill operator, surrounded him. Phillips was unarmed except for a penknife.

Glad to see Posse

"I told him to stay where he was and not to make any trouble or we'd save the state some money," Palmer said. "The girl started crying and said she sure was glad to see us.

Two-Thirds Vote Is Given on Bonds; Claims Are Referred

The Common Council last night enacted final legislation on B.P.W. and fire department bond issues, accepted deeds for the proposed Florence street extention and for the widening of two other streets.

Three Democratic and one Republican member of the council were absent, but the nine present were enough to carry a two-thirds vote as required on the bond issues.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel, (D) who had previously voted against the bond issue proposals, last night went along on the vote. Tenth Ward Alderman James J. Carroll, (D) who had formerly voted for the bond issues, also voted for them again.

The aldermen absent were John Buboltz, fourth ward; Charles Cole, 13th ward and J. Richard Smith, seventh ward, all Democrats, and Republican Alderman Robert C. Cullum, of the 12th ward.

The bond issues approved total $150,391.93 of which $75,000 is for street improvement, $55,391.93 for new public works department machinery and $20,000 for two new fire trucks; one for Cordts and the other for Rapid Hose company.

The council also provided for bond anticipation notes pending the sale of bonds with the exception of the amount for the fire trucks which are not expected to be delivered for some time.

A deed for property offered by Helen G. Garabrant for the extension of Florence street, and deeds by Harold and Viola Halwick and John W. and Eugenia Evans for other land for the widening of Colfax Place and Wilson avenue, were accepted by the council. Action on both was recommended at the March meeting of the Board of Public Works.

Came on Anniversary

Before voting on the Florence street deed, Alderman Radel said the council's vote favoring the proposed street extension came almost on the anniversary date of introduction of the proposal to the councilmen. Yesterday was the 364th day after the request was submitted, he said, and added, "I am very happy to vote for it."

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, informed the councilmen that legal work on the proposal entailed much work and there were 132 documents filed with the deed.

Elmer Carney, 79 Lincoln street, who had spent much time and effort in support of the proposed street extension, in a statement to a reporter said:

Thanks Kelly, Radel

"I want to thank all the members of the Common Council for their cooperation in passing the legislation for the extension of Florence street, and I particularly want to extend my gratitude to Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly for his fair mindedness in helping to obtain proper action,

Farm Man, 23, Says He Fired Gun Into Cabin; 4 Killed

Sheriff Says He Refuses to Give Reason for Shootings in Ozarks

Conway, Mo., April 4 (AP) — A 23-year-old farm man admitted pumping a volley of shots through an Ozarks farmhouse window and killing four persons.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham identified the farmer as Kenneth Essery who lives near the scene of the slayings.

Essery was arrested early today at his father's home in Conway.

The sheriff said Essery verbally admitted the shootings to him and Prosecuting Attorney John Hosmer.

The slayings occurred last night about four miles southeast of here in the Ozark hills of southern Missouri.

Four persons who responded to a call for aid from the farm family also were fired on. One of the four was wounded.

Reason Is Declined

The prosecuting attorney said Essery declined to give a reason for the shootings. Essery was undergoing further questioning.

First degree murder charges will be filed against Essery, the prosecutor said.

Hosmer quoted the youth as saying he always "got along" with the shooting victims, members of the family of William Shockley. He said Essery appeared quite calm, refusing under questioning to give any motive.

The dead were William Shockley, 43; his wife, Clara, 44; their daughter, Helen, 16, and Shockley's mother, Mrs. Gus Shockley, 73.

Six other Shockley children ranging in age from 10 months to 14 years were asleep in upstairs rooms.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham said a .22 caliber rifle was used in the slayings.

Vetoes Two Auto Bills

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Governor Dewey has vetoed a bill that would have required motor vehicles manufactured after Jan. 1, 1954, to have windshield defrosters, if licensed in New York state. Dewey made no comment in rejecting the measure yesterday. Democratic Senator Harold I. Panken of Manhattan introduced the bill, which had the backing of the State Automobile Association. Dewey also vetoed a bill that would have increased from 96 to 102 inches the maximum width of buses permitted to operate wholly within cities and adjoining villages and towns.

Local Board 19 will send a group for preinduction examination on April 18.

County Families Are Asked To Register With Red Cross

Ulster county families that suffered loss in Saturday morning's flood are invited to register at Red Cross chapter headquarters, 308 Clinton avenue for possible rehabilitation assistance.

A preliminary survey has resulted in an estimate of 50 families in the county that were affected by the flood. This estimate was described by Red Cross officials as "conservative."

Up to Tuesday afternoon, a total of 13 county families had already registered.

Rehabilitation, the second stage of Red Cross disaster relief work, is based upon need rather than loss and assistance is given after individual investigation of the families that register.

Mrs. Anne Cragin of Poughkeepsie, Eastern area disaster representative has arrived in this city, and will do case work for the local chapter and will remain in this area as long as the chapter needs her services.

Explaining the procedure for Red Cross assistance, Mrs. Cragin said that both a family's needs and its abilities to help itself are taken into account. Thus, a family with many children and in which the father may be unable to work due to disability would probably receive more assistance from Red Cross than one in which the father may be holding a good job.

The type of assistance varies greatly, Mrs. Cragin said. House repairs and rebuilding, medical expenses, clothing, furniture and appliances may be obtained if conditions warrant, she explained.

Assistance is not a loan, she said, but is considered a gift from the American people to those who suffered loss through no fault of their own. The cost of assistance is met not through governmental appropriation but from the money raised in the annual Red Cross fund drive, which was held only last month.

No cash is given directly to families, but a disbursing order is issued. Articles purchased through a disbursing order are obtained from merchants selected by the family in question, and in most cases the purchases are made locally, Mrs. Cragin said.

First stage in disaster relief, which is now being completed, consists in meeting the emergency needs of flood victims for such items as clothing, food and shelter. The first stage is accomplished in cooperation with other agencies without the complete individual investigation that is required in second-stage rehabilitation.

Reds Offer Heavy Fight At Topyong

Attack Is Expected

Rain and Mud Seen Favorable to Chinese Assault

Tokyo, April 4 (AP)—An allied task force drove four miles north of the Red Korean border today against heavy Communist resistance.

A field dispatch said the task force met heavy Red mortar fire and some artillery fire near Topyong, four miles north of the border on the western front. But it drove ahead.

Another allied force nearby punched two miles into Red Korea in the Longpyong area.

Earlier reports said an American patrol had crossed Parallel 38 on the central front and routed Chinese Reds from two hills. The patrol was probing the outer areas of a huge Red buildup where almost one-half million Communist troops were massed for an expected Red offensive.

Withdraws by Nightfall

The strong force which crossed Parallel 38 Tuesday along a 10 mile stretch of the western front withdrew by nightfall under heavy fire.

In the air, American Sabre jets destroyed one Russian-type MIG-15 jet fighter and damaged two others Wednesday in a swirling dogfight near the Manchurian border.

Other allied planes ripped into Communist ground forces and supply lines. They destroyed four tanks, six trucks and five railroad cars in 270 sorties flown by noon.

From the central front came an ominous report that a large group of Reds was moving into the Communist buildup area north of 38.

Intelligence reports say there are now nearly 500,000 combat troops in this area, primed for the long-expected Red offensive. Korea's rainy spring weather and glue-like mud will favor the Reds. They may launch their greatest attack of the war any day now.

Fought Near Sinuiju

For the second straight day the big air battle was fought near Sinuiju south of the Yalu river. Twelve F-86 Sabre jets tangled with eight red-nosed MIGS. The Communists broke off and raced to refuge in their Manchurian sanctuary.

In two days Sabre jets have knocked down four MIGs and damaged seven others. No Allied losses have been reported. Official pictures raised Tuesday's toll to three destroyed and five damaged.

Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers hammered the Red transport network. Preliminary reports Wednesday showed 28 vehicles damaged or destroyed and several direct hits on the Sonchon rail yards.

Scattered Ground Fighting

There was scattered ground fighting on the western front, a brief skirmish was reported eight miles southwest of Yonchon and another eight miles southeast of

Tobey Would Question Fischetti Brothers About Gambling

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.) urged today a prompt reopening of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee's public hearings to question Charles and Rocco Fischetti.

The two Fischetti brothers, named by the committee as top leaders of the Capone Syndicate of Chicago, were placed under bond yesterday after they surrendered to Senate Sergeant-at-arms Joseph C. Duke.

"They are kingpins in the gambling world and could contribute a lot to the committee's information," Tobey told reporters.

Another top figure in the Capone mob, Murray L. (The Camel) Humphreys, also surrendered to Duke.

Array of 70 Booths Is Witnessed by Throng at Armory

An estimated 2,700 persons turned out for the first night of the Lions Club industrial, automobile show and mercantile exhibit at the state armory here Tuesday night. The exposition continues through Saturday night.

Crowds surged through the aisles to view the more than 70 exhibits, witness the opening events and the impressive flag presentation ceremonies. Lions Club officials were confident that this year's show, held a week later than last year's, will be even more successful from an attendance standpoint.

During the opening exercises, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk told those present that their attendance "enabled the Lions Club to continue the good work it is doing for the community."

The mayor gave his brief welcoming address after a patriotic opening in which the Color Guard of the Headquarters Battery, 156th Field Artillery, remained on the stage while the Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps sounded "To the Colors," followed by the playing of The Star Spangled Banner by Roger Baer at the organ. The invocation was given by the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, and Lions President C. Robert Cousins officially opened the exposition.

Flag Ceremony

The flag presentation ceremony at 8:45 p. m. featured 22 attractive Kingston High School students, each representing a country in which the Lions International maintains clubs. Two at a time, the girls in evening dress mounted the stage as a bugler sounded "To the Colors." Lawrence Jenson was master of ceremonies. When the Flag of the United States was presented, the entire assemblage joined in singing a verse of America.

The exposition lived up to its title, "Kingston Area on Parade," with exhibits ranging from automobiles and television sets to cash registers, paint and carpeting. The main floor of the drill shed was crammed full of exhibits, as was the gymnasium room.

11 Billions' Bid To Be Made for Foreign Aid Use

Administration Putting Bill in Final Shape for Presentation to Congress

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Congressional refusal to follow administration wishes on the troops-for-Europe and Indian grain issues has deeply worried officials who will soon ask Congress for a new $11,000,000,000 foreign aid program.

The huge aid bill, combining foreign military and economic assistance in a single measure for the first time, is now being put in final shape by the administration. President Truman is slated to send it to the Capitol late this month. It will contain provisions for an appropriation of about $7,500,000,000 for military assistance to foreign countries, mostly in Europe.

Administration officials have expected for a month or more that they would face a hard battle to win all they will ask.

But even though they were preparing for a fight, their analysis of present congressional sentiment has raised fresh doubt whether they can obtain all the authority and funds they consider necessary for building the defenses of the free world against Soviet power.

First Upset Comes

The first upset in their calculations came when Mr. Truman's request for $190,000,000 to furnish free grain to India met with stiff opposition in the House despite considerable bi-partisan support. It has been bogged down in the rules committee for several weeks.

Eventual passage is expected but only in some compromise form, possibly as a loan rather than a grant.

The second upset occurred Monday when the Senate, reversing itself, voted that if the president proposes to send to Europe any American troops beyond four divisions already planned he should ask Senate approval.

Specific Reasons

There are specific reasons applying to each of these two events. In the case of Indian grain, for example, Prime Minister Nehru of India has caused considerable resentment in Congress by his frequent criticism of American policy in Korea.

In the case of the troop resolution of the Senate, political experts generally agree that Mr. Trumna himself aroused resentment in some sections of the Senate by saying at a press conference early this year that he had authority to send divisions to Europe as he considered necessary, regardless of Congress' attitude.

Beyond such specific factors, however, responsible authorities are concerned about several general reasons which they believe have contributed to the present low state of administration relations with Congress.

One of these is said to be that many people throughout the country are worried about the general trend of the United States foreign policy.

College Draft Ruling

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Draft headquarters announced today that freshmen in the upper half, sophomores in the upper two-thirds and juniors in the upper three-fourths of their classes will be deferred during their next undergraduate years. These collegians may also rate a deferment by scoring 70 on the forthcoming aptitude tests, Selective Service said. Seniors planning graduate work will be deferred for a year if they either rank in the top half of their class or score 75 on the test. Selective service emphasized that students are not required to meet both qualifications. They get a deferment either by ranking in the top percentage of the class or by getting high enough a test score.

Mayor Wins Ballots

Kennelly Is Reelected in Chicago With Wide Margin

Chicago, April 4 (AP) — The Democratic Party's 20-year rule of Chicago's city hall remained unbroken today with the reelection of Mayor Martin H. Kennelly.

Kennelly won his second four-year term in yesterday's city election, defeating his Republican challenger, Robert L. Hunter, by 152,545 votes. He took the lead from the start and never trailed during the counting of the 1,265,074 votes cast.

Kennelly, the handsome, 63-year-old bachelor, polled 697,871 votes. Hunter, 52, a lawyer making his first bid for a major elective office, received 545,326 votes.

Cook Sells Agency To New Jersey Man

H. L. Barrows Purchases Lincoln-Mercury Business

The local Lincoln-Mercury dealership has been sold by George B. Cook, Inc., to Howard L. Barrows of Ridgewood, N. J., who will continue the business under the name Barrows Motors, Inc.

The transaction was completed Monday. The law firm of Cashin and Ewig represented Barrows and Attorney Harry Gold represented Cook.

Barrows Motors has been incorporated with Howard Barrows as president and secretary, and Mrs. Barrows as vice president and treasurer.

They plan to continue the business at its present location, 301 Broadway. Barrows said today that employes who worked for Cook will be continued in their positions.

Worked for General Motors

Barrows, 44, is a native of New Jersey, worked for General Motors Corporation, and for 16 years was in production control work with Wright Aeronautical Corporation at Paterson. He joined the Ford Motor Company in 1945 as an executive in the sales department, and served that company as a business manager, sales office manager and in other capacities. He left Ford in January of this year to establish himself in a Lincoln-Mercury dealership.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrows plan to rent or buy a home in Kingston when a suitable one is available, and they plan to be active in civic life. Barrows' chief hobby is golfing.

Council Passes Measures On Bond Issues, Takes Deeds

Found in Mountain With 16-Year-Old Who Charges Rape

McAlester, Okla., April 4 (AP)—Sixteen year old Jackie Parris was liberated early today from a 23-year old ex-convict who admitted to officers he abducted the girl and her high school skating date Sunday night.

The girl was found about 1 a. m. huddled beside a fire under a rock ledge atop Blue mountain in the San Bois range, nine miles south of Kinta. Kinta is 35 miles northeast of McAlester in eastern Oklahoma.

On the other side of the fire, his head buried in his hands, sat Robert M. Phillips. Pittsburg County Sheriff Bill Alexander had issued a warrant for his arrest on suspicion of kidnaping last night.

Phillips made no attempt to escape when a posse of 13 men led by Chester Palmer, Kinta sawmill operator, surrounded him. Phillips was unarmed except for a penknife.

Glad to see Posse

"I told him to stay where he was and not to make any trouble or we'd save the state some money," Palmer said. "The girl started crying and said she sure was glad to see us.

"I guess we got there about two hours too late. She said he took her into a tin pipeline shack about

Two-Thirds Vote Is Given on Bonds; Claims Are Referred

The Common Council last night enacted final legislation on B.P.W. and fire department bond issues, accepted deeds for the proposed Florence street extention and for the widening of two other streets.

Three Democratic and one Republican member of the council were absent, but the nine present were enough to carry a two-thirds vote as required on the bond issues.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel, (D) who had previously voted against the bond issue proposals, last night went along on the vote. Tenth Ward Alderman James J. Carroll, (D) who had formerly voted for the bond issues, also voted for them again.

The aldermen absent were John Buboltz, fourth ward; Charles Cole, 13th ward and J. Richard Smith, seventh ward, all Democrats, and Republican Alderman Robert C. Cullum, of the 12th ward.

The bond issues approved total $150,391.93 of which $75,000 is for street improvement, $55,391.93 for new public works department machinery and $20,000 for two new fire trucks; one for Cordts and the other for Rapid Hose company.

The council also provided for bond anticipation notes pending the sale of bonds with the exception of the amount for the fire trucks which are not expected to be delivered for some time.

A deed for property offered by Helen G. Garabrant for the extension of Florence street, and deeds by Harold and Viola Halwick and John W. and Eugenia Evans for other land for the widening of Colfax Place and Wilson avenue, were accepted by the council. Action on both was recommended at the March meeting of the Board of Public Works.

Came on Anniversary

Before voting on the Florence street deed, Alderman Radel said the council's vote favoring the proposed street extension came almost on the anniversary date of introduction of the proposal to the councilmen. Yesterday was the 364th day after the request was submitted, he said, and added, "I am very happy to vote for it."

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, informed the councilmen that legal work on the proposal entailed much work and there were 132 documents filed with the deed.

Elmer Carney, 79 Lincoln street, who had spent much time and effort in support of the proposed street extension, in a statement to a reporter said:

Thanks Kelly, Radel

"I want to thank all the members of the Common Council for their cooperation in passing the legislation for the extension of Florence street, and I particularly want to extend my gratitude to Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly for his fair mindedness in helping to obtain proper action,

Farm Man, 23, Says He Fired Gun Into Cabin; 4 Killed

Sheriff Says He Refuses to Give Reason for Shootings in Ozarks

Conway, Mo., April 4 (AP) — A 23-year-old farm man admitted pumping a volley of shots through an Ozarks farmhouse window and killing four persons.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham identified the farmer as Kenneth Essery who lives near the scene of the slayings.

Essery was arrested early today at his father's home in Conway.

The sheriff said Essery verbally admitted the shootings to him and Prosecuting Attorney John Hosmer.

The slayings occurred last night about four miles southeast of here in the Ozark hills of southern Missouri.

Four persons who responded to a call for aid from the farm family also were fired on. One of the four was wounded.

Reason Is Declined

The prosecuting attorney said Essery declined to give a reason for the shootings. Essery was undergoing further questioning.

First degree murder charges will be filed against Essery, the prosecutor said.

Hosmer quoted the youth as saying he always "got along" with the shooting victims, members of the family of William Shockley. He said Essery appeared quite calm, refusing under questioning to give any motive.

The dead were William Shockley, 43; his wife, Clara, 44; their daughter, Helen, 16, and Shockley's mother, Mrs. Gus Shockley, 73.

Six other Shockley children ranging in age from 10 months to 14 years were asleep in upstairs rooms.

Sheriff E. I. Cunningham said a .22 caliber rifle was used in the slayings.

Vetoes Two Auto Bills

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Governor Dewey has vetoed a bill that would have required motor vehicles manufactured after Jan. 1, 1954, to have windshield defrosters, if licensed in New York state. Dewey made no comment in rejecting the measure yesterday. Democratic Senator Harold I. Panken of Manhattan introduced the bill, which had the backing of the State Automobile Association. Dewey also vetoed a bill that would have increased from 96 to 102 inches the maximum width of buses permitted to operate wholly within cities and adjoining villages and towns.

34 Men Take Tests

Local Draft Board 18 (city) yesterday sent 34 men to Albany for preinduction examination. Local Board 19 (county) is scheduled to send a group for induction April 9, and another group for induction will be sent by Local Board 18 on April 12. Local Board 19 will send a group for preinduction examination on April 18.

Reds Offer Heavy Fight At Topyong

Attack Is Expected

Rain and Mud Seen Favorable to Chinese Assault

Tokyo, April 4 (AP)—An allied task force drove four miles north of the Red Korean border today against heavy Communist resistance.

A field dispatch said the task force met heavy Red mortar fire and some artillery fire near Topyong, four miles north of the border on the western front. But it drove ahead.

Another allied force nearby punched two miles into Red Korea in the Longpyong area.

Earlier reports said an American patrol had crossed Parallel 38 on the central front and routed Chinese Reds from two hills. The patrol was probing the outer areas of a huge Red buildup where almost one-half million Communist troops were massed for an expected Red offensive.

Withdraws by Nightfall

The strong force which crossed Parallel 38 Tuesday along a 10 mile stretch of the western front withdrew by nightfall under heavy fire.

In the air, American Sabre jets destroyed one Russian-type MIG-15 jet fighter and damaged two others Wednesday in a swirling dogfight near the Manchurian border.

Other allied planes ripped into Communist ground forces and supply lines. They destroyed four tanks, six trucks and five railroad cars in 270 sorties flown by noon.

From the central front came an ominous report that a large group of Reds was moving into the Communist buildup area north of 38.

Intelligence reports say there are now nearly 500,000 combat troops in this area, primed for the long-expected Red offensive. Korea's rainy spring weather and glue-like mud will favor the Reds. They may launch their greatest attack of the war any day now.

Fought Near Sinuiju

For the second straight day the big air battle was fought near Sinuiju south of the Yalu river. Twelve F-86 Sabre jets tangled with eight red-nosed MIGS. The Communists broke off and raced to refuge in their Manchurian sanctuary.

In two days Sabre jets have knocked down four MIGs and damaged seven others. No Allied losses have been reported. Official pictures raised Tuesday's toll to three destroyed and five damaged.

Fifth Air Force fighters and bombers hammered the Red transport network. Preliminary reports Wednesday showed 28 vehicles damaged or destroyed and several direct hits on the Sonchon rail yards.

Scattered Ground Fighting

There was scattered ground fighting on the western front, a brief skirmish was reported eight miles southwest of Yonchon and another eight miles southeast of

Reopening Sought

Tobey Would Question Fischetti Brothers About Gambling

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.) urged today a prompt reopening of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee's public hearings to question Charles and Rocco Fischetti.

The two Fischetti brothers, named by the committee as top leaders of the Capone Syndicate of Chicago, were placed under bond yesterday after they surrendered to Senate Sergeant-at-arms Joseph C. Duke.

"They are kingpins in the gambling world and could contribute a lot to the committee's information," Tobey told reporters.

Another top figure in the Capone mob, Murray L. (The Camel) Humphreys, also surrendered to Duke.

County Families Are Asked To Register With Red Cross

Ulster county families that suffered loss in Saturday morning's flood are invited to register at Red Cross chapter headquarters, 308 Clinton avenue for possible rehabilitation assistance.

A preliminary survey has resulted in an estimate of 50 families in the county that were affected by the flood. This estimate was described by Red Cross officials as "conservative."

Up to Tuesday afternoon, a total of 13 county families had already registered.

Rehabilitation, the second stage of Red Cross disaster relief work, is based upon need rather than loss and assistance is given after individual investigation of the families that register.

Mrs. Anne Cragin of Poughkeepsie, Eastern area disaster representative has arrived in this city, and will do case work for the local chapter and will remain in this area as long as the chapter needs her services.

Explaining the procedure for Red Cross assistance, Mrs. Cragin said that both a family's needs and its abilities to help itself are taken into account. Thus, a family with many children and in which the father may be unable to work due to disability would probably receive more assistance from Red Cross than one in which the father may be holding a good job.

The type of assistance varies greatly, Mrs. Cragin said. House repairs and rebuilding, medical expenses, clothing, furniture and appliances may be obtained if conditions warrant, she explained.

Assistance is not a loan, she said, but is considered a gift from the American people to those who suffered loss through no fault of their own. The cost of assistance is met not through governmental appropriation but from the money raised in the annual Red Cross fund drive, which was held only last month.

No cash is given directly to families, but a disbursing order is issued. Articles purchased through a disbursing order are obtained from merchants selected by the family in question, and in most cases the purchases are made locally, Mrs. Cragin said.

First stage in disaster relief, which is now being completed, consists in meeting the emergency needs of flood victims for such items as clothing, food and shelter. The first stage is accomplished in cooperation with other agencies without the complete individual investigation that is required in second-stage rehabilitation.

Ruth Miller Quits As Paper's Editor In McCormick Row

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth McCormick (Brazy) Miller has resigned as editor in charge of the Washington Times-Herald because, she says, of "a wrangle" with Col. Robert R. McCormick, the newspaper's president.

Mrs. Miller said the association with Colonel McCormick, her uncle, "has not been a wrangle until recently," and she added: "I respect his views but I do not feel he has given sufficient respect to mine."

Colonel McCormick, president and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, which owns the Times-Herald, said through the Tribune he would have no comment. He said he planned to come to Washington tonight to take charge of the Times-Herald.

Mrs. Miller became editor of the paper in August, 1949, at the age of 28. The Tribune had just bought it for $4,500,000 from seven Times-Herald executives to whom it had been willed by Mrs. Eleanor (Cissie) Patterson upon her death a year earlier. Mrs. Patterson was a cousin of Colonel McCormick.

Announces Resignation

Mrs. Miller announced her resignation in a notice posted yesterday in the Times-Herald office. She said she had tried unsuccessfully to buy the paper. Later she said in an interview in Chicago:

"I'm a little hot under the collar after verbally resigning to Colonel McCormick. I'm going to write out my resignation to F. M. Flynn, the chairman of the board of directors.

"I wanted the kind of independent control over general policy I thought I was guaranteed when I took the job, but I didn't get it."

She said she plans to continue in the newspaper business, and is in the market for a newspaper, preferably a metropolitan one. "I won't be anything but an independent publisher," she said. "I don't know where or when. . . ."

Didn't Get Backing

She said specifically she did not get the kind of backing she felt she should have in (1) combatting a suit filed by Columnist Drew Pearson charging the Times-Herald and others with restraint of trade, and (2) in a Senate subcommittee's investigation of last fall's Maryland senatorial race, for which the Times-Herald printed some material used in the successful campaign of Senator John M. Butler (R.-Md.).

"Differences may have resulted from the 40 years difference in our ages," Mrs. Miller continued. "I like all the people he likes but I like some more. Colonel McCormick has pretty much been stultifying my efforts."

Kingsley's Play Is Critics' Choice

New York, April 4 (AP)—Sidney Kingsley's dramatization of Arthur Koestler's novel, "Darkness at Noon," has been selected as the best American play of the year by the New York Drama Critics' Circle.

The Abe Burrows-Jo Swerling-Frank Loesser musical, "Guys and Dolls," was voted the best musical.

Christopher Fry's comedy in blank verse, "The Lady's Not for Burning," won first place in foreign awards. Fry is English.

"Darkness at Noon" won the accolade yesterday as the best American play although there was some discussion among the critics as to the eligibility of the play since Koestler is a Hungarian.

However, this anti-Soviet drama appeals to American audiences as well as audiences in other countries, the 25 critics decided in casting their votes.

"Darkness at Noon" received ten votes, two more than "Billy Budd"—which almost closed after its Feb. 10 opening because of poor critical reviews.

"Guys and Dolls" is based on Damon Runyon stories. It scored 17 votes with its closest rival, "The King and I," getting seven.

"The Lady's Not for Burning," a tale of medieval witchcraft, won 23 of the possible 25 votes.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 4, 1951

C. J. FLANAGAN

The death of Christopher J. Flanagan, Monday afternoon, removed from the membership of the Ulster County Bar Association one of its ablest attorneys, and from the ranks of local sportsmen one of the most ardent hunters and fishermen of the area.

Attorney Flanagan tried and won many important cases in his twenty-five years of practice, and was considered by colleagues in the legal profession as one of the keenest lawyers in New York state. Mr. Flanagan was also a member of the New York State Bar Association.

His judgment in matters pertaining to civic welfare was often sought by those holding high municipal posts, and they always found him ready and willing to cooperate. During the term of Mayor Eugene B. Carey, Attorney Flanagan served as corporation counsel.

Up until the time he was stricken by heart disease, Mr. Flanagan was a regular visitor to the hunting and fishing grounds of Ulster county. He took delight in relating experiences with fellow sportsmen, and those who had a chance to hear him delighted in his descriptions, which were always full of color. Chris Flanagan was as good a story teller as he was a lawyer and his associates delighted in hearing him, whenever he chose to tell about hooking prize beauties of the Catskill streams, or hunting anything from rabbits to bears.

Chris Flanagan will be missed by a legion of friends in all walks of life.

To some the formula for success comprises talking big without saying anything, making agreements without commitments, taking responsibility by passing the buck and making ten copies of everything. Any resemblance between this theory and any real situation is of course coincidental.

OBJECT OF THE GAME

Discussions at the annual convention of college basketball coaches revealed a deep concern about the gambling bribe scandals surrounding some prominent collegiate teams recently brought to light. One coach told the convention that as long as coaches teach that the committing of fouls in playing the game may sometimes be all right if the game is thereby won, coaches and others should not be surprised if the game is sometimes corrupted. A player who is taught that the sole object of the game is victory, for the sake of the advantages which come to a winning team, can be expected to be susceptible to an offer of more immediate advantage if the team loses.

Intercollegiate basketball, growing into a major crowd-drawing sport, is becoming subject to the criticisms which have been leveled at football. When a game is played for the sake of drawing great crowds so that there will be fat gate receipts and so that the prestige of an important team will attach to the college, then the constructive worth of the game as an education activity becomes very much in doubt. The game then must be played to win, and only to win, because huge crowds and fat receipts and wide prestige accrue only to a winning team.

Intercollegiate sports are defensible only if they contribute to education. It has always been argued that by taking part in these sports the young man or woman learns teamwork, fair play, the importance of rules, the ability to win or lose with equal grace, clean and healthful living. The game's the thing. If it isn't, the game is of no value to an institution of learning.

The citizen cannot afford to be either indifferent to public danger or hysterical about it. Like most extremes, one is as bad as the other.

CONTRIBUTE TO CANCER FUND

New York State didn't have a single death from typhoid in 1950, Governor Dewey reported in his annual message to the Legislature. Yet not so many years ago this disreaped a fearsome harvest of lives. ...mately the same victory may be won over cancer—or at least a large degree of victory. The American Cancer Society is dedicated to full-time war on this horrible disease. Right now it is conducting its annual fund campaign to further its research, educational and service work in the interest of humanity. One way you can join this fight to guard your family is through a contribution to the Cancer Crusade.

The discovery that the world is round is supposed to have been one of the great achievements. If taxes and prices keep going up, we may go back to the conclusion that it is flat.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

"NEITHER FIVE NOR THREE"

I do not have many opportunities to read novels, but once I started Helen MacInnes's "Neither Five Nor Three," I could not put it down.

This is a story that in a quiet, easy manner produces the process of the corruption of fine people by Communist conspirators who know what they are doing—and are really the only ones in the group who know what they are doing. They naturally go after youth, which is romantic, and after college boys and girls who have potentialities of trained usefulness.

I was most fascinated by the character of Thelma because I know her so well. She is the rich girl who lives on Park Avenue and sells her soul for another thrill. All her life she has been seeking thrills. She does not really contribute anything to life, except what money will buy, which, of course, is not too much.

Happiness she never finds. She is too active ever to be happy. She lacks the courage to stop chasing her tail, as the expression goes. If she stopped, she might have to look at herself, to become acquainted with herself, and to discover that there is nothing to her life but such biological activities which she pursues without knowing why. The thrills she seeks never satisfy her because she is only a spectator in an act, never a true participant.

I know such women. They usually possess inherited wealth, earned by decent, hard-working parents or grandparents of whom they are ashamed because they were not intellectuals. They often call themselves liberals and belong to everything. They join movements on the left and some of them have even become deeply involved in such obscenities as the theft of the atom bomb, by giving dinner parties at which the thieves met, their filthy plots to unfold.

They are not evil women; they are dupes and often dopes, although their parents sent them to the best universities where they came to know the insides of books but little of the cultivation of the spirit. They move from husband to husband, for men grow tired of wives whose minds have become so global that they do not recognize the dust on their own window-sills. Their children are abandoned to progressive educational methods which tend to distort their personalities by overemphasizing their faults.

In the end, such women grow wearisome, and even their many movements and societies and clubs seek younger blood. Their liberalism turns to communism, because when their minds are sufficiently dulled, they seek an orthodoxy different from the one they deserted in their youth. They want to be told what to believe and they accept the dictates of fools while rejecting the experience of ages. They accept disciplines from conspirators which they denied when counseled by their parents for good reasons.

Curious, I started discussing Miss MacInnes's novel, "Neither Five Nor Three," and wandered into a discussion of the so-called liberal woman who has become a pest in most communities, injecting alien ideas, projecting queer individuals and insisting upon her way or no way, often smearing and attacking those who differ, employing cliches to bring to heel those who thwart her will or ambitions, and always paying money for admission into the company she keeps.

Thelma plays only a short bit in this novel, but it held me and I considered a list of names to see if I could find the one Miss MacInness meant. But they are a type, and I cannot help wondering how our colleges came to produce these unhappy women. I meet them everywhere, but they proliferate best, I think, in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Perhaps it is because having divorced themselves from God, they have filled the void with nothing. And nature abhors a vacuum even more than the abnormalities of a cancerous growth. Thus, they become not only miserable, but reflect the ugliness of a degenerative spirit. They dare not know of the ministry of God; nor can a psychiatrist fill the void of their own making.

They are really tortured souls who in the end can only destroy everything about them as they have destroyed themselves. Their tastes become increasingly vulgar; their ideas increasingly sordid. For a while, sex is a refuge, but not for long. Then their souls die.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EMOTIONAL DISTURBANCES

A few years ago there was a dramatic story current of the misery suffered by "lonely" infants in a large New York city hospital and of how the nurses, in addition to their other duties, "cuddled up" those lonely infants (owing to the illness of the (mother) so comforting them that they were happy and slept well. I believe many who read it felt a tug on their heartstrings as they thought of these children.

That lonesomeness and other emotional disturbances can cause ailments and disorders in children is stated by Dr. R. A. Jensen in the Wisconsin Medical Journal. He gives histories of three different psychosomatic (emotions affecting the body processes) cases. The first child had symptoms of kidney or renal colic, an unusual ailment in children. After careful examination and use of X-ray, no cause could be found for the symptoms. Further investigaion revealed that the symptoms started when the child was upset during an attack of renal colic of her grandmother living in the home. She lost all her symptoms after she was shown that her grandmother's attack had so affected her emotions that she felt the same ailment.

The other cases were caused by anxiety states and fears and resulted in upsets of the stomach and intestine, the commonest ailments caused by emotional disturbances.

Another case was that of a boy with persistent bloody stools diagnosed as ulcerative colitis—inflammation of the lining of the colon. The boy had just recently witnessed a robbery in which a man was killed.

Dr. Jensen states that the fact that children can suffer from psychiatric (behavior) disorders is often overlooked. These disorders may be anxiety states, diabetes, allergies, fears and phobias, or other chronic conditions such as nausea, vomiting, undereating and overeating with or without loss or gain in weight.

Most recently it has been found that emotional disturbances can cause skin eruptions in children as well as adults.

Recognizing the fact that the emotions can affect the working body processes in children, treatment of emotional tension is the first thought in these cases.

'How's Business?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The Washington rumor factory is probably the most active and the most irresponsible in the world. Tales cooked up in Capitol Hill lobbies, the drawing-room of high society or in a taxi-cab conversation are spread as fact within a matter of hours.

The story that the late Franklin Roosevelt was insane and had to be chained to his bed at night was a good example. One confidential news agency believed it to the extent of relaying it to its many thousand customers.

Latest Washington canard is that Secretary of Defense George Marshall is in his dotage and unable to come to his office more than half a week.

On the contrary, I can state that Marshall, though 70, is probably in better health than before his kidney operation, gets to the office before 8 a. m., has the papers read and sent out of his office by around 8:20 a. m., and puts in a full six-day week, working even on Saturday.

This is a lot more than most executives do in Washington, New York, or anywhere else.

Marshall is alert, his memory is amazing, and he seems completely on the ball. Furthermore, Marshall has put the old uniform aside and is trying to run the Defense Department as a civilian. This writer had some skepticism about this phase of Marshall's new job when first appointed secretary of defense, but the skepticism appears not to have been justified.

Cattle-Feed Shortage

Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan had been at daggers' points over government farm policies for some time with the man he fired last week, Ralph Trigg, chief of production and marketing.

Main reason the ax fell was that the production of certain vital farm crops—chiefly cattle feed—is desperately behind our defense goals.

About 127,000,000 tons of grain will be needed to feed our greatly expanded population of beef cattle and hogs this year. However, farmers have planted or scheduled for planting only enough acres to produce 117,000,000 tons of feed grain.

Corn will be about 5,000,000 acres short of the 90,000,000-acre production goal fixed by Brannan—which Trigg was supposed to deliver. Plantings of barley are 1,600,000 acres behind schedule and sorghum grain about 500,000 acres short.

At the same time we have 4,000,000 more beef cattle and over 5,000,000 more hogs to feed this year than in 1950. The pinch may not be felt this year because of feed-grain reserves. However, with these reserves exhausted, we will face a serious cutback in cattle production for defense needs—and therefore a meat shortage—in 1952.

Manpower shortage on the farms is one reason—perhaps the chief one—for the failure to divert more grasslands to planting feed grain. Knowing that their sons and younger hired hands would be drafted, farmers have held back from planting too much corn, which takes a lot of labor to harvest. However, Trigg did little about importing labor from Mexico and elsewhere to fill the gap.

Note—While we have been suffering from a farm-labor shortage, British troops have had to put down riots in the British West Indies because of unemployment.

Washington Pipeline

Illustrating the Washington canard factory here is another I heard recently: "Drew Pearson has now sold out to Pan American Airways. He got a free trip to Europe with Pan American and is now in their pocket." . . . real fact is that I paid my way to Europe on Pan American as I have on every other airline—unlike Roy Howard, publisher of a great newspaper chain, who has been a Pan American "guest" all over the world. However, I do not hesitate to pay tribute to Pan American's efficient operation across the Atlantic. If its Washington lobbying were on as clean a basis as its overseas operation, I could find no fault with Pan Am. . . . The Senate Small Business Committee will investigate the Civil Aeronautics Board for trying to regulate small, unchartered airlines out of business. . . . Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has recommended tighter controls on farm prices and wages. He wants to freeze farm parity prices at the January 15 level, then abolish the wage escalator clause which permits wages to rise with prices. His proposal is to plug the wage loophole after June 30, 1951.

Presidential Pique

President Truman's pique and an economist's desire to throw off his New Deal label are back of the administration's tragic failure to clamp on price controls six months ago.

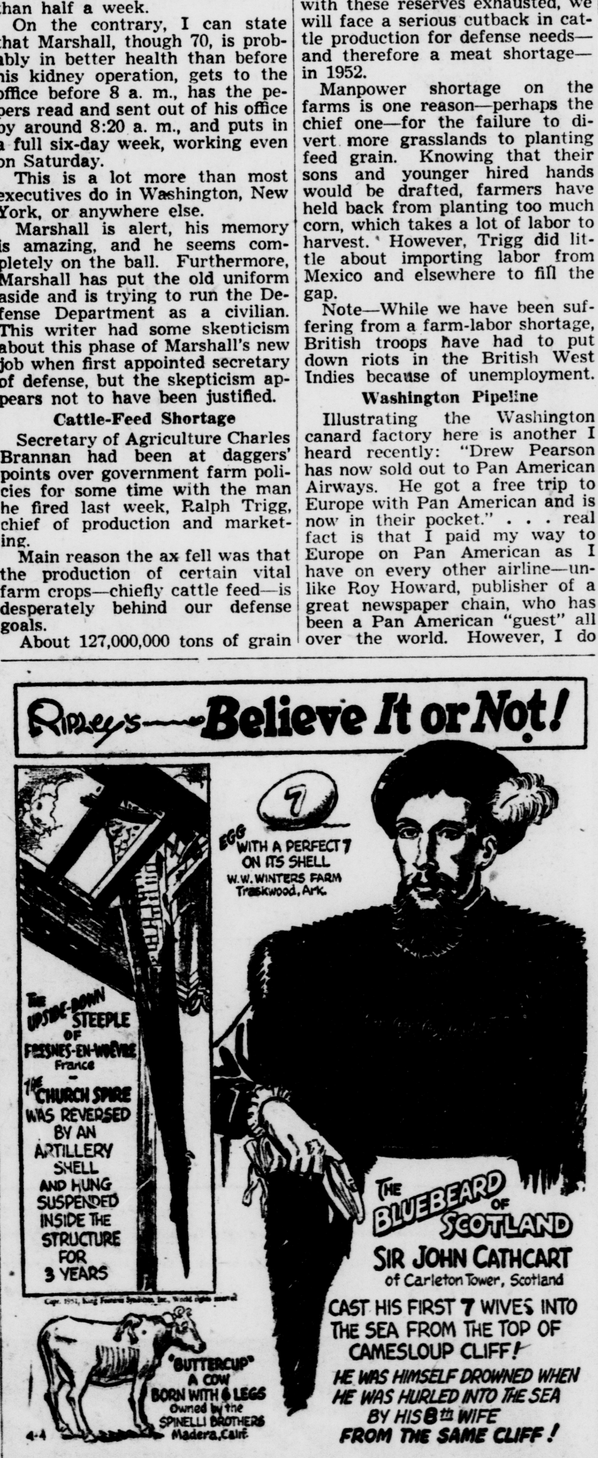

This never-told story starts last year when the elder statesman, Bernard Baruch, publicly came out for price controls.

Real truth was that the White House and National Security Resources Board were at that very time toying with the same idea. But when Mr. Truman heard that the white-haired New York financier was for price controls, he reversed himself. The President had put Baruch on his "S.O.B. list" when Bernie refused to serve on a Democratic committee in the 1948 elections, and Truman didn't want to be in the position of coming out for price controls just after Baruch did.

Another factor was the strong opposition to controls by Leon Keyserling, then acting chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. Keyserling, a former Department of Agriculture economist and assistant to Senator Bob Wagner, was being attacked by right wingers on Capitol Hill as a wild-eyed radical.

Keyserling, an able economist but subject to human ambitions, wanted to be named chairman of the council and gain acceptance as a middle-of-the-road adviser. And at that time he told both the President and Stuart Symington, chairman of the resources board, that controls were "unworkable." In one consultation with Symington, Keyserling argued that high prices would, in fact, be helpful by draining off excess purchasing power and its competition for goods, services and materials needed for rearmament.

The Bluebeard of Scotland, Sir John Cathcart of Carleton Tower, Scotland, considered "a catch of good lineage," drowned seven of his wives and was himself drowned by the eighth. After each marriage, just as soon as the dowry was paid over to him, he would take his new bride for a ride. The destination in each case was the top of the Cameslop Cliff, whence he would hurl the poor girl to her death in the sea. He succeeded with seven of his wives but when he tried to dispose of his eighth, Mary, daughter of Kenneth of Gulzean, she hurled him into the sea in 1468.

Congress Is Playing With Trouble in Question of Divisions for Europe

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4—Congress is playing with fire—with the safety of the United States itself. For the issue is not how many divisions shall go to Europe. Nor is it whether a President hereafter will send our troops abroad by an arbitrary decision, nor whether, if Congress is indifferent now, a chief executive may later acquire the powers of a military dictatorship.

Those questions are important but not really the controlling ones. The controlling issue is how best to keep World War III from American territory, as was the case in both World War I and World War II.

Having committed itself to meet the aggressor in his tracks—to stop him before he gets to America—the United States, through the North Atlantic Treaty, ratified by more than two-thirds of the Senate, has already adopted a major military policy.

This policy, to be effective at all, necessarily grants to the President, as the commander-in-chief of our armed forces, the right to take instant action to repel an attack without debating the issue on Capitol Hill. The same principle which gives the President the right to act for the people to repel an attack gives him the right to send troops abroad to prevent that attack from arising—to place a sufficient military force in areas that can threaten a counter-action, and thus perhaps prevent any hostilities from arising.

The debate that has developed results from a natural conflict between the historically ingrained principle of constitutionalism, which says that Congress alone may declare war, and the new principle of a 1951 emergency period when an atomic-bomb raid can at any moment begin the attack and afford no opportunity for a President to ask authority from Congress to use the armed forces as a counter-threat in advance.

It will be conceded by the proponents and opponents in the present controversy in Congress that, if a large-scale war broke out, the President would have to ask Congress to declare a state of war or by resolution to recognize the existence of a state of war with enemy countries.

There is little objection to the president's taking the initiative in emergency steps when war breaks out and thereafter going to Congress for a ratifying resolution. This should have been done last June when an American army was ordered into Korea. It was wrong for the president to have failed to ask Congress immediately for ratification of what he had done in ordering our armed forces into Korea.

But it is equally wrong for Congress to insist that, before a military step of importance can be taken in the future—either in resisting an enemy or getting our troops to Europe to anticipate an enemy attack—it should be necessary for the president to run the risks of prolonged debate in both Houses. To insist even an consultation beforehand with Congressional committees could mean a serious delay that might be fatal to the safety of the United States.

The clear-cut way for those who do not want troops sent to Europe is to propose a resolution to abrogate the North Atlantic treaty. A showdown on this would defeat such a resolution.

The clear-cut way for those who do want troops to go to Europe now to prepare for an attack in the indeterminate future and to collaborate with our allies abroad in building up enough military strength to prevent a big war from breaking out is to submit a simple resolution stating that, under the existing treaty, it is the obligation of the United States to send troops to Europe, with the decision as to the number and disposition thereof to be vested soley in the president — which means, of course, the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, for they are his principal military advisers.

Such a resolution would clarify the atmosphere and force a showdown in which partisanship would be bound to be detected and the issue would be decided soley on the question of national safety.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Gen. Lucius D. Clay has been driven out of the Office of Defense Mobilization by a group of lawless, irresponsible union goons who profess to represent "labor," although they have no credentials from the sixty million citizens who constitute the true body of American labor. Gen. Clay, a man of experience and competence, would have been invaluable in reconciling the needs of military and civilian industry and apportioning production between them.

The union bosses have an unblemished record of obstruction of production and wanton exploitation of the suffering and necessity of our fighting forces and our civilians. The result of their interference has been loss of life, efficiency, time and money in World War II, and in the Korean war to date these bosses, who have been trying to muscle into the present program for their own selfish interests, are still trying to get Charles E. Wilson, the director of mobilization.

In this conspiracy they enjoy the guilty cooperation of crooked journalists of the corrupt Washington corps who are, in fact, faithless propagandists of the Marxian program which the unions are trying to impose on this republic. Confused by newspapers which, with conscious guilt, have spread the fiction that the unioneers are "leaders" and "spokesmen" of "labor," the public was unable to rally behind Gen. Clay and frustrate this coup. The same causes may permit the elimination of Mr. Wilson.

A man of high authority has authorized a document which, by strong implication, exhorts President Truman to end the reign of the ugly, thieving brutes who slugged and shot their way to power, pillaged great factories, conspired with traitorous Communists, exploited the terrible national crisis of World War II and made the greatest single contribution to the inflation of today.

This challenge to the boss goons of the terror is much too long to be summarized in one instalment of these dispatches so I will continue the publication tomorrow. In both pieces I will telescope the language without tampering with the epochal meaning. I cannat at this time, however, reveal the author's name. It is significant that nowhere in this text are the boss unioneers referred to as "labor leaders."

The document is entitled, "Significance of Union Officials' Revolt Against Truman Mobilization Program."

"The twin objectives of our mobilization effort are the increase of production and the prevention of inflation," the document begins.

"We have to increase production enough to supply both military and civilian needs with fewer people to do it. We need longer hours and more output per man-hour resulting from improved facilities supplied by management and from greater skill, care and effort supplied by workers. Inflation can destroy our freedom and our material and spiritual well-being. The basic cause of rising prices is creating, and leaving in people's hands, more money than there are goods to match. Further inflation can be prevented only by keeping extra money, not matched by consumer goods, from being available for consumer spending. The objective of the mobilization is to prepare against defeat in battle and to keep from getting licked at home by ourselves through inflation.

"The objectives of the union officials are completely opposite and contrary to the mobilization objectives. In peacetime, union officials do not increase production. They resist increase. Now they are especially interested in seeing how much they can get paid for not interfering. With rare exceptions, union officials spend their careers either interfering with production or in collecting money for not interfering. Union officials welcome war because of the super seller's market on labor and because of the higher wages which non-interference with production can then command from the public in the form of further political and economic power over workers, employers, government and the public.

"War inflation is given a short-sighted welcome by too many people including too many business men. Too many politicians have liked inflation, but inflation is popular with union officials most of all. The rising costs gives them a presumed justification for demanding pay increases to bring wages even with the new inflation, which has been caused by previous raises, along with other bad economic policies.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 4, 1951

C. J. FLANAGAN

The death of Christopher J. Flanagan, Monday afternoon, removed from the membership of the Ulster County Bar Association one of its ablest attorneys, and from the ranks of local sportsmen one of the most ardent hunters and fishermen of the area.

Attorney Flanagan tried and won many important cases in his twenty-five years of practice, and was considered by colleagues in the legal profession as one of the keenest lawyers in New York state. Mr. Flanagan was also a member of the New York State Bar Association.

His judgment in matters pertaining to civic welfare was often sought by those holding high municipal posts, and they always found him ready and willing to cooperate. During the term of Mayor Eugene B. Carey, Attorney Flanagan served as corporation counsel.

Up until the time he was stricken by heart disease, Mr. Flanagan was a regular visitor to the hunting and fishing grounds of Ulster county. He took delight in relating experiences with fellow sportsmen, and those who had a chance to hear him delighted in his descriptions, which were always full of color. Chris Flanagan was as good a story teller as he was a lawyer and his associates delighted in hearing him, whenever he chose to tell about hooking prize beauties of the Catskill streams, or hunting anything from rabbits to bears.

Chris Flanagan will be missed by a legion of friends in all walks of life.

To some the formula for success comprises talking big without saying anything, making agreements without commitments, taking responsibility by passing the buck and making ten copies of everything. Any resemblance between this theory and any real situation is of course coincidental.

OBJECT OF THE GAME

Discussions at the annual convention of college basketball coaches revealed a deep concern about the gambling bribe scandals surrounding some prominent collegiate teams recently brought to light. One coach told the convention that as long as coaches teach that the committing of fouls in playing the game may sometimes be all right if the game is thereby won, coaches and others should not be surprised if the game is sometimes corrupted. A player who is taught that the sole object of the game is victory, for the sake of the advantages which come to a winning team, can be expected to be susceptible to an offer of more immediate advantage if the team loses.

Intercollegiate basketball, growing into a major crowd-drawing sport, is becoming subject to the criticisms which have been leveled at football. When a game is played for the sake of drawing great crowds so that there will be fat gate receipts and so that the prestige of an important team will attach to the college, then the constructive worth of the game as an education activity becomes very much in doubt. The game then must be played to win, and only to win, because huge crowds and fat receipts and wide prestige accrue only to a winning team.

Intercollegiate sports are defensible only if they contribute to education. It has always been argued that by taking part in these sports the young man or woman learns teamwork, fair play, the importance of rules, the ability to win or lose with equal grace, clean and healthful living. The game's the thing. If it isn't, the game is of no value to an institution of learning.

The citizen cannot afford to be either indifferent to public danger or hysterical about it. Like most extremes, one is as bad as the other.

EMOTIONAL DISTURBANCES

A few years ago there was a dramatic story current of the misery suffered by "lonely" infants in a large New York city hospital and of how the nurses, in addition to their other duties, "cuddled up" those lonely infants (owing to the illness of the (mother) so comforting them that they were happy and slept well. I believe many who read it felt a tug on their heartstrings as they thought of these children.

That lonesomeness and other emotional disturbances can cause ailments and disorders in children is stated by Dr. R. A. Jensen in the Wisconsin Medical Journal. He gives histories of three different psychosomatic (emotions affecting the body processes) cases. The first child had symptoms of kidney or renal colic, an unusual ailment in children. After careful examination and use of X-ray, no cause could be found for the symptoms. Further investigaion revealed that the symptoms started when the child was upset during an attack of renal colic of her grandmother living in the home. She lost all her symptoms after she was shown that her grandmother's attack had so affected her emotions that she felt the same ailment.

The other cases were caused by anxiety states and fears and resulted in upsets of the stomach and intestine, the commonest ailments caused by emotional disturbances.

Another case was that of a boy with persistent bloody stools diagnosed as ulcerative colitis—inflammation of the lining of the colon. The boy had just recently witnessed a robbery in which a man was killed.

Dr. Jensen states that the fact that children can suffer from psychiatric (behavior) disorders is often overlooked. These disorders may be anxiety states, diabetes, allergies, fears and phobias, or other chronic conditions such as nausea, vomiting, undereating and overeating with or without loss or gain in weight.

Most recently it has been found that emotional disturbances can cause skin eruptions in children as well as adults.

Recognizing the fact that the emotions can affect the working body processes in children, treatment of emotional tension is the first thought in these cases.

'How's Business?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The Washington rumor factory is probably the most active and the most irresponsible in the world. Tales cooked up in Capitol Hill lobbies, the drawing-room of high society or in a taxi-cab conversation are spread as fact within a matter of hours.

The story that the late Franklin Roosevelt was insane and had to be chained to his bed at night was a good example. One confidential news agency believed it to the extent of relaying it to its many thousand customers.

Latest Washington canard is that Secretary of Defense George Marshall is in his dotage and unable to come to his office more than half a week.

On the contrary, I can state that Marshall, though 70, is probably in better health than before his kidney operation, gets to the office before 8 a. m., has the pepers read and sent out of his office by around 8:20 a. m., and puts in a full six-day week, working even on Saturday.

This is a lot more than most executives do in Washington, New York, or anywhere else.

Marshall is alert, his memory is amazing, and he seems completely on the ball. Furthermore, Marshall has put the old uniform aside and is trying to run the Defense Department as a civilian. This writer had some skepticism about this phase of Marshall's new job when first appointed secretary of defense, but the skepticism appears not to have been justified.

Cattle-Feed Shortage

Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan had been at daggers' points over government farm policies for some time with the man he fired last week, Ralph Trigg, chief of production and marketing.

Main reason the ax fell was that the production of certain vital farm crops—chiefly cattle feed—is desperately behind our defense goals.

About 127,000,000 tons of grain will be needed to feed our greatly expanded population of beef cattle and hogs this year. However, farmers have planted or scheduled for planting only enough acres to produce 117,000,000 tons of feed grain.

Corn will be about 5,000,000 acres short of the 90,000,000-acre production goal fixed by Brannan —which Trigg was supposed to deliver. Plantings of barley are 1,600,000 acres behind schedule and sorghum grain about 500,000 acres short.

At the same time we have 4,000,000 more beef cattle and over 5,000,000 more hogs to feed this year than in 1950. The pinch may not be felt this year because of feed-grain reserves. However, with these reserves exhausted, we will face a serious cutback in cattle production for defense needs—and therefore a meat shortage—in 1952.

Manpower shortage on the farms is one reason—perhaps the chief one—for the failure to divert more grasslands to planting feed grain. Knowing that their sons and younger hired hands would be drafted, farmers have held back from planting too much corn, which takes a lot of labor to harvest. However, Trigg did little about importing labor from Mexico and elsewhere to fill the gap.

Note—While we have been suffering from a farm-labor shortage, British troops have had to put down riots in the British West Indies because of unemployment.

Washington Pipeline

Illustrating the Washington canard factory here is another I heard recently: "Drew Pearson has now sold out to Pan American Airways. He got a free trip to Europe with Pan American and is now in their pocket." . . . real fact is that I paid my way to Europe on Pan American as I have on every other airline—unlike Roy Howard, publisher of a great newspaper chain, who has been a Pan American "guest" all over the world. However, I do not hesitate to pay tribute to Pan American's efficient operation across the Atlantic. If its Washington lobbying were on as clean a basis as its overseas operation, I could find no fault with Pan Am. . . . The Senate Small Business Committee will investigate the Civil Aeronautics Board for trying to regulate small, unchartered airlines out of business. . . . Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has recommended tighter controls on farm prices and wages. He wants to freeze farm parity prices at the January 15 level, then abolish the wage escalator clause which permits wages to rise with prices. His proposal is to plug the wage loophole after June 30, 1951.

Presidential Pique

President Truman's pique and an economist's desire to throw off his New Deal label are back of the administration's tragic failure to clamp on price controls six months ago.

This never-told story starts last year when the elder statesman, Bernard Baruch, publicly came out for price controls.

Real truth was that the White House and National Security Resources Board were at that very time toying with the same idea. But when Mr. Truman heard that the white-haired New York financier was for price controls, he reversed himself. The President had put Baruch on his "S.O.B. list" when Bernie refused to serve on a Democratic committee in the 1948 elections, and Truman didn't want to be in the position of coming out for price controls just after Baruch did.

Another factor was the strong opposition to controls by Leon Keyserling, then acting chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. Keyserling, a former Department of Agriculture economist and assistant to Senator Bob Wagner, was being attacked by right wingers on Capitol Hill as a wild-eyed radical.

Keyserling, an able economist but subject to human ambitions, wanted to be named chairman of the council and gain acceptance as a middle-of-the-road adviser. And at that time he told both the President and Stuart Symington, chairman of the resources board, that controls were "unworkable." In one consultation with Symington, Keyserling argued that high prices would, in fact, be helpful by draining off excess purchasing power and its competition for goods, services and materials needed for rearmament.

Congress Is Playing With Trouble in Question of Divisions for Europe

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4—Congress is playing with fire—with the safety of the United States itself. For the issue is not how many divisions shall go to Europe. Nor is it whether a President hereafter will send our troops abroad by an arbitrary decision, nor whether, if Congress is indifferent now, a chief executive may later acquire the powers of a military dictatorship.

Those questions are important but not really the controlling ones. The controlling issue is how best to keep World War III from American territory, as was the case in both World War I and World War II.

Having committed itself to meet the aggressor in his tracks —to stop him before he gets to America—the United States, through the North Atlantic Treaty, ratified by more than two-thirds of the Senate, has already adopted a major military policy.

This policy, to be effective at all, necessarily grants to the President, as the commander-in-chief of our armed forces, the right to take instant action to repel an attack without debating the issue on Capitol Hill. The same principle which gives the President the right to act for the people to repel an attack gives him the right to send troops abroad to prevent that attack from arising—to place a sufficient military force in areas that can threaten a counter-action, and thus perhaps prevent any hostilities from arising.

The debate that has developed results from a natural conflict between the historically ingrained principle of constitutionalism, which says that Congress alone may declare war, and the new principle of a 1951 emergency period when an atomic-bomb raid can at any moment begin the attack and afford no opportunity for a President to ask authority from Congress to use the armed forces as a counter-threat in advance.

It will be conceded by the proponents and opponents in the present controversy in Congress that, if a large-scale war broke out, the President would have to ask Congress to declare a state of war or by resolution to recognize the existence of a state of war with enemy countries.

There is little objection to the president's taking the initiative in emergency steps when war breaks out and thereafter going to Congress for a ratifying resolution. This should have been done last June when an American army was ordered into Korea. It was wrong for the president to have failed to ask Congress immediately for ratification of what he had done in ordering our armed forces into Korea.

But it is equally wrong for Congress to insist that, before a military step of importance can be taken in the future—either in resisting an enemy or getting our troops to Europe to anticipate an enemy attack—it should be necessary for the president to run the risks of prolonged debate in both Houses. To insist even an consultation beforehand with Congressional committees could mean a serious delay that might be fatal to the safety of the United States.

The clear-cut way for those who do not want troops sent to Europe is to propose a resolution to abrogate the North Atlantic treaty. A showdown on this would defeat such a resolution.

The clear-cut way for those who do want troops to go to Europe now to prepare for an attack in the indeterminate future and to collaborate with our allies abroad in building up enough military strength to prevent a big war from breaking out is to submit a simple resolution stating that, under the existing treaty, it is the obligation of the United States to send troops to Europe, with the decision as to the number and disposition thereof to be vested soley in the president — which means, of course, the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, for they are his principal military advisers.

Such a resolution would clarify the atmosphere and force a showdown in which partisanship would be bound to be detected and the issue would be decided soley on the question of national safety.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Gen. Lucius D. Clay has been driven out of the Office of Defense Mobilization by a group of lawless, irresponsible union goons who profess to represent "labor," although they have no credentials from the sixty million citizens who constitute the true body of American labor. Gen. Clay, a man of experience and competence, would have been invaluable in reconciling the needs of military and civilian industry and apportioning production between them.

The union bosses have an unblemished record of obstruction of production and wanton exploitation of the suffering and necessity of our fighting forces and our civilians. The result of their interference has been loss of life, efficiency, time and money in World War II, and in the Korean war to date these bosses, who have been trying to muscle into the present program for their own selfish interests, are still trying to get Charles E. Wilson, the director of mobilization.

In this conspiracy they enjoy the guilty cooperation of crooked journalists of the corrupt Washington corps who are, in fact, faithless propagandists of the Marxian program which the unions are trying to impose on this republic. Confused by newspapers which, with conscious guilt, have spread the fiction that the unioneers are "leaders" and "spokesmen" of "labor," the public was unable to rally behind Gen. Clay and frustrate this coup. The same causes may permit the elimination of Mr. Wilson.

A man of high authority has authorized a document which, by strong implication, exhorts President Truman to end the reign of the ugly, thieving brutes who slugged and shot their way to power, pillaged great factories, conspired with traitorous Communists, exploited the terrible national crisis of World War II and made the greatest single contribution to the inflation of today.

This challenge to the boss goons of the terror is much too long to be summarized in one instalment of these dispatches so I will continue the publication tomorrow. In both pieces I will telescope the language without tampering with the epochal meaning. I cannat at this time, however, reveal the author's name. It is significant that nowhere in this text are the boss unioneers referred to as "labor leaders."

The document is entitled, "Significance of Union Officials' Revolt Against Truman Mobilization Program."

"The twin objectives of our mobilization effort are the increase of production and the prevention of inflation," the document begins.

"We have to increase production enough to supply both military and civilian needs with fewer people to do it. We need longer hours and more output per man-hour resulting from improved facilities supplied by management and from greater skill, care and effort supplied by workers. Inflation can destroy our freedom and our material and spiritual wellbeing. The basic cause of rising prices is creating, and leaving in people's hands, more money than there are goods to match. Further inflation can be prevented only by keeping extra money, not matched by consumer goods, from being available for consumer spending. The objective of the mobilization is to prepare against defeat in battle and to keep from getting licked at home by ourselves through inflation.

"The objectives of the union officials are completely opposite and contrary to the mobilization objectives. In peacetime, union officials do not increase production. They resist increase. Now they are especially interested in seeing how much they can get paid for not interfering. With rare exceptions, union officials spend their careers either interfering with production or in collecting money for not interfering. Union officials welcome war because of the super seller's market on labor and because of the higher wages which non-interference with production can then command from the public in the form of further political and economic power over workers, employers, government and the public.

"War inflation is given a short-sighted welcome by too many people including too many business men. Too many politicians have liked inflation, but inflation is popular with union officials most of all. The rising costs gives them a presumed justification for demanding pay increases to bring wages even with the new inflation, which has been caused by previous raises, along with other bad economic policies.

Ripley's—Believe It or Not!

The Bluebeard of Scotland, Sir John Cathcart of Carleton Tower, Scotland, considered "a catch of good lineage," drowned seven of his wives and was himself drowned by the eighth. After each marriage, just as soon as the dowry was paid over to him, he would take his new bride for a ride. The destination in each case was the top of the Cameslop Cliff, whence he would hurl the poor girl to her death in the sea. He succeeded with seven of his wives but when he tried to dispose of his eighth, Mary, daughter of Kenneth of Gulzean, she hurled him into the sea in 1469.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 4, 1951

C. J. FLANAGAN

The death of Christopher J. Flanagan, Monday afternoon, removed from the membership of the Ulster County Bar Association one of its ablest attorneys, and from the ranks of local sportsmen one of the most ardent hunters and fishermen of the area.

Attorney Flanagan tried and won many important cases in his twenty-five years of practice, and was considered by colleagues in the legal profession as one of the keenest lawyers in New York state. Mr. Flanagan was also a member of the New York State Bar Association.

His judgment in matters pertaining to civic welfare was often sought by those holding high municipal posts, and they always found him ready and willing to cooperate. During the term of Mayor Eugene B. Carey, Attorney Flanagan served as corporation counsel.

Up until the time he was stricken by heart disease, Mr. Flanagan was a regular visitor to the hunting and fishing grounds of Ulster county. He took delight in relating experiences with fellow sportsmen, and those who had a chance to hear him delighted in his descriptions, which were always full of color. Chris Flanagan was as good a story teller as he was a lawyer and his associates delighted in hearing him, whenever he chose to tell about hooking prize beauties of the Catskill streams, or hunting anything from rabbits to bears.

Chris Flanagan will be missed by a legion of friends in all walks of life.

To some the formula for success comprises talking big without saying anything, making agreements without commitments, taking responsibility by passing the buck and making ten copies of everything. Any resemblance between this theory and any real situation is of course coincidental.

OBJECT OF THE GAME

Discussions at the annual convention of college basketball coaches revealed a deep concern about the gambling bribe scandals surrounding some prominent collegiate teams recently brought to light. One coach told the convention that as long as coaches teach that the committing of fouls in playing the game may sometimes be all right if the game is thereby won, coaches and others should not be surprised if the game is sometimes corrupted. A player who is taught that the sole object of the game is victory, for the sake of the advantages which come to a winning team, can be expected to be susceptible to an offer of more immediate advantage if the team loses.

Intercollegiate basketball, growing into a major crowd-drawing sport, is becoming subject to the criticisms which have been leveled at football. When a game is played for the sake of drawing great crowds so that there will be fat gate receipts and so that the prestige of an important team will attach to the college, then the constructive worth of the game as an education activity becomes very much in doubt. The game then must be played to win, and only to win, because huge crowds and fat receipts and wide prestige accrue only to a winning team.

Intercollegiate sports are defensible only if they contribute to education. It has always been argued that by taking part in these sports the young man or woman learns teamwork, fair play, the importance of rules, the ability to win or lose with equal grace, clean and healthful living. The game's the thing. If it isn't, the game is of no value to an institution of learning.

The citizen cannot afford to be either indifferent to public danger or hysterical about it. Like most extremes, one is as bad as the other.

CONTRIBUTE TO CANCER FUND

New York State didn't have a single death from typhoid in 1950, Governor Dewey reported in his annual message to the Legislature. Yet not so many years ago this dis- reaped a fearsome harvest of lives. ...mately the same victory may be won over cancer—or at least a large degree of victory. The American Cancer Society is dedicated to full-time war on this horrible disease. Right now it is conducting its annual fund campaign to further its research, educational and service work in the interest of humanity. One way you can join this fight to guard your family is through a contribution to the Cancer Crusade.

The discovery that the world is round is supposed to have been one of the great achievements. If taxes and prices keep going up, we may go back to the conclusion that it is flat.

'These Days'

"NEITHER FIVE NOR THREE"

I do not have many opportunities to read novels, but once I started Helen MacInnes's "Neither Five Nor Three," I could not put it down.

This is a story that in a quiet, easy manner produces the process of the corruption of fine people by Communist conspirators who know what they are doing—and are really the only ones in the group who know what they are doing. They naturally go after youth, which is romantic, and after college boys and girls who have potentialities of trained usefulness.

I was most fascinated by the character of Thelma because I know her so well. She is the rich girl who lives on Park Avenue and sells her soul for another thrill. All her life she has been seeking thrills. She does not really contribute anything to life, except what money will buy, which, of course, is not too much.

Happiness she never finds. She is too active ever to be happy. She lacks the courage to stop chasing her tail, as the expression goes. If she stopped, she might have to look at herself, to become acquainted with herself, and to discover that there is nothing to her life but such biological activities which she pursues without knowing why. The thrills she seeks never satisfy her because she is only a spectator in an act, never a true participant.

I know such women. They usually possess inherited wealth, earned by decent, hard-working parents or grandparents of whom they are ashamed because they were not intellectuals. They often call themselves liberals and belong to everything. They join movements on the left and some of them have even become deeply involved in such obscenities as the theft of the atom bomb, by giving dinner parties at which the thieves met, their filthy plots to unfold.

They are not evil women; they are dupes and often dopes, although their parents sent them to the best universities where they came to know the insides of books but little of the cultivation of the spirit. They move from husband to husband, for men grow tired of wives whose minds have become so global that they do not recognize the dust on their own window-sills. Their children are abandoned to progressive educational methods which tend to distort their personalities by overemphasizing their faults.

In the end, such women grow wearisome, and even their many movements and societies and clubs seek younger blood. Their liberalism turns to communism, because when their minds are sufficiently dulled, they seek an orthodoxy different from the one they deserted in their youth. They want to be told what to believe and they accept the dictates of fools while rejecting the experience of ages. They accept disciplines from conspirators which they denied when counseled by their parents for good reasons.

Curious, I started discussing Miss MacInnes's novel, "Neither Five Nor Three," and wandered into a discussion of the so-called liberal woman who has become a pest in most communities, injecting alien ideas, projecting queer individuals and insisting upon her way or no way, often smearing and attacking those who differ, employing cliches to bring to heel those who thwart her will or ambitions, and always paying money for admission into the company she keeps.

Thelma plays only a short bit in this novel, but it held me and I considered a list of names to see if I could find the one Miss MacInness meant. But they are a type, and I cannot help wondering how our colleges came to produce these unhappy women. I meet them everywhere, but they proliferate best, I think, in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Perhaps it is because having divorced themselves from God, they have filled the void with nothing. And nature abhors a vacuum even more than the abnormalities of a cancerous growth. Thus, they become not only miserable, but reflect the ugliness of a degenerative spirit. They dare not know of the ministry of God; nor can a psychiatrist fill the void of their own making.

They are really tortured souls who in the end can only destroy everything about them as they have destroyed themselves. Their tastes become increasingly vulgar; their ideas increasingly sordid. For a while, sex is a refuge, but not for long. Then their souls die.

He got a free trip to Europe with Pan American and is now in their pocket." . . . real fact is that I paid my way to Europe on Pan American as I have on every other airline—unlike Roy Howard, publisher of a great newspaper chain, who has been a Pan American "guest" all over the world. However, I do not hesitate to pay tribute to Pan American's efficient operation across the Atlantic. If its Washington lobbying were on as clean a basis as its overseas operation, I could find no fault with Pan Am. . . . The Senate Small Business Committee will investigate the Civil Aeronautics Board for trying to regulate small, unchartered airlines out of business. . . . Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston has recommended tighter controls on farm prices and wages. He wants to freeze farm parity prices at the January 15 level, then abolish the wage escalator clause which permits wages to rise with prices. His proposal is to plug the wage loophole after June 30, 1951.

Presidential Pique

President Truman's pique and an economist's desire to throw off his New Deal label are back of the administration's tragic failure to clamp on price controls six months ago.

This never-told story starts last year when the elder statesman, Bernard Baruch, publicly came out for price controls.

Real truth was that the White House and National Security Resources Board were at that very time toying with the same idea. But when Mr. Truman heard that the white-haired New York financier was for price controls, he reversed himself. The President had put Baruch on his "S.O.B. list" when Bernie refused to serve on a Democratic committee in the 1948 elections, and Truman didn't want to be in the position of coming out for price controls just after Baruch did.

Another factor was the strong opposition to controls by Leon Keyserling, then acting chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. Keyserling, a former Department of Agriculture economist and assistant to Senator Bob Wagner, was being attacked by right wingers on Capitol Hill as a wild-eyed radical.

Keyserling, an able economist but subject to human ambitions, wanted to be named chairman of the council and gain acceptance as a middle-of-the-road adviser. And at that time he told both the President and Stuart Symington, chairman of the resources board, that controls were "unworkable." In one consultation with Symington, Keyserling argued that high prices would, in fact, be helpful by draining off excess purchasing power and its competition for goods, services and materials needed for rearmament.

The Bluebeard of Scotland, Sir John Cathcart of Carleton Tower, Scotland, considered "a catch of good lineage," drowned seven of his wives and was himself drowned by the eighth. After each marriage, just as soon as the dowry was paid over to him, he would take his new bride for a ride. The destination in each case was the top of the Cameslop Cliff, whence he would hurl the poor girl to her death in the sea. He succeeded with seven of his wives but when he tried to dispose of his eighth, Mary, daughter of Kenneth of Gulzean, she hurled him into the sea in 1489.

Congress Is Playing With Trouble in Question of Divisions for Europe

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 4—Congress is playing with fire—with the safety of the United States itself. For the issue is not how many divisions shall go to Europe. Nor is it whether a President hereafter will send our troops abroad by an arbitrary decision, nor whether, if Congress is indifferent now, a chief executive may later acquire the powers of a military dictatorship.

Those questions are important but not really the controlling ones. The controlling issue is how best to keep World War III from American territory, as was the case in both World War I and World War II.

Having committed itself to meet the aggressor in his tracks —to stop him before he gets to America—the United States, through the North Atlantic Treaty, ratified by more than two-thirds of the Senate, has already adopted a major military policy.

This policy, to be effective at all, necessarily grants to the President, as the commander-in-chief of our armed forces, the right to take instant action to repel an attack without debating the issue on Capitol Hill. The same principle which gives the President the right to act for the people to repel an attack gives him the right to send troops abroad to prevent that attack from arising—to place a sufficient military force in areas that can threaten a counter-action, and thus perhaps prevent any hostilities from arising.

The debate that has developed results from a natural conflict between the historically ingrained principle of constitutionalism, which says that Congress alone may declare war, and the new principle of a 1951 emergency period when an atomic-bomb raid can at any moment begin the attack and afford no opportunity for a President to ask authority from Congress to use the armed forces as a counter-threat in advance.

It will be conceded by the proponents and opponents in the present controversy in Congress that, if a large-scale war broke out, the President would have to ask Congress to declare a state of war or by resolution to recognize the existence of a state of war with enemy countries.

There is little objection to the president's taking the initiative in emergency steps when war breaks out and thereafter going to Congress for a ratifying resolution. This should have been done last June when an American army was ordered into Korea. It was wrong for the president to have failed to ask Congress immediately for ratification of what he had done in ordering our armed forces into Korea.

But it is equally wrong for Congress to insist that, before a military step of importance can be taken in the future—either in resisting an enemy or getting our troops to Europe to anticipate an enemy attack—it should be necessary for the president to run the risks of prolonged debate in both Houses. To insist even an consultation beforehand with Congressional committees could mean a serious delay that might be fatal to the safety of the United States.

The clear-cut way for those who do not want troops sent to Europe is to propose a resolution to abrogate the North Atlantic treaty. A showdown on this would defeat such a resolution.

The clear-cut way for those who do want troops to go to Europe now to prepare for an attack in the indeterminate future and to collaborate with our allies abroad in building up enough military strength to prevent a big war from breaking out is to submit a simple resolution stating that, under the existing treaty, it is the obligation of the United States to send troops to Europe, with the decision as to the number and disposition thereof to be vested soley in the president — which means, of course, the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, for they are his principal military advisers.

Such a resolution would clarify the atmosphere and force a showdown in which partisanship would be bound to be detected and the issue would be decided soley on the question of national safety.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Gen. Lucius D. Clay has been driven out of the Office of Defense Mobilization by a group of lawless, irresponsible union goons who profess to represent "labor," although they have no credentials from the sixty million citizens who constitute the true body of American labor. Gen. Clay, a man of experience and competence, would have been invaluable in reconciling the needs of military and civilian industry and apportioning production between them.

The union bosses have an unblemished record of obstruction of production and wanton exploitation of the suffering and necessity of our fighting forces and our civilians. The result of their interference has been loss of life, efficiency, time and money in World War II, and in the Korean war to date these bosses, who have been trying to muscle into the present program for their own selfish interests, are still trying to get Charles E. Wilson, the director of mobilization.

In this conspiracy they enjoy the guilty cooperation of crooked journalists of the corrupt Washington corps who are, in fact, faithless propagandists of the Marxian program which the unions are trying to impose on this republic. Confused by newspapers which, with conscious guilt, have spread the fiction that the unioneers are "leaders" and "spokesmen" of "labor," the public was unable to rally behind Gen. Clay and frustrate this coup. The same causes may permit the elimination of Mr. Wilson.

A man of high authority has authorized a document which, by strong implication, exhorts President Truman to end the reign of the ugly, thieving brutes who slugged and shot their way to power, pillaged great factories, conspired with traitorous Communists, exploited the terrible national crisis of World War II and made the greatest single contribution to the inflation of today.

This challenge to the boss goons of the terror is much too long to be summarized in one instalment of these dispatches so I will continue the publication tomorrow. In both pieces I will telescope the language without tampering with the epochal meaning. I cannat at this time, however, reveal the author's name. It is significant that nowhere in this text are the boss unioneers referred to as "labor leaders."

The document is entitled, "Significance of Union Officials' Revolt Against Truman Mobilization Program."

"The twin objectives of our mobilization effort are the increase of production and the prevention of inflation," the document begins.

"We have to increase production enough to supply both military and civilian needs with fewer people to do it. We need longer hours and more output per man-hour resulting from improved facilities supplied by management and from greater skill, care and effort supplied by workers. Inflation can destroy our freedom and our material and spiritual well-being. The basic cause of rising prices is creating, and leaving in people's hands, more money than there are goods to match. Further inflation can be prevented only by keeping extra money, not matched by consumer goods, from being available for consumer spending. The objective of the mobilization is to prepare against defeat in battle and to keep from getting licked at home by ourselves through inflation.

"The objectives of the union officials are completely opposite and contrary to the mobilization objectives. In peacetime, union officials do not increase production. They resist increase. Now they are especially interested in seeing how much they can get paid for not interfering. With rare exceptions, union officials spend their careers either interfering with production or in collecting money for not interfering. Union officials welcome war because of the super seller's market on labor and because of the higher wages which non-interference with production can then command from the public in the form of further political and economic power over workers, employers, government and the public.

"War inflation is given a short-sighted welcome by too many people including too many business men. Too many politicians have liked inflation, but inflation is popular with union officials most of all. The rising costs gives them a presumed justification for demanding pay increases to bring wages even with the new inflation, which has been caused by previous raises, along with other bad economic policies.

As Pegler Sees It

Union officials eagerly promote the causes of inflation while decrying the resulting increased prices to their members. Right now union officials are advocating measures that will promote inflation since it serves their objectives.

"For some time it has seemed obvious that the top union group in Washington has the one major objective of greatly increasing their power, and not just the economic power in bargaining for wages, hours and working conditions but at the level of national political power which brings far greater economic power than can be attained at the local level. Even the conservative elements in national union leadership have joined the power-politics left-wingers to attain collectivist national political power and bring on the substitution of centralized government direction. The union executives, some without knowing it, have all joined in a push toward the British Socialist Labor Party's economic program and form of government which, Joe Martin said, is the 'Siamese Twin of Russian communism.'

"Mobilization has given these top union leaders what they feel to be a chance to speed this process. Up till the start of mobilization, there had seemed to be a waning in their national economic and political power.

"The union executives have been terribly concerned about these three developments:

"1 — Membership remains at about 15 million out of a total work force of over 60 million.

"2—Voters at the polls have rejected top union officials as the political and economic mentors of the nation.

"3—President Truman seems to have cooled to the point of being no longer their willing and unquestioning servant to the degree they frankly say they are entitled in return for their support in 1948. They claim their support was the deciding factor, but the 81st Congress didn't interpret the 1948 election as a mandate to give the unions anything they wanted. This was especially evident in the decisive defeat of the repeal of Taft-Hartley."

Dewey Vetoes Pay Bill Based Upon Discrimination

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP) — A bill designed to prevent employers from using the state's law against discrimination based on sex as a means of refusing pay increases to men was vetoed today by Governor Dewey.

Present law provides that "no employe shall, because of sex, be subjected to any discrimination in the rate of her or his pay," but permits different pay levels based on "factors other than sex."

The vetoed bill would have spelled out the "other factors." It listed such things as seniority, length of service, skill, training, and "any other factor generally recognized in an industry as affecting wage rates."

Some employers reportedly have been using the present law as an excuse for not raising the pay of men who worked alongside women.

Objected to Specifications

In vetoing the bill to define the "other factors," Dewey said it was "intended to prevent the evasion of the law against discrimination based on sex." He added:

"Unfortunately, it might be construed as an attempt to enumerate by law the specific factors upon which promotion and salaries in private businesses could be based.

"Such a serious intrusion by the state into the relationship between employers and employes present latent danger more grave than that of the evasion it seeks to correct."

The bill was introduced by Democratic Assemblyman William E. Clancy of Queens.

Fees Are Increased

Fees for a primary election were increased from $8 to $9. Others increased were $4 to $6 per day for all but the last day of registration: $12 to $14 for the last registration day: $13 to $15 for a general election, and $10 to $12 for a special election.

The increases are effective immediately.

Another measure approved by Dewey authorizes the New York City Board of Estimate to fix salaries for city court justices.

The governor vetoed a bill that would have created a membership corporation to provide relief to needy and disabled firemen and their families in Mount Kisco.

In a memorandum, Dewey quoted a letter from State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern.

McGovern wrote that there had been a "considerable number" of similar associations created in the state by laws that were not uniform.

"Since many of these associations are really small insurance companies providing accident, health and death benefits for their members, we believe, in future years, that they should be created under and subject to the provisions of a general law," McGovern said.

Dewey said the comptroller and the State Insurance Department should study the subject during the present year.

As Pegler Sees It

Union officials eagerly promote the causes of inflation while decrying the resulting increased prices to their members. Right now union officials are advocating measures that will promote inflation since it serves their objectives.

"For some time it has seemed obvious that the top union group in Washington has the one major objective of greatly increasing their power, and not just the economic power in bargaining for wages, hours and working conditions but at the level of national political power which brings far greater economic power than can be attained at the local level. Even the conservative elements in national union leadership have joined the power-politics left-wingers to attain collectivist national political power and bring on the substitution of centralized government direction. The union executives, some without knowing it, have all joined in a push toward the British Socialist Labor Party's economic program and form of government which, Joe Martin said, is the 'Siamese Twin of Russian communism.'

"Mobilization has given these top union leaders what they feel to be a chance to speed this process. Up till the start of mobilization, there had seemed to be a waning in their national economic and political power.

"The union executives have been terribly concerned about these three developments:

"1 — Membership remains at about 15 million out of a total work force of over 60 million.

"2—Voters at the polls have rejected top union officials as the political and economic mentors of the nation.

"3—President Truman seems to have cooled to the point of being no longer their willing and unquestioning servant to the degree they frankly say they are entitled in return for their support in 1948. They claim their support was the deciding factor, but the 81st Congress didn't interpret the 1948 election as a mandate to give the unions anything they wanted. This was especially evident in the decisive defeat of the repeal of Taft-Hartley."

Dewey Vetoes Pay Bill Based Upon Discrimination

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (AP) — A bill designed to prevent employers from using the state's law against discrimination based on sex as a means of refusing pay increases to men was vetoed today by Governor Dewey.

Present law provides that "no employe shall, because of sex, be subjected to any discrimination in the rate of her or his pay," but permits different pay levels based on "factors other than sex."

The vetoed bill would have spelled out the "other factors." It listed such things as seniority, length of service, skill, training, and "any other factor generally recognized in an industry as affecting wage rates."

Some employers reportedly have been using the present law as an excuse for not raising the pay of men who worked alongside women.

Objected to Specifications

In vetoing the bill to define the "other factors," Dewey said it was "intended to prevent the evasion of the law against discrimination based on sex." He added:

"Unfortunately, it might be construed as an attempt to enumerate by law the specific factors upon which promotion and salaries in private businesses could be based.

"Such a serious intrusion by the state into the relationship between employers and employes present latent danger more grave than that of the evasion it seeks to correct."

The bill was introduced by Democratic Assemblyman William E. Clancy of Queens.

Fees Are Increased

Fees for a primary election were increased from $8 to $9. Others increased were $4 to $6 per day for all but the last day of registration: $12 to $14 for the last registration day: $13 to $15 for a general election, and $10 to $12 for a special election.

The increases are effective immediately.

Another measure approved by Dewey authorizes the New York City Board of Estimate to fix salaries for city court justices.

The governor vetoed a bill that would have created a membership corporation to provide relief to needy and disabled firemen and their families in Mount Kisco.

In a memorandum, Dewey quoted a letter from State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern.

McGovern wrote that there had been a "considerable number" of similar associations created in the state by laws that were not uniform.

"Since many of these associations are really small insurance companies providing accident, health and death benefits for their members, we believe, in future years, that they should be created under and subject to the provisions of a general law," McGovern said.

Dewey said the comptroller and the State Insurance Department should study the subject during the present year.

When we get started telling smart sayings by children we don't know when to quit. A family was seated at the table with a guest, who was a business acquaintance of dad's all ready to enjoy the meal, when the five-year-old son blurted out:

Son — Why, mother, this is roast beef!

Mother—Yes, what of it?

Son—Well, pop said this morning that he was going to bring a big fish home for dinner tonight.

If a patent medicine in liquid form is highly popular, the chances are about nine in 10 that it contains about as much alcohol as the law allows.

No one pays attention to apple skins—but you should see the crowd around a peach peeling.

Hunting after women never hurt any man. It's catching them that does the damage.

Shocked Old Lady—And on the way here we passed about twenty-five people in parked cars!

Young Hostess —Oh, I'm sure you're mistaken. It must have been an even number.

When Henry, aged nine, discovered that he would have to share one shaggy, exceedingly friendly pup with his little sister Peggy, he staked out his claim thus:

Brother—I'll take the head end —that holds the brains.

Sister—That's all right with me. I'll take the tail end—'cause that's the end that shows he's happy!

Drinking a man's health does not prolong his life, and mayhap shortens your own.

Average Food Prices Unchanged in Month

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Average retail food prices remained unchanged between Feb. 26 and March 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated today on the basis of a survey in eight cities.

This is the second successive two-week period in which food prices as measured by the bureau did not increase. The overall stability was attributed to sharp declines in prices of some fresh fruits and vegetables, offsetting small price hikes for other foods.

On the basis of its study, the bureau estimated that the retail food price index for March 15 was 225.6—or 125.6 percent above the 1935-39 average. That was 0.2 per cent below the figure a month earlier but 11 per cent above the level just before the Korean war started.

The cities the bureau surveyed were Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Columbus, New York, Richmond, San Francisco and Washington.

22,238 Families Helped

Wise counsel or emergency financial aid rendered by Family Service helped 22,238 families in the New York archdiocese to maintain stability last year, according to the annual report of New York Catholic Charities.

Government Goes After Carter Pill Advertising

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The government wants to take the word "liver" out of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Carter's Products, Inc., of New York, the manufacturer, objects and says the company will test in the courts an order issued yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission.

The commission also ordered the company to stop what it called misleading advertising claims to the effect that the pills are an effective treatment for a sluggish liver.

"Carter's Little Liver Pills were and are * * * nothing more than an irritative laxative compound," the commission said in a statement by one of its members, John Carson.

Issuance of the order climaxed a commission case which has been dragging on for years. It will become final in 60 days unless the company appeals, as a spokesman said it would.

Unions Demand Murphy Recant

New York, April 4 (AP)—Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy's advice that police stay out of unions has brought a joint AFL-CIO demand that he "withdraw immediately the union-busting statement."

Murphy's prompt reply was that his position had been distorted and that he was not against unionism in general.

The verbal fireworks were touched off by the commissioner's remark Sunday that unions are not for policemen.

The CIO Transport Workers Union currently is engaged in a drive to organize the city's 18,600 policemen.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Dr. Shotwell Gives Degree to Auriol, French President

Woodstock, April 4—As the climax of an eventful day with a ticker-tape parade up Broadway and a presentation of the keys to New York by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, the President of France Vincent Auriol received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws conferred upon him Tuesday afternoon by Dr. James T. Shotwell, at Columbia University.

In a colorful ceremony attended by Grayson Kirk, acting president of Columbia University in the absence of General of the Armies Dwight D. Eisenhower, Naval cadets formed a double line in honor of the visiting president in front of the Columbia Library.

"It is fitting that this be done," Dr. Shotwell said, "not only because of his own outstanding achievements as patriot and statesman and of the ties which have bound his country and ours, but also of the fact, too lightly forgotten, that this and all other universities stem from the University of Paris." Dr. Shotwell recalled the saying that "the three great Powers of the Middle Ages were the Empire, the Papacy and the University of Paris, symbolizing secular and religious sovereignty of the mind. Today, more than ever before, this sovereignty of the mind must be safeguarded in institutions devoted to the pursuit of knowledge, for they are the vital centers—in the language of today fissionable nuclei—of all other freedoms."

In presenting the honor to the "man who today presides over the destinies of that earliest and greatest of the champions of freedom among the great nations of Continental Europe, France," Dr. Shotwell added that the distinction was also personal.

"President Auriol, himself, personifies the virtues that has made his country great in adversity and rich in political experience, an indomitable courage, a judicious temper and a capacity for compromise without yielding on essentials, which are the fundamental qualities of statesmanship." Dr. Shotwell concluded that "not only France, but all the world, owes a lasting debt to His Excellency Vincent Auriol."

Following the ceremonies a reception was held for President Auriol at the Waldorf Astoria which was attended by Dr. Shotwell and his daughter Mrs. Marguerite Summers.

Child Fatally Injured

Oneonta, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—Two-year-old Alean Stark was injured fatally yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by a cousin, Donald Edwards, 30, of Unadilla. The child died in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Fred W. Stark, while en route to a hospital. A verdict of accidental death was given by Coroner Norman W. Getman. The accident occurred in the driveway of the Stark home in Gilbertsville.

BRILLIANT CAST—A leg encased in a cast almost to the hip, result of a skiing accident, didn't stop Joan Castle Joseff, noted Hollywood jeweler, from attending the Motion Picture Academy awards. Her cast shone as brightly as the movie stars because it was encrusted with gems over metallic gold cloth. Jeweled rings on her bare toes completed the stunt.

U. S. Must Show Cause

New York, April 4 (AP)—The government must show cause Friday why Joseph Anastasio should not be freed in bail from Ellis Island pending deportation proceedings against him. Anastasio's wife, Stella, obtained a writ of habeas corpus yesterday from Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan. Anastasio, while spelling his name differently, is the brother of Albert Anastasia, the so-called high-executioner for Murder, Inc., and Anthony Anastasia, described as a strike-breaker before the Senate Crime Committee. Anthony Anastasia told the Senate committee that his family included five brothers who entered this country from Italy at one time or another by jumping ship.

Average Food Prices Unchanged in Month

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Average retail food prices remained unchanged between Feb. 26 and March 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated today on the basis of a survey in eight cities.

This is the second successive two-week period in which food prices as measured by the bureau did not increase. The overall stability was attributed to sharp declines in prices of some fresh fruits and vegetables, offsetting small price hikes for other foods.

On the basis of its study, the bureau estimated that the retail food price index for March 15 was 225.6—or 125.6 percent above the 1935-39 average. That was 0.2 per cent below the figure a month earlier but 11 per cent above the level just before the Korean war started.

The cities the bureau surveyed were Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Columbus, New York, Richmond, San Francisco and Washington.

22,238 Families Helped

Wise counsel or emergency financial aid rendered by Family Service helped 22,238 families in the New York archdiocese to maintain stability last year, according to the annual report of New York Catholic Charities.

Government Goes After Carter Pill Advertising

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The government wants to take the word "liver" out of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Carter's Products, Inc., of New York, the manufacturer, objects and says the company will test in the courts an order issued yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission.

The commission also ordered the company to stop what it called misleading advertising claims to the effect that the pills are an effective treatment for a sluggish liver.

"Carter's Little Liver Pills were and are * * * nothing more than an irritative laxative compound," the commission said in a statement by one of its members, John Carson.

Issuance of the order climaxed a commission case which has been dragging on for years. It will become final in 60 days unless the company appeals, as a spokesman said it would.

Unions Demand Murphy Recant

New York, April 4 (AP)—Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy's advice that police stay out of unions has brought a joint AFL-CIO demand that he "withdraw immediately the union-busting statement."

Murphy's prompt reply was that his position had been distorted and that he was not against unionism in general.

The verbal fireworks were touched off by the commissioner's remark Sunday that unions are not for policemen.

The CIO Transport Workers Union currently is engaged in a drive to organize the city's 18,600 policemen.

Dr. Shotwell Gives Degree to Auriol, French President

Woodstock, April 4—As the climax of an eventful day with a ticker-tape parade up Broadway and a presentation of the keys to New York by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, the President of France Vincent Auriol received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws conferred upon him Tuesday afternoon by Dr. James T. Shotwell, at Columbia University.

In a colorful ceremony attended by Grayson Kirk, acting president of Columbia University in the absence of General of the Armies Dwight D. Eisenhower, Naval cadets formed a double line in honor of the visiting president in front of the Columbia Library.

"It is fitting that this be done," Dr. Shotwell said, "not only because of his own outstanding achievements as patriot and statesman and of the ties which have bound his country and ours, but also of the fact, too lightly forgotten, that this and all other universities stem from the University of Paris." Dr. Shotwell recalled the saying that "the three great Powers of the Middle Ages were the Empire, the Papacy and the University of Paris, symbolizing secular and religious sovereignty of the mind. Today, more than ever before, this sovereignty of the mind must be safeguarded in institutions devoted to the pursuit of knowledge, for they are the vital centers—in the language of today fissionable nuclei—of all other freedoms."

In presenting the honor to the "man who today presides over the destinies of that earliest and greatest of the champions of freedom among the great nations of Continental Europe, France," Dr. Shotwell added that the distinction was also personal.

"President Auriol, himself, personifies the virtues that has made his country great in adversity and rich in political experience, an indomitable courage, a judicious temper and a capacity for compromise without yielding on essentials, which are the fundamental qualities of statesmanship." Dr. Shotwell concluded that "not only France, but all the world, owes a lasting debt to His Excellency Vincent Auriol."

Following the ceremonies a reception was held for President Auriol at the Waldorf Astoria which was attended by Dr. Shotwell and his daughter Mrs. Marguerite Summers.

Members of the Ulster County Bar Association will meet at St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning to attend as a body the funeral services of Chris J. Flanagan, local attorney who died Monday afternoon.

Verdict Postponed In Death of Man; Found in River

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly said today he was postponing pending possible further information, his verdict on the death of an unidentified man whose body was discovered in the Hudson river near the Newcomb dock, Kingston Point, yesterday afternoon.

The coroner said a boatman informed him today that a man had been knocked off an oil barge at Rensselaer during a heavy storm last October. The body was so badly decomposed, however, that the boatman's efforts at identification were without result. The coroner said he was making further efforts to establish identity of the man through a New York source.

Discovery Reported

Stanley Snow, local dog warden, reported discovery of the body to police headquarters at 4 p. m., shortly after his ten-year-old son, Gene, had seen it near a platform.

The body was turned over to Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the city laboratory, for an autopsy. It was described as that of a man about five feet, one inch tall, and believed to be about 60 years old. There was a skull fracture, the teeth were described as "well worn," and the hair was gone from the head.

Badly Decomposed

Coroner Kelly said the body was badly decomposed and he believed it must have been the water for months. A black belt with no letter of identification was around the waist which was about 31 inches. Only a piece of the top of the trousers was still around the body, authorities said.

Dog Warden Snow said he and his son were walking in the vicinity of the Newcomb dock when the latter discovered the body, which had washed under the platform.

The body was placed in a vault pending burial.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 4 (AP)—The stock market see-sawed around dead center today with a high-side tilt.

The railroads performed a little better than the rest of the market, but it could not be said that they assumed leadership as they have in so many past sessions.

Individual issues had bursts of activity and moved a fraction either up or down. They were found in the oils, chemicals, and radio-television divisions.

Merchandising shares moved up as a group in early trading, but they later turned mixed as were most of the major divisions.

The market started the day on a lower note, but almost before the initial rush was ended plus signs started to pop up here and there. There wasn't any rally, but a stiffening in the last. This later gradually translated itself into a higher tendency.

Verdict Postponed In Death of Man; Found in River

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly said today he was postponing pending possible further information, his verdict on the death of an unidentified man whose body was discovered in the Hudson river near the Newcomb dock, Kingston Point, yesterday afternoon.

The coroner said a boatman informed him today that a man had been knocked off an oil barge at Rensselaer during a heavy storm last October. The body was so badly decomposed, however, that the boatman's efforts at identification were without result. The coroner said he was making further efforts to establish identity of the man through a New York source.

Discovery Reported

Stanley Snow, local dog warden, reported discovery of the body to police headquarters at 4 p. m., shortly after his ten-year-old son, Gene, had seen it near a platform.

The body was turned over to Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the city laboratory, for an autopsy. It was described as that of a man about five feet, one inch tall, and believed to be about 60 years old. There was a skull fracture, the teeth were described as "well worn," and the hair was gone from the head.

Badly Decomposed

Coroner Kelly said the body was badly decomposed and he believed it must have been the water for months. A black belt with no letter of identification was around the waist which was about 31 inches. Only a piece of the top of the trousers was still around the body, authorities said.

Dog Warden Snow said he and his son were walking in the vicinity of the Newcomb dock when the latter discovered the body, which had washed under the platform.

The body was placed in a vault pending burial.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 4 (AP)—The stock market see-sawed around dead center today with a high-side tilt.

The railroads performed a little better than the rest of the market, but it could not be said that they assumed leadership as they have in so many past sessions.

Individual issues had bursts of activity and moved a fraction either up or down. They were found in the oils, chemicals, and radio-television divisions.

Merchandising shares moved up as a group in early trading, but they later turned mixed as were most of the major divisions.

The market started the day on a lower note, but almost before the initial rush was ended plus signs started to pop up here and there. There wasn't any rally, but a stiffening in the last. This later gradually translated itself into a higher tendency.

There are certain situations that every good player should memorize. A few times a year they are bound to confront you, and if you're ready for them you save many hundreds of points.

Keep your eyes on the West cards in the hand shown today. One of those important situations will soon develop.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and the defenders easily rattled off two tricks in that suit. South ruffed the third diamond, led a club to dummy's jack and returned a low spade. East played the five of spades, South finessed the queen, and West made the correct play without any hesitation.

Figure it out for yourself. What happens if West plays the six of spades? South looks the spades over very carefully and sees that his only hope is to catch the king of spades alone at this point. If East still has K-10 or K-9, a trump trick must surely be lost.

Actually West properly played the nine of spades. This gave South something to think about. Apparently West had started with the 10-9 of spades, and now he had the blank ten left.

Acting on this reasonable assumption, South led a club to dummy's king and returned the jack of spades. He hoped that this would continue the finesse through East and at the same time pick up West's ten.

East covered the jack of spades with his king and South won with ace, but now West's ten was established. Since the defenders were bound to win a heart trick sooner or later, the contract was set.

Now, all you memorizers, study the West hand. When you hold three to the ten in the trump suit, make sure to play the middle card on any first-round finesse. It may not always work, but it costs nothing to try.

All County Areas Due for Clean-Up To Impress Visitor

A "clean-up, dress-up, paint-up" campaign has been inaugurated in the Ulster-Greene Counties Vacationland area in which all communities have been asked to participate.

All community organizations in the area have been asked to participate in the campaign which is designed to make Ulster and Greene county vacation areas more attractive to the traveling public.

Supervisors of the counties, mayors of towns and villages have been asked to issue proclamations designating "spring cleaning" periods when an intensive campaign will be conducted to beautify localities. Assistance of fire departments, granges, legion posts, women's clubs, schools and other organizations have been asked to make it a real "clean-up" program to clean up the winter's accumulation of rubbish that has collected along highways, along streams and in and around resort areas and business zones.

Must Be Attractive

Ninety per cent of the visitors to the Ulster-Greene Counties Vacationland area travel by automobile and the exterior of the community and the boarding houses are the show windows which attract visitors and gives them the desire to stay. Unsightly exteriors, litter strewn highways and streams detract from the scenery and cause visitors to pass on to other more attractive locations.

While traffic on the highways was 10 per cent greater last year than in 1949, travel business results in Ulster and Greene counties dropped off in 1950.

This fact demonstrates that more people were attracted to the area by an intensive advertising campaign but fewer people stayed in the area. More attractive tourist accommodations can cause many more of those who pass through the area to remain here. One of the purposes of the present campaign is to make the area more attractive to the eye and create a desire to remain in the area.

Suggest Flowers

It has been suggested that after places have been cleaned up and made more attractive, that various organizations donate flower seed to schools and offer prizes for the best flower plantings. Communities are being asked to beautify their entrance-ways, plant shrubbery and flowers and in any way make their community more attractive.

Motels and high class motor courts throughout the country have found that an attractive exterior attracts visitors and that it is the policy of the traveling public to stay amid attractive, clean surroundings.

The present spring clean-up program is being stressed in this area to enhance the natural beauties of the Catskill mountain area and to make more attractive surroundings for summer visitors.

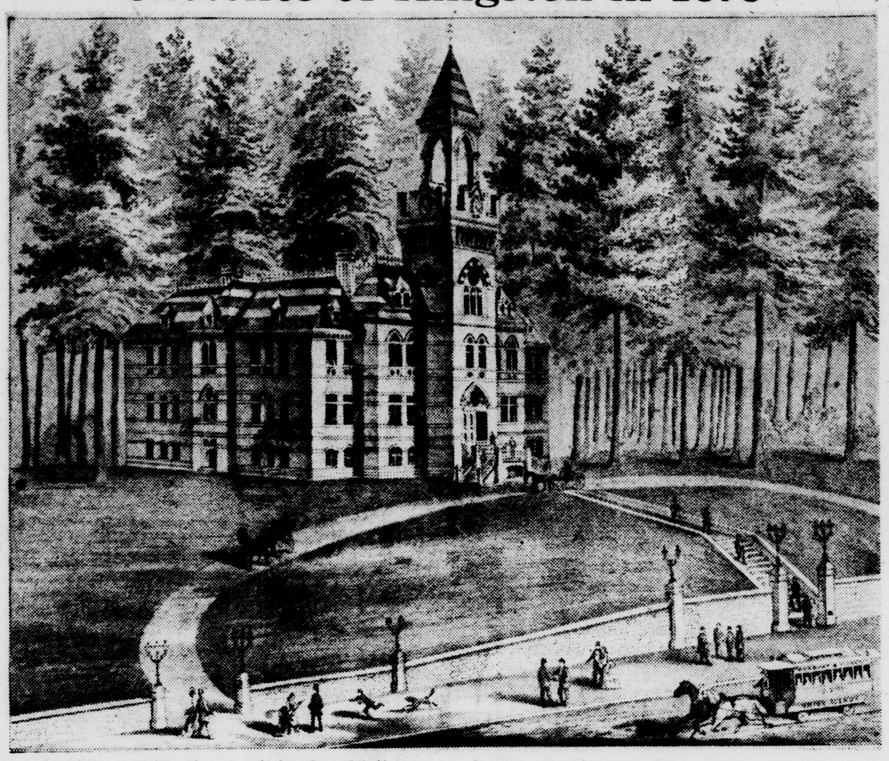

Several communities in the Ulster Greene Counties Vacationland area have already instituted a program of "Clean-up, Dress-up."

Sketches of Kingston in 1875

This lithographic sketch of the City Hall was published in the "County Atlas of Ulster" by Walker and Jewett of Vesey street, New York city.

In May, 1872, the Villages of Kingston and Rondout were united and incorporated into the City of Kingston, the charter being dated May 29, 1872. The hamlet of Wilbur, formerly Twaalfskill, which had long been a bluestone shipping point was included.

The first joint election took place April 16, 1872 and 3,271 votes were cast for mayor. James G. Lindsley of Rondout was the first citizen to be chosen mayor of the city.

The year following the election of Mayor Lindsley, the construction of the city hall was projected, the cornerstone being laid in 1873. Although there was a spirit of economy and thrift, the authorities insisted that it should be a structure of which the city might be proud for many years to come. There was much opposition to the erection of so large a building in advance of its needs because of the heavy cost. But the imposing structure was completed in 1875 and remained substantially the same until the fire of 1927, when it was rebuilt. The original cost of the building was approximately $75,000.

The various municipal offices were centered there and public bodies held frequent meetings in the building. For the first few years rooms were occupied by the Supreme Court in the building.

Broadway was then Union avenue and the main entrance from the street was in the center of the property, where today stands the World War 1 honor roll. Gone are the many trees that surrounded the building and to the right instead is now the Tumor Clinic.

Transportation also has changed from the horse-drawn trolley shown on the avenue in front of the building, and also the horse and buggy as depicted above. In the intervening years there too has been many changes in both the styles for men and women. Milady is shown with sweeping skirt and the gentleman with toppers, cane and frock coat.

The structure remained substantially the same on this commanding site in the center of the city until the City Hall fire of 1927.

The three-alarm fire destroyed the upper third floor of the city hall on June 4, 1927, and gutted the entire interior of the building.

Damage was estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. Eight firemen were injured fighting the blaze, including Capt. Edward Albright, who was hospitalized at the Kingston Hospital.

Insurance carried on the building was for $75,000 and $15,000 on the furnishings.

Charles Dunne, plumbing contractor of Stephan street saw smoke pouring from the top windows as he drove along Broadway, and turned in the alarm from a box in front of the hall at 7:57 p. m.

Shortly after the firemen reached the city hall the third floor was a mass of flames, and soon the big tower stood out in a giant inferno.

The 1,800-pound bell in the tower used as a fire alarm crashed through the floors shortly after sounding the final call.

All of the motorized equipment of the fire department was used at the fire, and nine streams of water were played on the building.

Efficient fire fighting confined the flames to the third floor, which was used for several offices and a section set apart for storage space.

The blaze started in a small carpenter repair shop occupied by one workman who reported there was no sign of any fire when he left it Saturday at 3 p. m.

City records kept in fireproof vaults were not damaged by flames or water.

Temporary quarters were assigned to the various offices in the municipal building on East O'Reilly street by Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey.

William B. Martin, city assessor at the time, saved a number of valuable maps that were stored in wooden closets.

Several volunteer firemen were injured, the most serious being Edward Flemming, who suffered a serious scalp wound.

Captain Albrecht suffered a broken leg, fractured rib and injury to his back.

Chief Joseph L. Murphy was cut above the ear and although the injury was painful he continued at his post directing the firemen.

Notes on Music

The Art of Listening

The hearing of beautiful music can be a thrilling experience, or absolutely nothing, or any one of a hundred graduations between these two extremes. Whether the music one hears is symphonic, operatic, or popular, there are these two factors involved: The music and the quality of the listening.

Meany people hear music while they are doing varieties of things, such as talking to friends or doing household drudgeries. This is not actually listening in the true sense of the word, for it was only heard as a pleasant background to a number of occupations quite foreign to it, and the hearers probably received very little pleasure from the music.

Others listen attenively while alone, keeping themselves quiet and making sure that their listening conditions are ideal. As these people listen, their music gradually builds a mood in them which grows in intensity. Their whole beings are highly concentrated on the music to which they are listening, and these people are the ones who derive the fullest music.

Listening is an art the same as playing an instrument is an art. The higher the degree of perfection a person is able to put into this art of listening, the more pleasure he will derive from it.

One type of listener is partial to familiar music but cannot or will not respond to new and unfamiliar compositions such as those which are being created today. The music of the past, though it has been heard many times, still conveys to this type of listener such satisfaction that he feels no curiosity to hear anything new.

Still another type of listener is the person who is only interested in contemporary music with its irregular pulsations and discordant harmonies. This type of music has not the tranquillity of music of the past, nor does it possess the romantic feeling such as is found in the best music of the 19th century. However it is more attuned to life as we know it today and the best type of listener is one who responds both to the familiar and to the unfamiliar. He can choose his recorded music from all times, and also all countries. He finds endless varieties of music. He listens under ideal conditions and derives the most happiness from his music.

Notes on Music

The Art of Listening

The hearing of beautiful music can be a thrilling experience, or absolutely nothing, or any one of a hundred graduations between these two extremes. Whether the music one hears is symphonic, operatic, or popular, there are these two factors involved: The music and the quality of the listening.

Meany people hear music while they are doing varieties of things, such as talking to friends or doing household drudgeries. This is not actually listening in the true sense of the word, for it was only heard as a pleasant background to a number of occupations quite foreign to it, and the hearers probably received very little pleasure from the music.

Others listen attenively while alone, keeping themselves quiet and making sure that their listening conditions are ideal. As these people listen, their music gradually builds a mood in them which grows in intensity. Their whole beings are highly concentrated on the music to which they are listening, and these people are the ones who derive the fullest music.

Listening is an art the same as playing an instrument is an art. The higher the degree of perfection a person is able to put into this art of listening, the more pleasure he will derive from it.

One type of listener is partial to familiar music but cannot or will not respond to new and unfamiliar compositions such as those which are being created today. The music of the past, though it has been heard many times, still conveys to this type of listener such satisfaction that he feels no curiosity to hear anything new.

Still another type of listener is the person who is only interested in contemporary music with its irregular pulsations and discordant harmonies. This type of music has not the tranquillity of music of the past, nor does it possess the romantic feeling such as is found in the best music of the 19th century. However it is more attuned to life as we know it today and the best type of listener is one who responds both to the familiar and to the unfamiliar. He can choose his recorded music from all times, and also all countries. He finds endless varieties of music. He listens under ideal conditions and derives the most happiness from his music.

There are certain situations that every good player should memorize. A few times a year they are bound to confront you, and if you're ready for them you save many hundreds of points.

Keep your eyes on the West cards in the hand shown today. One of those important situations will soon develop.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and the defenders easily rattled off two tricks in that suit. South ruffed the third diamond, led a club to dummy's jack and returned a low spade. East played the five of spades, South finessed the queen, and West made the correct play without any hesitation.

Figure it out for yourself. What happens if West plays the six of spades? South looks the spades over very carefully and sees that his only hope is to catch the king of spades alone at this point. If East still has K-10 or K-9, a trump trick must surely be lost.

Actually West properly played the nine of spades. This gave South something to think about. Apparently West had started with the 10-9 of spades, and now he had the blank ten left.

Acting on this reasonable assumption, South led a club to dummy's king and returned the jack of spades. He hoped that this would continue the finesse through East and at the same time pick up West's ten.

East covered the jack of spades with his king and South won with ace, but now West's ten was established. Since the defenders were bound to win a heart trick sooner or later, the contract was set.

Now, all you memorizers, study the West hand. When you hold three to the ten in the trump suit, make sure to play the middle card on any first-round finesse. It may not always work, but it costs nothing to try.

All County Areas Due for Clean-Up To Impress Visitor

A "clean-up, dress-up, paint-up" campaign has been inaugurated in the Ulster-Greene Counties Vacationland area in which all communities have been asked to participate.

All community organizations in the area have been asked to participate in the campaign which is designed to make Ulster and Greene county vacation areas more attractive to the traveling public.

Supervisors of the counties, mayors of towns and villages have been asked to issue proclamations designating "spring cleaning" periods when an intensive campaign will be conducted to beautify localities. Assistance of fire departments, granges, legion posts, women's clubs, schools and other organizations have been asked to make it a real "clean-up" program to clean up the winter's accumulation of rubbish that has collected along highways, along streams and in and around resort areas and business zones.

Must Be Attractive

Ninety per cent of the visitors to the Ulster-Greene Counties Vacationland area travel by automobile and the exterior of the community and the boarding houses are the show windows which attract visitors and gives them the desire to stay. Unsightly exteriors, litter strewn highways and streams detract from the scenery and cause visitors to pass on to other more attractive locations.

While traffic on the highways was 10 per cent greater last year than in 1949, travel business results in Ulster and Greene counties dropped off in 1950.

This fact demonstrates that more people were attracted to the area by an intensive advertising campaign but fewer people stayed in the area. More attractive tourist accommodations can cause many more of those who pass through the area to remain here. One of the purposes of the present campaign is to make the area more attractive to the eye and create a desire to remain in the area.

Suggest Flowers

It has been suggested that after places have been cleaned up and made more attractive, that various organizations donate flower seed to schools and offer prizes for the best flower plantings. Communities are being asked to beautify their entrance-ways, plant shrubbery and flowers and in any way make their community more attractive.

Motels and high class motor courts throughout the country have found that an attractive exterior attracts visitors and that it is the policy of the traveling public to stay amid attractive, clean surroundings.

The present spring clean-up program is being stressed in this area to enhance the natural beauties of the Catskill mountain area and to make more attractive surroundings for summer visitors.

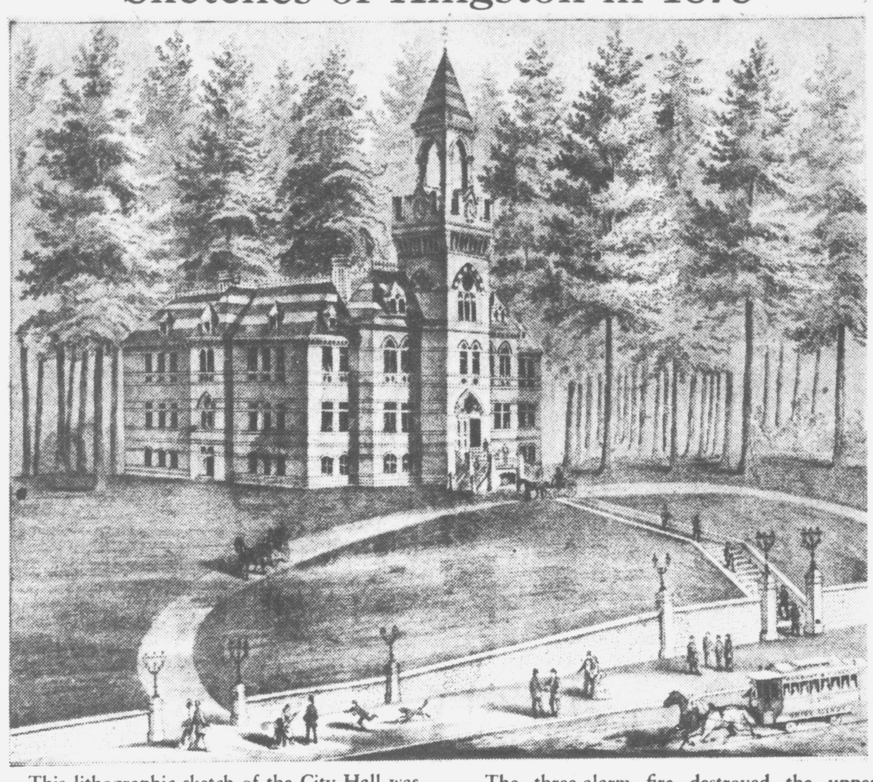

Several communities in the Ulster Greene Counties Vacationland area have already instituted a program of "Clean-up, Dress-up."

Drivers Tell Cops

Automobile drivers tell Belgrade cops what they intend to do and the policeman, interpreting their horn signals, signals them out. The system is possible because there are so few cars in Yugoslavia.

The Nile and Amazon rivers are each about 4,000 miles long.

Sketches of Kingston in 1875

This lithographic sketch of the City Hall was published in the "County Atlas of Ulster" by Walker and Jewett of Vesey street, New York city.

In May, 1872, the Villages of Kingston and Rondout were united and incorporated into the City of Kingston, the charter being dated May 29, 1872. The hamlet of Wilbur, formerly Twaalfskill, which had long been a bluestone shipping point was included.

The first joint election took place April 16, 1872 and 3,271 votes were cast for mayor. James G. Lindsley of Rondout was the first citizen to be chosen mayor of the city.

The year following the election of Mayor Lindsley, the construction of the city hall was projected, the cornerstone being laid in 1873. Although there was a spirit of economy and thrift, the authorities insisted that it should be a structure of which the city might be proud for many years to come. There was much opposition to the erection of so large a building in advance of its needs because of the heavy cost. But the imposing structure was completed in 1875 and remained substantially the same until the fire of 1927, when it was rebuilt. The original cost of the building was approximately $75,000.

The various municipal offices were centered there and public bodies held frequent meetings in the building. For the first few years rooms were occupied by the Supreme Court in the building.

Broadway was then Union avenue and the main entrance from the street was in the center of the property, where today stands the World War 1 honor roll. Gone are the many trees that surrounded the building and to the right instead is now the Tumor Clinic.

Transportation also has changed from the horse-drawn trolley shown on the avenue in front of the building, and also the horse and buggy as depicted above. In the intervening years there too has been many changes in both the styles for men and women. Milady is shown with sweeping skirt and the gentleman with toppers, cane and frock coat.

The structure remained substantially the same on this commanding site in the center of the city until the City Hall fire of 1927.

The three-alarm fire destroyed the upper third floor of the city hall on June 4, 1927, and gutted the entire interior of the building.

Damage was estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. Eight firemen were injured fighting the blaze, including Capt. Edward Albright, who was hospitalized at the Kingston Hospital.

Insurance carried on the building was for $75,000 and $15,000 on the furnishings.

Charles Dunne, plumbing contractor of Stephan street saw smoke pouring from the top windows as he drove along Broadway, and turned in the alarm from a box in front of the hall at 7:57 p. m.

Shortly after the firemen reached the city hall the third floor was a mass of flames, and soon the big tower stood out in a giant inferno.

The 1,800-pound bell in the tower used as a fire alarm crashed through the floors shortly after sounding the final call.

All of the motorized equipment of the fire department was used at the fire, and nine streams of water were played on the building.

Efficient fire fighting confined the flames to the third floor, which was used for several offices and a section set apart for storage space.

The blaze started in a small carpenter repair shop occupied by one workman who reported there was no sign of any fire when he left it Saturday at 3 p. m.

City records kept in fireproof vaults were not damaged by flames or water.

Temporary quarters were assigned to the various offices in the municipal building on East O'Reilly street by Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey.

William B. Martin, city assessor at the time, saved a number of valuable maps that were stored in wooden closets.

Several volunteer firemen were injured, the most serious being Edward Flemming, who suffered a serious scalp wound.

Captain Albrecht suffered a broken leg, fractured rib and injury to his back.

Chief Joseph L. Murphy was cut above the ear and although the injury was painful he continued at his post directing the firemen.

BUDGET SUITS ARE HARD TO RESIST

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

New York — (NEA)—The budget suit, trimly tailored and priced under $20, is clothes bait to many women these days. It becomes even more tempting when it's made of worsted-and-sheen gabardine, or nylon-and-acetate cord that washes with spectacular success. These fabrics are hard to find in budget suits. And detailing in many budget suits equals that found in far more expensive designs.

The suit that's a perfect travel companion (right) is washable, is in gray and white stripe nylon and acetate cord, is a Lampl design. This is a suit classic, buttoning from stand-up collar to the waist with pearl buttons. The shoulders have a hint of epaulet; the skirt is straight and slim.

Another good travel companion, this time in pink worsted and sheen gabardine, is a suit (left) with a tricky button-down collar. This motiff is repeated in hip pocket tabs. Good, classic lines make this slim suit easy to wear.

Among the dancers were many of the young college students who came from the various nearby schools to attend the annual dance.

Mrs. Allen A. Baker, president of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Charles E. Davis, chairman, and her committee, were particularly pleased with the response.

Sorosis Reviews Resolutions Which Will Be Voted Upon During Texas Convention

A resume of resolutions which will be voted upon at the general Federation of Women's Clubs Convention in Texas in May was given by Mrs. William J. McVey, president, during the regular meeting of Sorosis Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman.

Resolutions which were reviewed by the group included the following: affirmation of faith, economic stabilization, strikes, inflation, black market and military training.

It also was announced during the meeting that the Federation will sponsor a contest entitled "Build Freedom With Youth" which will be conducted by young people between the age of 12 to 21 years.

Mrs. Boyd Williams gave a short talk on the highlights of legislation.

Speaks on Play

After the business meeting adjourned, Mrs. G. W. Ross, speaker for the afternoon, gave a review of "The Cocktail Hour," by T. S. Eliot, which she recently witnessed.

Mrs. Ross gave the views of several well-known dramatic critics regarding this play as well as the background of the playwright and spoke of his poetry and previous plays and of his receiving the Nobel Prize in 1948 for literature.

According to the speaker, the play is written in verse, without rhyme. Mrs. Ross added "much of the verse as spoken sounds like prose. Where the emotion or situation intensifies, then the rhythm is more evident. There is an insistent beat pulsing through it."

Mrs. Ross viewed the British cast as excellent and inasmuch as the author is a master of both language and verse his play asks only for performance it does not require revolving stages, trick lights or sound effects.

The speaker read several passages from the scenes she had enjoyed most, proving as she had stated in the beginning that although this play is listed as a comedy, it is really a deep psychological study.

Sorosis will meet again Monday, April 16, for the annual meeting. Hostesses will be Mrs. McVey, Mrs. William Ochs, Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. Howard Lewis.

Mrs. Florence Cubberly was hostess for Monday's meeting.

INVITING HIS FAMILY

A newly engaged girl writes: "My mother feels that she should invite my friend's family to dinner. Mother isn't a very good cook and, therefore, has suggested inviting them to a restaurant. I'd prefer to have them at home here and thought maybe the invitation could be to less than a dinner."

You are quite right. The typical invitation given by the bride's family is for afternoon tea. Have some especially good cake and sandwiches with the tea.

No Title Best

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain when it is correct to use the word Master in writing to a boy and when he should be written to as Mr.

Answer: The use of Master has practically disappeared except as an exaggerated courtesy to a little child of two or three. Otherwise no title is used in this present day until he is of college age.

Leaving Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: At a large wedding reception, may the bride and groom leave before their guests? Mother thinks it sounds discourteous for the hosts to leave before the majority of their guests do.

Answer: On the contrary. One of the "features" of the wedding reception is the waiting by the guests with hands full of rice to throw after the departing bride and bridegroom.

Matching Old Silver

Dear Mrs. Post: I am lacking some pieces of a discontinued pattern of silver. Would it be better to try and get something very nearly the same or better to get something altogether different?

Answer: Get something as nearly the same as possible. It is not at all necessary that everything be of the same pattern of silver, but it is important that it be of similar type.

Her silk illusion veil, medallion bordered, fell from a coronet embroidered in seed pearls and silver beads. Her bouquet was a cascade of freesia and hyacinths with garlands.

Miss Genevieve Secreto of Glasco, sister of the groom, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of Nile green net velvarayed with silver carnations, Nile green picture hat and a bouquet with cascade of yellow roses and Nile green maline.

A reception for 200 guests followed the ceremony at Schoentag's on Route 9W. Music was furnished by Vince Edwards and his orchestra.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

New York — (NEA)—The budget suit, trimly tailored and priced under $20, is clothes bait to many women these days. It becomes even more tempting when it's made of worsted-and-sheen gabardine, or nylon-and-acetate cord that washes with spectacular success. These fabrics are hard to find in budget suits. And detailing in many budget suits equals that found in far more expensive designs.

The suit that's a perfect travel companion (right) is washable, is in gray and white stripe nylon and acetate cord, is a Lampl design. This is a suit classic, buttoning from stand-up collar to the waist with pearl buttons. The shoulders have a hint of epaulet; the skirt is straight and slim.

Another good travel companion, this time in pink worsted and sheen gabardine, is a suit (left) with a tricky button-down collar. This motif is repeated in hip pocket tabs. Good, classic lines make this slim suit easy to wear.

Sorosis Reviews Resolutions Which Will Be Voted Upon During Texas Convention

A resume of resolutions which will be voted upon at the general Federation of Women's Clubs Convention in Texas in May was given by Mrs. William J. McVey, president, during the regular meeting of Sorosis Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman.

Resolutions which were reviewed by the group included the following: affirmation of faith, economic stabilization, strikes, inflation, black market and military training.

It also was announced during the meeting that the Federation will sponsor a contest entitled "Build Freedom With Youth" which will be conducted by young people between the age of 12 to 21 years.

Mrs. Boyd Williams gave a short talk on the highlights of legislation.

Speaks on Play

After the business meeting adjourned, Mrs. G. W. Ross, speaker for the afternoon, gave a review of "The Cocktail Hour," by T. S. Eliot, which she recently witnessed.

Mrs. Ross gave the views of several well-known dramatic critics regarding this play as well as the background of the playwright and spoke of his poetry and previous plays and of his receiving the Nobel Prize in 1948 for literature.

According to the speaker, the play is written in verse, without rhyme. Mrs. Ross added "much of the verse as spoken sounds like prose. Where the emotion or situation intensifies, then the rhythm is more evident. There is an insistent beat pulsing through it."

Mrs. Ross viewed the British cast as excellent and inasmuch as the author is a master of both language and verse his play asks only for performance it does not require revolving stages, trick lights or sound effects.

The speaker read several passages from the scenes she had enjoyed most, proving as she had stated in the beginning that although this play is listed as a comedy, it is really a deep psychological study.

Sorosis will meet again Monday, April 16, for the annual meeting. Hostesses will be Mrs. McVey, Mrs. William Ochs, Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. Howard Lewis.

Mrs. Florence Cubberly was hostess for Monday's meeting.

INVITING HIS FAMILY

A newly engaged girl writes: "My mother feels that she should invite my friend's family to dinner. Mother isn't a very good cook and, therefore, has suggested inviting them to a restaurant. I'd prefer to have them at home here and thought maybe the invitation could be to less than a dinner."

You are quite right. The typical invitation given by the bride's family is for afternoon tea. Have some especially good cake and sandwiches with the tea.

No Title Best

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain when it is correct to use the word Master in writing to a boy and when he should be written to as Mr.

Answer: The use of Master has practically disappeared except as an exaggerated courtesy to a little child of two or three. Otherwise no title is used in this present day until he is of college age.

Leaving Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: At a large wedding reception, may the bride and groom leave before their guests? Mother thinks it sounds discourteous for the hosts to leave before the majority of their guests do.

Answer: On the contrary. One of the "features" of the wedding reception is the waiting by the guests with hands full of rice to throw after the departing bride and bridegroom.

Matching Old Silver

Dear Mrs. Post: I am lacking some pieces of a discontinued pattern of silver. Would it be better to try and get something very nearly the same or better to get something altogether different?

Answer: Get something as nearly the same as possible. It is not at all necessary that everything be of the same pattern of silver, but it is important that it be of similar type.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, answers to such questions as clothes of the bridal party, including those of the flower girl and the men of the party, will be found in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-3. School Board Seeks Advice in Changing Its Curriculum

Plans for the revision of the ninth and tenth year curriculum were discussed at a preliminary meeting of interested citizens, members of the board of education and faculty held at Kingston High School Monday evening. As a result of the study inaugurated at this meeting, it is hoped that a curriculum can be developed which will more adequately meet the needs and problems of the high school adolescent.

Clarence Rowland, vice president of the board of education, acting as chairman, welcomed the group and explained that the New York State Department of Education in the readjustment of its education program, is recognizing that conditions and problems vary in different communities. Each community, Rowland continued, is being encouraged to develop its own curriculum to meet these local needs and the cooperation and advice of the community's citizens is being sought in working out curriculum readjustments.

Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw further emphasized the immediate need of readjusting the secondary school program. He also explained that in asking lay groups to work with the school authorities, Kingston is only following a policy adopted by the state department itself.

The relationship of citizen committees to the board of education was explained by Robert Herzog, president of the board. Such groups, Herzog feels, provide a basis of understanding and give the people an opportunity to express their wishes. In time, such a program of cooperation between citizens and the board can form a pattern of community planning. However, Herzog stressed the fact that, although the committees are free to make recommendations, the board of education must remain responsible for the final decisions.

William Limbacher who is serving as chairman of the general education committee of the high school, then explained that the wide diversity in interests and abalities of students attending high school today make a basic examination of the whole curriculum necessary. A curriculum today, he feels, must be built on such basic needs as citizenship training, family relations and preparation for one's life's work.

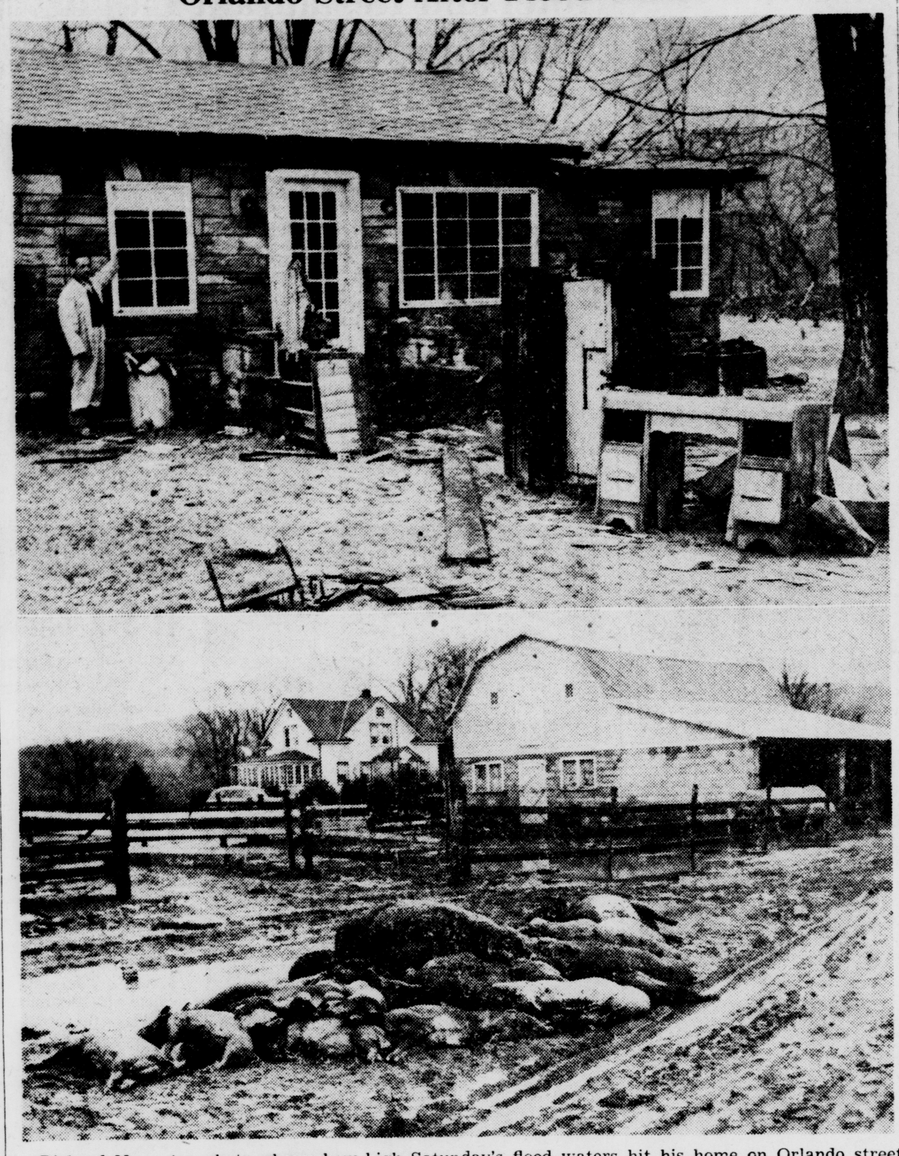

Following a period of informal discussion, two groups were organized, one to work on a program for teaching family relations, the other to develop a program of citizenship training. These groups then met separately to outline programs of future study and to elect co-chairman to assist the faculty committees who have already made a preliminary study of the problems in their field.

Mrs. Vincent Connelly and Herbert Lloyd Shultz were named co-chairmen of the committee on family relations, with Mrs. Thelma Schwab as faculty chairman. Other members of this study group include Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Robert Cousins, Mrs. Joseph Deegan, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, Mrs. Herbert Fister, Dr. Alfred Harder, the Rev. Ralph Houston, Mrs. Richard Kalish, Dr. Elbert MacFadden, Miss Katherine Murphy, Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, Henry Paley, Harry Rigby, Mrs. Herbert Van Deusen, Rabbi Philip Weinberg and Miss Everice Parsons.

City Judge Raymond Mino was elected chairman of the committee on citizenship and will serve with faculty chairman, Leo Doheny. Other members of this committee are Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Mrs. Roger Billings, James Byrne, the Rev. Frank Gollnick, Mrs. Herbert Greenwald, Mrs. N. Le Van Haver, Conrad Heiselman, Mrs. Rosemarie Hogan, Joseph Honig, Joseph Kelly, Stanley Matthews, Lawrence Mac Avery, Mrs. Thomas Plunkett, Lawrence Quilty and Alfred Schmid.

High school faculty members who are also working on these committees include: Citizenship—Mrs. Ida K. Sherman, Francis Carroll, Alexander Banyo, Miss Mary Kelly, Mrs. Mildred Wylie and Miss Ione Kinkade. Family relations—Miss Margaret Schuetz, Victor Mahoney, Miss Margaret Mullen, Joseph Boswell and Mrs. Bella Crook.

Big Crowd Attends Public Inspection Of New Paltz Bank

New Paltz, April 4—Many from this village and surrounding areas attended the public inspection of the refurbished New Paltz Savings Bank, 29 South Main street, Saturday from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

The modernized building has only one story instead of three used in the former structure. However, the remodeled building has more than double the floor space of the old building to accommodate customers due to an added wing which measures 37 feet by 63 feet. The modernized old section is 28 feet by 80 feet.

New features include a fireproof storage room in the basement, a larger room next to the coupon clipping booths large enough to accommodate two or three people. Plans are to use this room for holders of safe deposit boxes who wish the advice of an attorney or relative.

Adjacent to the office of the bank's president, another room has been situated where prospective mortgagers may discuss problems in complete privacy. Attractive kitchen and rest facilities also have been provided for personnel of the bank.

The bank was first incorporated in 1871 and was located in the Ackert building on lower Main street.

Present officers of the institution include Howard H. Grimm, president; Vanderlyn T. Pine, vice-president; Jay LeFevre, vice-president; Herman W. Glanz, secretary and treasurer; Adele D. Noble, assistant secretary; Robert Glanz, assistant treasurer. Trustees include Joseph E. Hasbrouck, Jr., Howard H. Grimm, Otto B. Schmid, James Hull, Vanderlyn T. Pine, Joseph Deyo, Jay LeFevre, Herman W. Glanz, David W. Corwin and Arthur W. Kurtz. The bank's attorney is David W. Corwin.

Police Release Dog Tied Up With Muslin

Among meanest pranks of the year, to date, was one reported to local police this morning.

Mrs. H. W. Huettinger, 49 Spring street, reported to headquarters at 1 a. m., that a dog, apparently injured, was lying on the sidewalk, and was making noisy efforts to get on its feet.

Officers Raymond Wells and Charles Hoehing were dispatched to the street and found that the dog's legs had been tied together with muslin which had cut into its legs in its efforts to get free. Hoehing held the dog as Wells cut away the muslin and set it free.

Children have the faculty of hearing considerably higher pitched sounds than grown-ups.

Voluntary Patrols Guard Houses in Two Flood Areas

Voluntary armed patrols are serving in two flood areas to prevent looting of property, it was announced today by the sheriff's department.

County Investigator Leonard Belmore said that Old Hurley has auxiliary police protection and that the hard-hit section in the vicinity of the Washington avenue viaduct is also being guarded.

In the sector closest to Kingston, 30 Redi-Men of Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club walk two-hour patrols, guarding homes along Route 28 and on Murphy and Orlando streets.

They are under command of Harold E. Macholdt, whose realty office is their headquarters on Columbia street in the Sunset Park section, where he serves as a justice of the peace for the Town of Ulster.

Second in command is Sam LaGuardia, director of the Redi-Men formed on his proposal within the gun club to serve under the County Civil Defense Council.

At Old Hurley, auxiliary police of the civil defense organization, are doing guard duty under direction of James Cuniff and Jay Molyneaux, who mobilized them for service.

During the emergency, the patrols have full police powers on orders of Sheriff Cluett Schantz, and are fully armed.

Quick to Volunteer

Investigator Belmore said the auxiliary police and Redi-Men were quick to volunteer for duty when called last Sunday and their commanders have assured that they will remain in service as long as needed.

That the two groups have been effective is demonstrated by the fact that no reports have been recorded at the sheriff's office of any looting, he said.

The Redi-Men have been in existence for three months, prepared to answer emergency calls from any place within the county. They carry arms and are mobilized for quick transportation to their points of service.

Commander Macholdt, a U. S. Marine Corps veteran of World War 2, and past commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, commended the group for their efficient work under Director LaGuardia, who assembled the men for flood service.

Macholdt also praised the Salvation Army for sending hot coffee to the patrols while they walked their posts during the damp hours of the night.

The volunteer service of the Redi-Men was a source of pride for President Emerson Mayes of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club during whose term in office the group was formed.

Exam Date Correction

The examination for water department employes who are to be placed under civil service will be held April 21 and not on the 12th as was inadvertently reported earlier this week. The civil service commission also issued a correction on one salary, that of filter plant helper which is $1,900 to $2,200. The first figure had been listed at $1,400. The place at which the examination will be held will be announced.

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol of France today laid a tricolor wreath on the grave of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Then he stepped back and stood silently with his head bowed. No word was spoken.

Members of his party—his wife, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, Ambassador Henri Bonnet and other French dignitaries — stood bare-headed during the brief tribute.

The French president was greeted at the Roosevelt estate by the late American President's widow and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Roosevelt.

Suit to Collect On Apples Begins In County Court

A contract action involving sale of 2233 boxes of McIntosh apples in the fall of 1949 has been brought by Nancy Dirago of Milton against J. Edward McGowan of Marlborough. Michael Nardone appears for plaintiff and George Rusk of Rusk and Rusk appears for defendant.

Plaintiff claims a contract was made to sell the apples at $1 per box but that she was offered $768.68 for the crop several months after the apples had been delivered to the cooler. Mrs. Dirago testified in County Court this morning that her husband sold to McGowan the crop as tree run apples after McGowan had inspected some 500 boxes which were in a barn on the Dirago farm. In addition Mrs. Dirago claims the boxes were to be returned and she seeks to recover the boxes at 22 cents each, claiming the boxes returned were not her boxes and were in bad condition.

McGowan claims he never made a contract with Mrs. Dirago or her husband to purchase the apples but that the apples were brought to the storage plant to be sold. McGowan admits he owes $768.68, which is the amount the apples were sold for, less storage and grading costs, and he alleges a check was offered for this sum but was refused by the plaintiff.

Says Grade Low

Defendant claims the apples were brought to his cooler in his absence but that he later told Mr. Dirago he would garde and sell the apples. At the time he had a contract with Beechnut Packing Company to supply certain grade apples at $1.15 per box. He claims Dirago asked that his apples be processed and sent to Beechnut but that after some 250 had been graded it was found the Dirago apples of the grade required ran very low and McGowan advised Dirago to sell his apples elsewhere. McGowan alleges he was authorized to sell the apples and did so, some being sent to the mill for cider. The defendant claims the money offered Dirago is the full amount derived from the apples, less handling and storage charges and a charge for cartage of some apples which were sent to Pennsylvania.

To Attend Funeral

There will be no court Thursday morning, the court recessing to permit attorneys and the Court to attend the funeral of Chris J. Flanagan. No court will be held Friday since there will be a regular special term held that day. When court recessed Thursday it will be to Monday at 10 a. m.

Two cases on the calendar have been settled, No. 1, Leo Gelvan against Anna F. Calabrese, action on promissory note, William A. Kelly for plaintiff and Joseph Acker for defendant; and No. 62, George L. Nelting against Arthur H. Buck, a negligence action. William A. Kaercher for plaintiff and Johnson & McCann for defendant.

Mayor Commends All Who Helped

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today issued the following statement on the recent flood:

On March 31 and April 1 one of the worst floods in the past 35 years hit the City of Kingston and the Esopus creek valley.

The people living on Murphy street were the ones most affected by the flood in Kingston. The residents of Murphy street should be commended for keeping calm while seeing the flood waters destroy their homes and property.

I want to thank the people who assisted or offered to assist at this time of need.

School Board Seeks Advice in Changing Its Curriculum

Plans for the revision of the ninth and tenth year curriculum were discussed at a preliminary meeting of interested citizens, members of the board of education and faculty held at Kingston High School Monday evening. As a result of the study inaugurated at this meeting, it is hoped that a curriculum can be developed which will more adequately meet the needs and problems of the high school adolescent.

Clarence Rowland, vice president of the board of education, acting as chairman, welcomed the group and explained that the New York State Department of Education in the readjustment of its education program, is recognizing that conditions and problems vary in different communities. Each community, Rowland continued, is being encouraged to develop its own curriculum to meet these local needs and the cooperation and advice of the community's citizens is being sought in working out curriculum readjustments.

Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw further emphasized the immediate need of readjusting the secondary school program. He also explained that in asking lay groups to work with the school authorities, Kingston is only following a policy adopted by the state department itself.

The relationship of citizen committees to the board of education was explained by Robert Herzog, president of the board. Such groups, Herzog feels, provide a basis of understanding and give the people an opportunity to express their wishes. In time, such a program of cooperation between citizens and the board can form a pattern of community planning. However, Herzog stressed the fact that, although the committees are free to make recommendations, the board of education must remain responsible for the final decisions.

William Limbacher who is serving as chairman of the general education committee of the high school, then explained that the wide diversity in interests and abalities of students attending high school today make a basic examination of the whole curriculum necessary. A curriculum today, he feels, must be built on such basic needs as citizenship training, family relations and preparation for one's life's work.

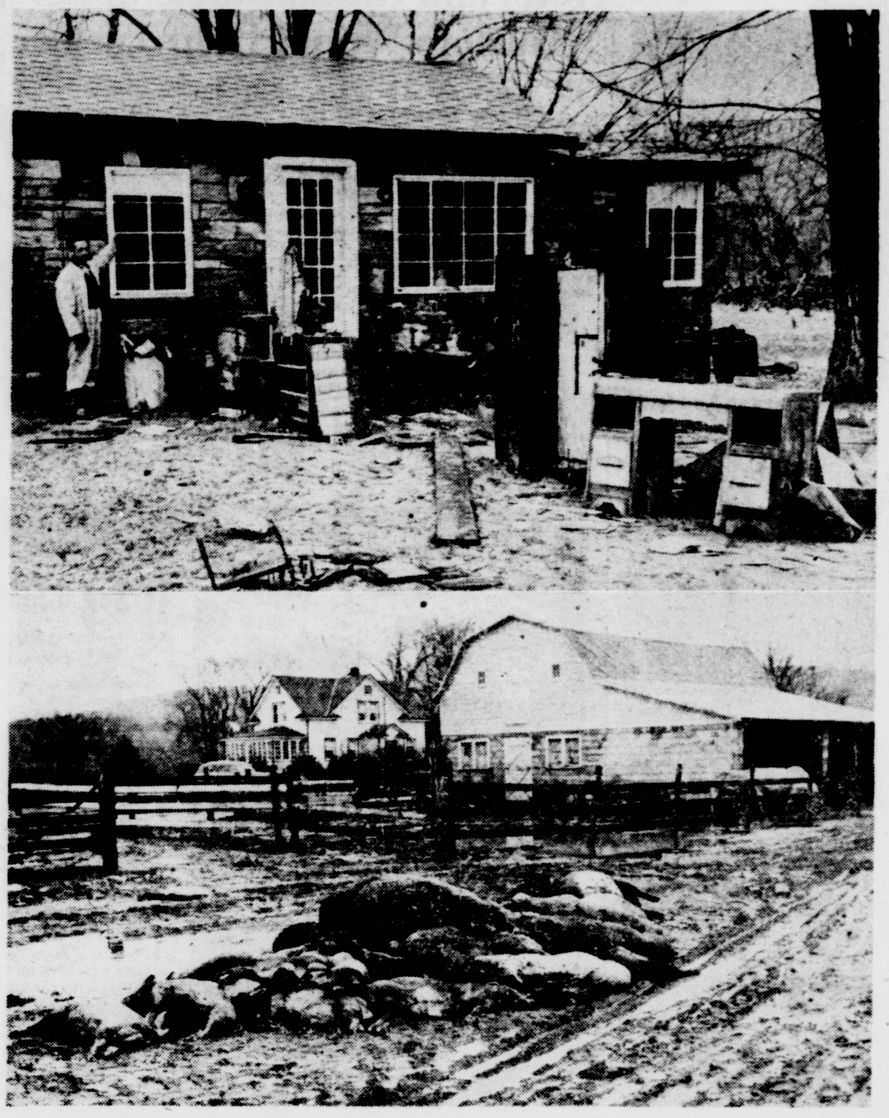

Following a period of informal discussion, two groups were organized, one to work on a program for teaching family relations, the other to develop a program of citizenship training. These groups then met separately to outline programs of future study and to elect co-chairman to assist the faculty committees who have already made a preliminary study of the problems in their field.

Mrs. Vincent Connelly and Herbert Lloyd Shultz were named co-chairmen of the committee on family relations, with Mrs. Thelma Schwab as faculty chairman. Other members of this study group include Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Robert Cousins, Mrs. Joseph Deegan, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, Mrs. Herbert Fister, Dr. Alfred Harder, the Rev. Ralph Houston, Mrs. Richard Kalish, Dr. Elbert MacFadden, Miss Katherine Murphy, Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, Henry Paley, Harry Rigby, Mrs. Herbert Van Deusen, Rabbi Philip Weinberg and Miss Everice Parsons.

City Judge Raymond Mino was elected chairman of the committee on citizenship and will serve with faculty chairman, Leo Doheny. Other members of this committee are Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Mrs. Roger Billings, James Byrne, the Rev. Frank Gollnick, Mrs. Herbert Greenwald, Mrs. N. Le Van Haver, Conrad Heiselman, Mrs. Rosemarie Hogan, Joseph Honig, Joseph Kelly, Stanley Matthews, Lawrence Mac Avery, Mrs. Thomas Plunkett, Lawrence Quilty and Alfred Schmid.

High school faculty members who are also working on these committees include: Citizenship—Mrs. Ida K. Sherman, Francis Carroll, Alexander Banyo, Miss Mary Kelly, Mrs. Mildred Wylie and Miss Ione Kinkade. Family relations—Miss Margaret Schuetz, Victor Mahoney, Miss Margaret Mullen, Joseph Boswell and Mrs. Bella Crook.

Police Release Dog Tied Up With Muslin

Among meanest pranks of the year, to date, was one reported to local police this morning.

Mrs. H. W. Huettinger, 49 Spring street, reported to headquarters at 1 a. m., that a dog, apparently injured, was lying on the sidewalk, and was making noisy efforts to get on its feet.

Officers Raymond Wells and Charles Hoehing were dispatched to the street and found that the dog's legs had been tied together with muslin which had cut into its legs in its efforts to get free. Hoehing held the dog as Wells cut away the muslin and set it free.

Children have the faculty of hearing considerably higher pitched sounds than grown-ups.

Voluntary Patrols Guard Houses in Two Flood Areas

Voluntary armed patrols are serving in two flood areas to prevent looting of property, it was announced today by the sheriff's department.

County Investigator Leonard Belmore said that Old Hurley has auxiliary police protection and that the hard-hit section in the vicinity of the Washington avenue viaduct is also being guarded.

In the sector closest to Kingston, 30 Redi-Men of Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club walk two-hour patrols, guarding homes along Route 28 and on Murphy and Orlando streets.

They are under command of Harold E. Macholdt, whose realty office is their headquarters on Columbia street in the Sunset Park section, where he serves as a justice of the peace for the Town of Ulster.

Second in command is Sam LaGuardia, director of the Redi-Men formed on his proposal within the gun club to serve under the County Civil Defense Council.

At Old Hurley, auxiliary police of the civil defense organization, are doing guard duty under direction of James Cuniff and Jay Molyneaux, who mobilized them for service.

During the emergency, the patrols have full police powers on orders of Sheriff Cluett Schantz, and are fully armed.

Quick to Volunteer

Investigator Belmore said the auxiliary police and Redi-Men were quick to volunteer for duty when called last Sunday and their commanders have assured that they will remain in service as long as needed.

That the two groups have been effective is demonstrated by the fact that no reports have been recorded at the sheriff's office of any looting, he said.

The Redi-Men have been in existence for three months, prepared to answer emergency calls from any place within the county. They carry arms and are mobilized for quick transportation to their points of service.

Commander Macholdt, a U. S. Marine Corps veteran of World War 2, and past commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, commended the group for their efficient work under Director LaGuardia, who assembled the men for flood service.

Macholdt also praised the Salvation Army for sending hot coffee to the patrols while they walked their posts during the damp hours of the night.

The volunteer service of the Redi-Men was a source of pride for President Emerson Mayes of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club during whose term in office the group was formed.

Exam Date Correction

The examination for water department employes who are to be placed under civil service will be held April 21 and not on the 12th as was inadvertently reported earlier this week. The civil service commission also issued a correction on one salary, that of filter plant helper which is $1,900 to $2,200. The first figure had been listed at $1,400. The place at which the examination will be held will be announced.

Auriol Visits FDR Grave, Lays Wreath

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol of France today laid a tricolor wreath on the grave of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Then he stepped back and stood silently with his head bowed. No word was spoken.

Members of his party—his wife, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, Ambassador Henri Bonnet and other French dignitaries — stood bare-headed during the brief tribute.

The French president was greeted at the Roosevelt estate by the late American President's widow and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Roosevelt.

Suit to Collect On Apples Begins In County Court

A contract action involving sale of 2233 boxes of McIntosh apples in the fall of 1949 has been brought by Nancy Dirago of Milton against J. Edward McGowan of Marlborough. Michael Nardone appears for plaintiff and George Rusk of Rusk and Rusk appears for defendant.

Plaintiff claims a contract was made to sell the apples at $1 per box but that she was offered $768.68 for the crop several months after the apples had been delivered to the cooler. Mrs. Dirago testified in County Court this morning that her husband sold to McGowan the crop as tree run apples after McGowan had inspected some 500 boxes which were in a barn on the Dirago farm. In addition Mrs. Dirago claims the boxes were to be returned and she seeks to recover the boxes at 22 cents each, claiming the boxes returned were not her boxes and were in bad condition.

McGowan claims he never made a contract with Mrs. Dirago or her husband to purchase the apples but that the apples were brought to the storage plant to be sold. McGowan admits he owes $768.68, which is the amount the apples were sold for, less storage and grading costs, and he alleges a check was offered for this sum but was refused by the plaintiff.

Says Grade Low

Defendant claims the apples were brought to his cooler in his absence but that he later told Mr. Dirago he would garde and sell the apples. At the time he had a contract with Beechnut Packing Company to supply certain grade apples at $1.15 per box. He claims Dirago asked that his apples be processed and sent to Beechnut but that after some 250 had been graded it was found the Dirago apples of the grade required ran very low and McGowan advised Dirago to sell his apples elsewhere. McGowan alleges he was authorized to sell the apples and did so, some being sent to the mill for cider. The defendant claims the money offered Dirago is the full amount derived from the apples, less handling and storage charges and a charge for cartage of some apples which were sent to Pennsylvania.

To Attend Funeral

There will be no court Thursday morning, the court recessing to permit attorneys and the Court to attend the funeral of Chris J. Flanagan. No court will be held Friday since there will be a regular special term held that day. When court recessed Thursday it will be to Monday at 10 a. m.

Two cases on the calendar have been settled, No. 1, Leo Gelvan against Anna F. Calabrese, action on promissory note, William A. Kelly for plaintiff and Joseph Acker for defendant; and No. 62, George L. Nelting against Arthur H. Buck, a negligence action, William A. Kaercher for plaintiff and Johnson & McCann for defendant.

Voluntary Patrols Guard Houses in Two Flood Areas

Voluntary armed patrols are serving in two flood areas to prevent looting of property, it was announced today by the sheriff's department.

County Investigator Leonard Belmore said that Old Hurley has auxiliary police protection and that the hard-hit section in the vicinity of the Washington avenue viaduct is also being guarded.

In the sector closest to Kingston, 30 Redi-Men of Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club walk two-hour patrols, guarding homes along Route 28 and on Murphy and Orlando streets.

They are under command of Harold E. Macholdt, whose realty office is their headquarters on Columbia street in the Sunset Park section, where he serves as a justice of the peace for the Town of Ulster.

Second in command is Sam LaGuardia, director of the Redi-Men formed on his proposal within the gun club to serve under the County Civil Defense Council.

At Old Hurley, auxiliary police of the civil defense organization, are doing guard duty under direction of James Cuniff and Jay Molyneaux, who mobilized them for service.

During the emergency, the patrols have full police powers on orders of Sheriff Cluett Schantz, and are fully armed.

Quick to Volunteer

Investigator Belmore said the auxiliary police and Redi-Men were quick to volunteer for duty when called last Sunday and their commanders have assured that they will remain in service as long as needed.

That the two groups have been effective is demonstrated by the fact that no reports have been recorded at the sheriff's office of any looting, he said.

The Redi-Men have been in existence for three months, prepared to answer emergency calls from any place within the county. They carry arms and are mobilized for quick transportation to their points of service.

Commander Macholdt, a U. S. Marine Corps veteran of World War 2, and past commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, commended the group for their efficient work under Director LaGuardia, who assembled the men for flood service.

Macholdt also praised the Salvation Army for sending hot coffee to the patrols while they walked their posts during the damp hours of the night.

The volunteer service of the Redi-Men was a source of pride for President Emerson Mayes of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club during whose term in office the group was formed.

Exam Date Correction

The examination for water department employes who are to be placed under civil service will be held April 21 and not on the 12th as was inadvertently reported earlier this week. The civil service commission also issued a correction on one salary, that of filter plant helper which is $1,900 to $2,200. The first figure had been listed at $1,400. The place at which the examination will be held will be announced.

Auriol Visits FDR Grave, Lays Wreath

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 4 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol of France today laid a tricolor wreath on the grave of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Then he stepped back and stood silently with his head bowed. No word was spoken.

Members of his party—his wife, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, Ambassador Henri Bonnet and other French dignitaries — stood bare-headed during the brief tribute.

The French president was greeted at the Roosevelt estate by the late American President's widow and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Roosevelt.

Suit to Collect On Apples Begins In County Court

A contract action involving sale of 2233 boxes of McIntosh apples in the fall of 1949 has been brought by Nancy Dirago of Milton against J. Edward McGowan of Marlborough. Michael Nardone appears for plaintiff and George Rusk of Rusk and Rusk appears for defendant.

Plaintiff claims a contract was made to sell the apples at $1 per box but that she was offered $768.68 for the crop several months after the apples had been delivered to the cooler. Mrs. Dirago testified in County Court this morning that her husband sold to McGowan the crop as tree run apples after McGowan had inspected some 500 boxes which were in a barn on the Dirago farm. In addition Mrs. Dirago claims the boxes were to be returned and she seeks to recover the boxes at 22 cents each, claiming the boxes returned were not her boxes and were in bad condition.

McGowan claims he never made a contract with Mrs. Dirago or her husband to purchase the apples but that the apples were brought to the storage plant to be sold. McGowan admits he owes $768.68, which is the amount the apples were sold for, less storage and grading costs, and he alleges a check was offered for this sum but was refused by the plaintiff.

Says Grade Low

Defendant claims the apples were brought to his cooler in his absence but that he later told Mr. Dirago he would garde and sell the apples. At the time he had a contract with Beechnut Packing Company to supply certain grade apples at $1.15 per box. He claims Dirago asked that his apples be processed and sent to Beechnut but that after some 250 had been graded it was found the Dirago apples of the grade required ran very low and McGowan advised Dirago to sell his apples elsewhere. McGowan alleges he was authorized to sell the apples and did so, some being sent to the mill for cider. The defendant claims the money offered Dirago is the full amount derived from the apples, less handling and storage charges and a charge for cartage of some apples which were sent to Pennsylvania.

To Attend Funeral

There will be no court Thursday morning, the court recessing to permit attorneys and the Court to attend the funeral of Chris J. Flanagan. No court will be held Friday since there will be a regular special term held that day. When court recessed Thursday it will be to Monday at 10 a. m.

Two cases on the calendar have been settled, No. 1, Leo Gelvan against Anna F. Calabrese, action on promissory note, William A. Kelly for plaintiff and Joseph Acker for defendant; and No. 62, George L. Nelting against Arthur H. Buck, a negligence action. William A. Kaercher for plaintiff and Johnson & McCann for defendant.

On March 31 and April 1 one of the worst floods in the past 35 years hit the City of Kingston and the Esopus creek valley.

The people living on Murphy street were the ones most affected by the flood in Kingston. The residents of Murphy street should be commended for keeping calm while seeing the flood waters destroy their homes and property.

and for the help and cooperation of Alderman Radel."

Three claims totalling $18,000 were referred to the corporation counsel. This, added to the total of $80,000 filed in four claims at the March meeting, brings the total in two meetings to $98,000. All are for injuries suffered in falls.

$12,500 Is Asked

The highest filed last night was by Patrolman Joseph P. Fallon, of the local police department, and Mrs. Elizabeth Fallon, his wife, who reside at 52 Lucas avenue.

They ask for $12,500 for injuries suffered by Mrs. Fallon last Dec. 25 on Green street along a property between 137 and 143, and for the loss to her hsuband of her services. The injuries listed included severe injury of the lower spine, injured right elbow, injuries of the back and chest and shock and extreme nervousness. The claim was filed through the law firm of Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman.

Files for Alleged Injuries

Cora and Carl N. Schraedley, of 14 Charlotte Place, filed a claim of $5,000 for injuries suffered in a fall last Dec. 22 on Fair street extension, which they claim was due to a broken condition of the sidewalk and accumulation of ice. She suffered bruises and contusions in and about the body, and a back injury. The nature of some injuries are permanent, the claim said. It was filed by Flanagan & Ortale.

Thomas J. Burke, 106 McEntee street, who said he suffered injuries in a fall last March 1 near 17 Cornell street because of ice on the sidewalk, filed a claim for $500, but gave no details.

Agreement Approved

The council approved an agreement between the city and the education board wherein the latter is to pay $10,000 as authorized under state law for the use of the services of the city engineer, city treasurer, corporation counsel, and the use of other facilities of the city.

The aldermen voted consent for operation of buses over city streets to the DeForest Shaver bus line which conducts a bus service between the city and points in the towns of Esopus and Rosendale. No opposition appeared at a hearing before the meeting.

Recommendation Approved

The council approved recommendations of the traffic control committee asking that a traffic light be installed at St. James and Fair streets, and at Broadway and Delaware avenue. The former had been proposed by Aldermen Abram D. Relyea (11th ward) and Hirschell Mayes (first ward) and the other by John Buboltz, fourth ward.

The aldermen voted for the Buboltz proposal on the provision that lights now at Broadway and O'Neil and Henry streets, which are to be replaced, can be used at Broadway and Delaware avenue.

The committee said it has been making a traffic survey and is continuing it. The aldermen also approved its proposal that a parking meter on Wall street be removed from the left side of the driveway entrance to the parking grounds in back of the court house.

Read and Filed

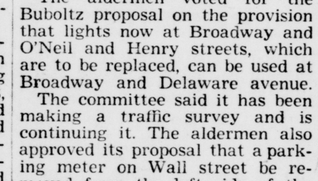

A letter from William Jordan, parade chairman, Kingston Veterans Association, inviting the councilmen to participate in the Memorial Day parade, was read and filed.

The aldermen voted City Assessor Winfield Swart permission to attend a school for assessors at Albany April 18, 19 and 20.

The following resolutions were referred to the B.P.W.:

Alderman Samuel J. Perry, fifth ward: that during construction of Ponckhockie street between Walnut and Yoeman, that a sewer be constructed in the area which now has none; Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th ward, that the Elizabeth street sewer be started as soon as possible, because cellars there are flooded during storms, and that ditches along Glen street be cleaned and repaired.

Referred to the traffic committee was one by Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter asking that a "no parking loading zone sign be placed at 22 Ferry street.

Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Would Help Teetsel

The time, effort and energy he gave one organization is being displayed in loyalty by the membership to Robert E. Teetsel, who suffered heavily from the recent flood.

Realizing their former president's plight as his nightclub, The Barn, was almost covered by the floodwaters, his associates in the Ulster County Hotel & Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association have offered to assist him.

Teetsel's place stands on the bank of the Esopus Creek, across the Washington avenue viaduct in the midst of the farmland area that was ravaged by the rushing waters.

Losses were heavy in the section where residents reportedly cannot insure against floods because of the low terrain in the proximity of the creek.

President's Statement

George E. Broome of Saugerties, president of the liquor association, today called for an all-out effort to do "whatever we may be able to humanly do at a time like this" for Teetsel.

Broome emphasized that he realized "Bob" would be reluctant to ask for any aid.

In a statement addressed to all members of the Ulster County Hotel & Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association he said:

"As we all know the flood during the past few days caused considerable damage to The Barn operated by Bob Teetsel.

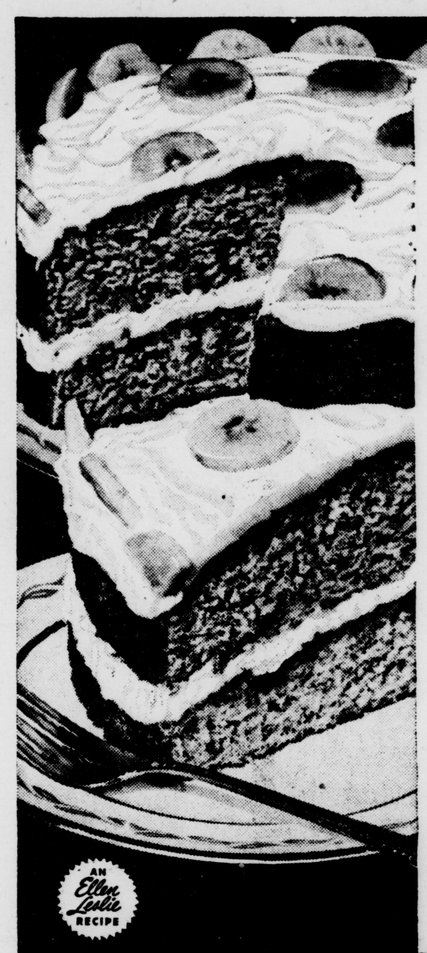

"Knowing Bob as I do, after years of association with him, in county and state work, I know he will be reluctant to ask for any aid.

"However, for his splendid efforts and untiring devotion to ours and other civic organizations in Kingston, I at this time, request that Bob call upon our members and all be placed at his disposal for whatever we may be able to humanly do at a time like this."

Served Well as Leader

During several terms as president served by Teetsel, the association advanced and prospered, as has been brought out at the annual banquets of the organization. His ability as a leader is recognized not only within the ranks of the association, but by enforcement agents, who as speakers, lauded him for building one of the most effective and law abiding organizations in the state.

Teetsel recently received a citation from the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in recognition of the splendid service he rendered that organization and the city at large while serving as president for several terms.

Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Would Help Teetsel

The time, effort and energy he gave one organization is being displayed in loyalty by the membership to Robert E. Teetsel, who suffered heavily from the recent flood.

Realizing their former president's plight as his nightclub, The Barn, was almost covered by the floodwaters, his associates in the Ulster County Hotel & Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association have offered to assist him.

Teetsel's place stands on the bank of the Esopus Creek, across the Washington avenue viaduct in the midst of the farmland area that was ravaged by the rushing waters.

Losses were heavy in the section where residents reportedly cannot insure against floods because of the low terrain in the proximity of the creek.

President's Statement

George E. Broome of Saugerties, president of the liquor association, today called for an all-out effort to do "whatever we may be able to humanly do at a time like this" for Teetsel.

Broome emphasized that he realized "Bob" would be reluctant to ask for any aid.

In a statement addressed to all members of the Ulster County Hotel & Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association he said:

"As we all know the flood during the past few days caused considerable damage to The Barn operated by Bob Teetsel.

"Knowing Bob as I do, after years of association with him, in county and state work, I know he will be reluctant to ask for any aid.

"However, for his splendid efforts and untiring devotion to ours and other civic organizations in Kingston, I at this time, request that Bob call upon our members and all be placed at his disposal for whatever we may be able to humanly do at a time like this."

Served Well as Leader

During several terms as president served by Teetsel, the association advanced and prospered, as has been brought out at the annual banquets of the organization. His ability as a leader is recognized not only within the ranks of the association, but by enforcement agents, who as speakers, lauded him for building one of the most effective and law abiding organizations in the state.

Teetsel recently received a citation from the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in recognition of the splendid service he rendered that organization and the city at large while serving as president for several terms.

Three claims totalling $18,000 were referred to the corporation counsel. This, added to the total of $80,000 filed in four claims at the March meeting, brings the total in two meetings to $98,000. All are for injuries suffered in falls.

They ask for $12,500 for injuries suffered by Mrs. Fallon last Dec. 25 on Green street along a property between 137 and 143, and for the loss to her hsuband of her services. The injuries listed included severe injury of the lower spine, injured right elbow, injuries of the back and chest and shock and extreme nervousness. The claim was filed through the law firm of Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman.

Files for Alleged Injuries

Cora and Carl N. Schraedley, of 14 Charlotte Place, filed a claim of $5,000 for injuries suffered in a fall last Dec. 22 on Fair street extension, which they claim was due to a broken condition of the sidewalk and accumulation of ice. She suffered bruises and contusions in and about the body, and a back injury. The nature of some injuries are permanent, the claim said. It was filed by Flanagan & Ortale.

Thomas J. Burke, 106 McEntee street, who said he suffered injuries in a fall last March 1 near 17 Cornell street because of ice on the sidewalk, filed a claim for $500, but gave no details.

Agreement Approved

The council approved an agreement between the city and the education board wherein the latter is to pay $10,000 as authorized under state law for the use of the services of the city engineer, city treasurer, corporation counsel, and the use of other facilities of the city.

The aldermen voted consent for operation of buses over city streets to the DeForest Shaver bus line which conducts a bus service between the city and points in the towns of Esopus and Rosendale. No opposition appeared at a hearing before the meeting.

Recommendation Approved

The council approved recommendations of the traffic control committee asking that a traffic light be installed at St. James and Fair streets, and at Broadway and Delaware avenue. The former had been proposed by Aldermen Abram D. Relyea (11th ward) and Hirschell Mayes (first ward) and the other by John Buboltz, fourth ward.

The aldermen voted for the Buboltz proposal on the provision that lights now at Broadway and O'Neil and Henry streets, which are to be replaced, can be used at Broadway and Delaware avenue.

The committee said it has been making a traffic survey and is continuing it. The aldermen also approved its proposal that a parking meter on Wall street be removed from the left side of the driveway entrance to the parking grounds in back of the court house.

Referred to the traffic committee was one by Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter asking that a "no parking loading zone sign be placed at 22 Ferry street.

Allied Task . . .

Yonchon. Yonchon is six miles north of the border and 35 miles north of Seoul.

U. N. ground and air forces claimed 1,795 enemy casualties in Tuesday's fighting. The U. S. Eighth Army reported 1,410, Fifth Air Force 250 and carrier-based marine planes 135.

Two American tank forces that crossed the border Tuesday in the west pushed two and one-half miles into Red Korea before they were forced to withdraw.

The crossings were made in the Yonchon sector north of Seoul.

Farther west South Korean forces crossed the cold Imjin river at two points and met heavy Chinese resistance. A Chinese counter-attack pushed one group back despite heavy Allied artillery and air barrages. One force was four miles northwest of Munsan and another was five miles northwest of the battered city. Both forces withdrew.

Brief fights were reported Tuesday from the central front where U. S., British, Greek, Thai (Siamese) and South Korean units forged moderate gains.

Taking New Drug

Houston, April 4 (AP)—Hospital attendants say seven-year-old Wayne Gideon apparently is feeling pretty good. Four more injections of anti-hemophiliac globulin were given the boy yesterday. The lad also received the 34th and 35th pints of blood given him since he fell March 19 with a stick in his mouth and injured his throat. The new drug is being given Wayne in hopes it will counteract the rare disease which keeps his blood from clotting properly. His throat had been bleeding most of the time since he was injured.

7 Are Arrested In Abortion Ring Following Raid

New York, April 4 (AP)—Three doctors and four other persons were arrested today as alleged members of a $500,000-year abortion ring.

The arrests followed a raid on an apartment while an abortion was in progress, detectives said.

Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan made the half-million business estimate as the seven prisoners were booked by police on abortion charges in the early morning.

Authorities said the three doctors were held as possible "forwarders" of women to a mobile abortion clinic.

A self-styled "doctor," Daniel Paolucci, 40, of (82 Colonial Place) New Rochelle, N. Y., was accused of running this clinic, police said.

Paolucci's alleged assistants were identified as Mrs. Frances Dirista, 30, accused of actually assisting at abortions; Mrs. Venice Windt, 35, alleged to have let her apartment be used for operations; and Pearl La Casso, 32, who claims to be a registered nurse.

Doctors Identified

The doctors were identified as Harry H. Fisher, 59; Alexandria Plavska, 52, and Lawrence Radin, 40, all of Manhattan.

Hogan said Miss La Casso admitted arrangements with patients, many of whom came from Connecticut and New Jersey.

The ring, Hogan added, performed about five abortions a day at prices ranging from $350 to $1,500, depending upon the length of pregnancy.

He said Paolucci and Mrs. Dirista were nabbed by detectives who broke in on an abortion operation yesterday in a Brooklyn apartment. Paolucci was permitted to complete the operation under the surveillance of a city doctor, Hogan said.

The district attorney did not identify the patient, nor did he tell where she went after the operation.

Five in Custody

The other five were taken into custody later at homes and offices. The three doctors were questioned at length last night before Hogan placed them under arrest.

Hogan said he acted with the knowledge of the Brooklyn district attorney. The ring, he explained, had first come under investigation before March 17 when it alleged operated in Mrs. Windt's apartment in Manhattan, which is Hogan's territory.

Paolucci was not licensed to practice here, police said. However, he was quoted as saying he graduated from the University of Rome, Italy, medical school and interned at New York state hospitals.

Police said Paolucci admitted performing abortions for two years.

Predict Shad Run Will Be Average

Edgewater, N. J., April 4 (AP)—Fishermen say this year's shad run will be "about average."

They base their prediction on 78 shad caught yesterday in one net set out for test purposes.

By next week, however, the Hudson river will be dotted with dozens of nets as the annual run gets underway on a big scale.

Despite the "average" prediction, veteran fishermen are far from happy.

They say they missed the big Lenten market for the fish because Easter was so early this year and they point to the fact that fishing days have been cut from 5½ to four days a week by state law.

Like everything else these days shad prices are up. You'll pay about 29 cents a pound for buck shad and about 50 cents a pound and up for roe shad.

Fifty years ago shad sold for 10 cents a pound.

Plan Is Presented

New York, April 4 (AP)—The Consolidated Edison Company of New York, seeking approval of a plan to provide natural gas in parts of Westchester, the Bronx and Queens, presented details of its proposal yesterday before the Public Service Commission, declaring that Westchester county gas rates would be cut to New York city levels under the proposal. Harland C. Forbes, executive vice president of the company, testified before a PSC hearing examiner that savings through the use of natural gas, piped from the southwest, would be reflected by uniform rates throughout the company's system.

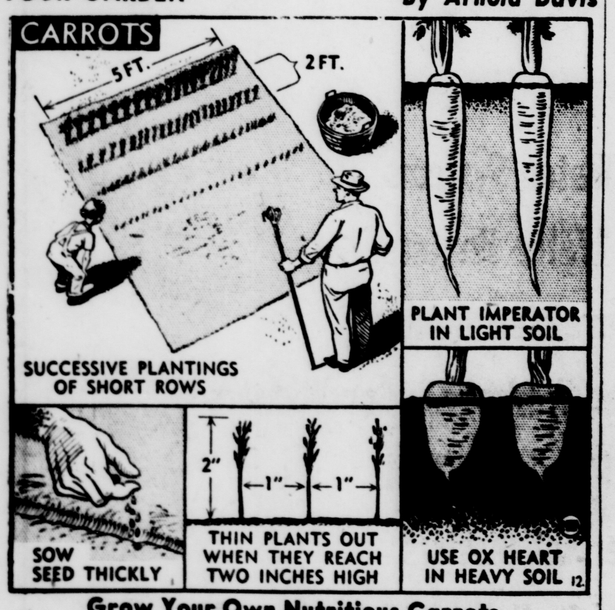

Robbery Suspect Killed

New York, April 4 (AP)—Detectives shot and killed one of three robbery suspects in west Harlem today when they tried to escape after allegedly holding up three taxicab drivers. Police said they opened fire on the three men, all Negroes, as the third holdup was in progress. They had been hunting the trio after cab driver LeRoy R. Hulen, 945 Jackson avenue, the Bronx, reported that three men, one armed with a gun, robbed him of $23 and a watch. The dead man was not identified. An alleged accomplice, Robert Davis, 22, was arrested on robbery and felonious assault charges. The third suspect escaped.

Grow Your Own Nutritious Carrots

Carrots have many reported virtues such as helping out in night vision and making your hair curl. These traits, however, do not keep the plant from being valuable as a source of vitamins and minerals. Fresh buttered carrots are a choice table delicacy, while sliced carrot sticks rank as one of the best of appetizers.

Grow your own supply in straight garden rows about two feet apart. Sow the seed thickly and when the plants are 2 inches high thin out to one inch apart. Use the first carrots that mature for early table vegetables; then plant another row for late fall use.

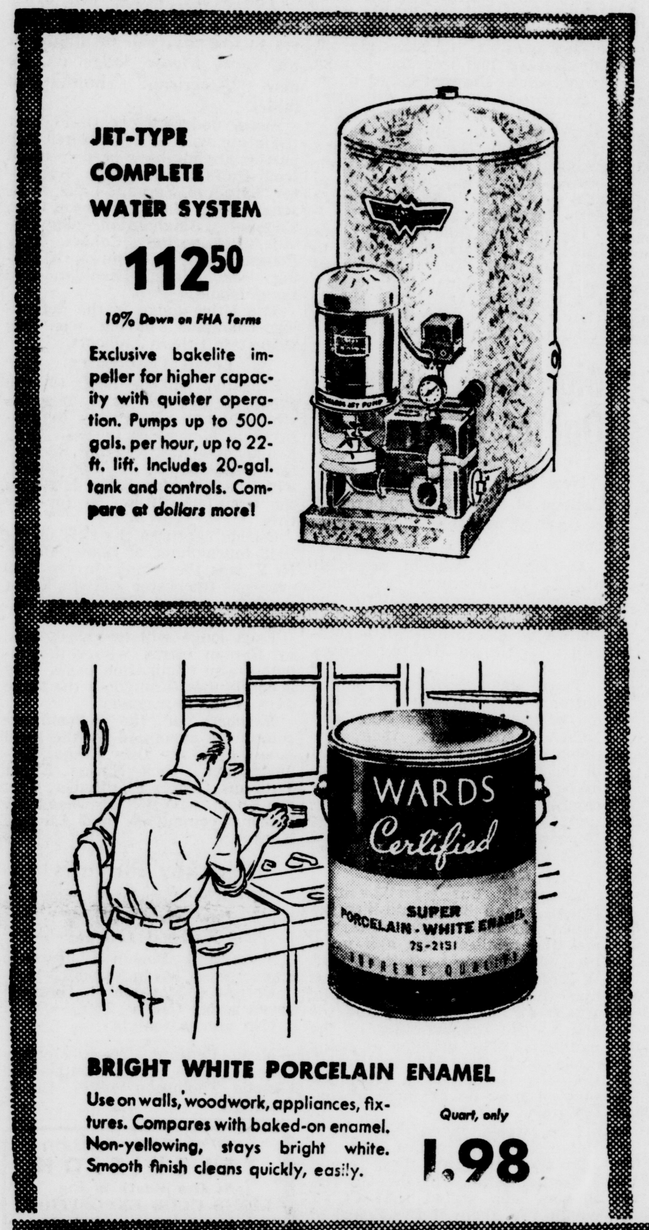

If the carrots remain in the ground until freezing weather they will be much sweeter and more delicious.

Plant about 5 feet of row per person. In heavy soil that is hard to work, grow the short, varieties such as Ox Heart, and in light soil grow the long types like Imperator or Nantes.

Surplus products can be stored or canned so none need be wasted.

Taking New Drug

Houston, April 4 (AP)—Hospital attendants say seven-year-old Wayne Gideon apparently is feeling pretty good. Four more injections of anti-hemophiliac globulin were given the boy yesterday. The lad also received the 34th and 35th pints of blood given him since he fell March 19 with a stick in his mouth and injured his throat. The new drug is being given Wayne in hopes it will counteract the rare disease which keeps his blood from clotting properly. His throat had been bleeding most of the time since he was injured.

7 Are Arrested In Abortion Ring Following Raid

New York, April 4 (AP)—Three doctors and four other persons were arrested today as alleged members of a $500,000-year abortion ring.

The arrests followed a raid on an apartment while an abortion was in progress, detectives said.

Manhattan District Attorney Frank S. Hogan made the half-million business estimate as the seven prisoners were booked by police on abortion charges in the early morning.

Authorities said the three doctors were held as possible "forwarders" of women to a mobile abortion clinic.

A self-styled "doctor," Daniel Paolucci, 40, of (82 Colonial Place) New Rochelle, N. Y., was accused of running this clinic, police said.

Paolucci's alleged assistants were identified as Mrs. Frances Dirista, 30, accused of actually assisting at abortions; Mrs. Venice Windt, 35, alleged to have let her apartment be used for operations; and Pearl La Casso, 32, who claims to be a registered nurse.

Doctors Identified

The doctors were identified as Harry H. Fisher, 59; Alexandria Plavska, 52, and Lawrence Radin, 40, all of Manhattan.

Hogan said Miss La Casso admitted arrangements with patients, many of whom came from Connecticut and New Jersey.

The ring, Hogan added, performed about five abortions a day at prices ranging from $350 to $1,500, depending upon the length of pregnancy.

He said Paolucci and Mrs. Dirista were nabbed by detectives who broke in on an abortion operation yesterday in a Brooklyn apartment. Paolucci was permitted to complete the operation under the surveillance of a city doctor, Hogan said.

The district attorney did not identify the patient, nor did he tell where she went after the operation.

Five in Custody

The other five were taken into custody later at homes and offices. The three doctors were questioned at length last night before Hogan placed them under arrest.

Hogan said he acted with the knowledge of the Brooklyn district attorney. The ring, he explained, had first come under investigation before March 17 when it alleged operated in Mrs. Windt's apartment in Manhattan, which is Hogan's territory.

Paolucci was not licensed to practice here, police said. However, he was quoted as saying he graduated from the University of Rome, Italy, medical school and interned at New York state hospitals.

Police said Paolucci admitted performing abortions for two years.

Predict Shad Run Will Be Average

Wiltwyck Motors Defeat Potters, 67-59, for 'Y' Basketball Crown

Haggerty Sets Pace With 28 Points

A classy, smooth-operating Wiltwyck Motors quintet captured the 1950-51 Y.M.C.A. Basketball League title last night, by downing Potter Brothers, 67-59, in the third and deciding contest of the post-season playoff.

The Motormen gallantly held off their rivals with only four players in the last seven minutes of play and got a 6-6 standoff during those hectic minutes.

From the start, it was a Wiltwyck triumph in the making as Don Haggerty, the mighty mite of the squad, unleashed a steady barrage of baskets to build up a 28-point total.

When Haggerty wasn't murdering the Potters with inside shots, "Pappy" Sickler and "Red" Murray were hitting with deadly precision on beautiful set shots.

Defensive Stand

Wiltwycks led 57-49 when Sickler turned his ankle early in the fourth period and had to leave the game. Without a single substitute on (the) bench, the Wiltwycks were forced to go the rest of the way with only four players. The Motormen resorted to a tight possession game and, despite an all-court press by the Potters, they were able to hold their opponents even until the end of the contest.

The contest resolved itself into a Wiltwyck pattern a flurry of action in the first two minutes when four of the five shots attempted by both sides connected for baskets. Cliff Schoonmaker hit with two straight for Potters and Wiltwycks squared it.

Haggerty's four baskets — driving layups and pop shots from inside the foul line — set the Wiltwyck team moving. Murray drilled three long range beauties and the eventual winners ground out an 18-14 margin. By halftime they had increased their lead to 39-37.

Potters held a 22-18 edge in the third period, giving Wiltwycks a 10-point margin going into the stretch. And that's how the clubs finished, despite Wiltwyck's "four-man" scare in the closing minutes.

Haggerty, as brilliant as he has been all season, connected for a dozen fields and four singletons for his 28 points. Murray had a half dozen deuces in his 13 points; Sickler and Fred Parslow each had 11 and Al Carpouzis contributed four points to the victory.

Vince Peck and Cliff Schoonmaker scored 15 points apiece for the losers, Big Jack Doyle had 13 and Percy Greene scored 11.

The three games were very well played and the sportsmanship demonstrated by both teams was of the highest calibre, Lou Schafer, the league director, said today. He particularly praised the work of the two officials — Bing Van Etten and Al Gruner.

Schafer pointed out that more than 165 young boys and men took part in the Y.M.C.A. winter basketball program.

The boxscore:

Wiltwyck Motors (67)	FG	FP	TP
Haggerty, f	12	4	28

Basketball Officials' Prexy Blasts Reports of 'Fixing' by Referees

Challenges Accusers To Furnish Evidence

Hagerstown, Md., April 4 (AP)—The boss of the college basketball referees was sore. He made it plain he was tired of hearing reports that officials may have been mixed up in the sensational basketball fixes uncovered recently in New York.

"I'm tired of turning the other cheek," said Stewart C. Paxton, president of the National Association of Approved Basketball Officials. "Those boys who accuse us should put up or shut up."

Paxton is a mild-mannered fellow who left the hardwoods a few years ago to accept the job of managing the country's top whistle-tooters.

He didn't mention any specific incidents where officials had been accused, except that he had "read or heard" it during the Senate Crime Committee's investigations.

But it is a matter of public record that Sidney Brodson, Milwaukee gambler testifying before the Kefauver committee in Washington two weeks ago, asserted that referees may be linked with the cage "fix" scandal.

"No evidence of any kind," Paxton declared, "has been offered to support the testimony of a reputed gambler who stated four or five basketball refrees might be mixed up in the basketball gambling scandal.

"We have the utmost confidence in the NAABO officials and will insist on a definite and positive case of proven guilt or complete vindication.

"I am tired of this finger of suspicion being pointed at our members and intend to investigate with all the resources at our command. If any NAABO official is even remotely connected with such a scandal, he would be suspended for life if proven guilty."

Paxton said he was particularly anxious to have something definite on the matter to report to the Association when it meets Saturday in New York for its annual meeting.

Illness Halts Simmons' Career

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—Illness halted Al Simmons' 26 consecutive years as a major league baseballer today.

Now a coach with the Cleveland Indians, Simmons, with tears in his eyes, told manager Al Lopez that he just couldn't continue. Lopez asked him to wait awhile before making his decision.

Simmons said no.

"The Indians have been fair to me, and I want to play fair with them," he said. "I can't help you any longer. I'm going home to see my doctor in Milwaukee and find out what's wrong with me. I'm finished for the year."

Thus for the first time since 1924 Al Simmons is packing away his big league uniform.

Manager Lopez said that he would shift Jake Flowers to the third base coaching spot and Mel Harder to first. He said he would ask the Cleveland management to get him another coach to help out in the bull pen.

It is expected that Charles (Red) Ruffing, now the Tribe's roving coach, will be brought up to the Indians to fill the vacancy left by Simmons' retirement.

New York—Lou "Sonny" Volpe, 145¼, New York, outpointed Georgie Flores, 146¼, New York, 8.

Lakers Licked!

It had to come sometime, of course, but a pro basketball final playoff without the Minneapolis Lakers is like Ebbets Field without the Dodgers. You just can't picture it!

But that's the situation today following the startling elimination of Minneapolis from the N.B.A. playoffs.

Rochester performed the "impossible" last night by whipping the Lakers, 80-75, at Rochester. It gave the red-hot Royals their third straight victory in the best-of-five western division playoff. Minneapolis had won the opening game before the roof caved in.

Rochester, therefore, will meet the winner of tonight's New York-Syracuse scrap for the N.B.A. championship. The heated eastern division rivals, tied 2-2 in their best-of-five series, will clash at 8:30 p. m. (EST) in New York's 69th Regiment Armory.

It's the first time in four years the men of Minneapolis failed to gain the finals. They had cleaned up in the National League, the B.A.A., and last year in the N.B.A. They'll have to pay to see the finals this time, however.

Big Time Cagers Out at CCNY

New York, April 4 (AP)—City College of New York apparently is through with big time basketball.

Dr. Harry N. Wright, president of CCNY, announced yesterday he would recommend "to the Board of Higher Education that we should discontinue all basketball activities in Madison Square Garden."

Thus, the school that gained national acclaim only a year ago by winning both the NIT and NCAA tournaments, then saw seven of its star players arrested in the fixed games scandal, seemingly has joined the back-to-the-campus movement.

CCNY's uptown gym seats 1,100 compared to the 18,000 at the Garden.

Garden Is Factor

"Basically our problem is caused by an incompatibility between our educational objectives and the requirements and practices of big time basketball," Dr. Wright said. "The situation is made more acute by a low public sensitivity to moral standards and to the responsibility of the individual. The decision is being made with the full realization that the Garden as a place for playing may be at most a contributory factor."

Last week, when New York University, Manhattan and St. John's announced they would continue to play in the Garden, it had been stated that CCNY would join them if the Board of Higher Education approves.

Dr. Wright said, however, that this statement "was wholly unauthorized by me or any member of my staff and was an unfortunate representation of my attitude."

600 Players Due To Compete Here On May 4, 5, 6

Event First of Kind Ever Staged in City

Kingston Lodge No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will be host to the New York state Moose shuffleboard championships on May 4, 5 and 6, it was announced today.

The event, which will bring more than 600 shuffleboard players to the city, will be staged at the local Moose lodge on six new "American" shuffleboard tables.

Moose lodges from throughout the state will be represented and entries already have been received from Buffalo, Jamestown, Rochester, Syracuse, Saranac Lake, Massena, Utica, Elmira, Johnson City, Endicott, Binghamton, Gloversville, Schednectady, Cohoes, Troy Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Ossining, New York, Brooklyn and Long Island.

The Utica lodge is the defending champion, having won the 1950 state title in Endicott.

Locals First Entry

Kingston will be host to the event for the first time since the state championships were inaugurated in Newburgh in 1947. Only two teams—Kingston and Rochester—participated in that event, with the Kingston lodge defeating the upstaters, 10 to 5, for the title.

Oneida captured the title in the 1948 tournament at Rome; Perry, N. Y. was the winner in the 1949 event at Rochester and the Utica shufflers copped the corwn last year in Endicott.

Each lodge will be represented by 10-man teams, who will compete on an elimination basis. Play is continuous throughout the three days of the tournament.

Members of the tournament committee appointed by the local Moose lodge are Tony Erena, Melvin Scules, Burt Spray, Elmer Williams, George Planthaber, Robert Flynn, who will also head the housing committee, and Edward Heckel.

Saddler TKO Winner In Stormy Bout

Los Angeles, April 4 (AP)—Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, New York, emerged with a technical knockout victory over Los Angeles' Freddie (Babe) Herman last night after a non-title fight marked by almost as much verbal, as physical, argument.

Herman fans in the crowd of 7,000 gave vent to a storm of boos when Referee Abe Roth ruled it a fifth round TKO after Herman refused to come out of his corner for the sixth.

Late in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-round tussle the New Yorker landed a blow that the Herman corner claimed was a foul. From ringside the punch appeared well up on Herman's leg but not near the groin. The rival camps argued and ranted and Herman's cornermen demanded that he be given the bout on a foul.

After a 10-minute delay Referee Roth finally persuaded Herman to continue the round and in the final seconds he was knocked down for a no-count as the bell rang. Herman, refusing to go on in the sixth, claimed he had been badly hurt by the low blow.

Roth had Saddler ahead in three of the rounds and gave Herman the second and third. Saddler weighed 130¾, Herman 135½.

Williams Defends Title in May

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—Ike Williams finally has decided to defend his lightweight championship but it seems likely today the Trenton, N. J., puncher waited a little too long to make up his mind.

Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Williams' manager, said Ike will fight James Carter of New York in a title match at Madison Square Garden May 11.

This move caused the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission to lift its suspension of Williams but it didn't change the position of the National Boxing Association.

The NBA had begun polling the 14 members of its executive committee to decide whether to declare Williams' title vacant because he ignored an NBA directive to defend his crown by March 31.

Wiltwyck Motors Defeat Potters, 67-59, for 'Y' Basketball Crown

Haggerty Sets Pace With 28 Points

A classy, smooth-operating Wiltwyck Motors quintet captured the 1950-51 Y.M.C.A. Basketball League title last night, by downing Potter Brothers, 67-59, in the third and deciding contest of the post-season playoff.

The Motormen gallantly held off their rivals with only four players in the last seven minutes of play and got a 6-6 standoff during those hectic minutes.

From the start, it was a Wiltwyck triumph in the making as Don Haggerty, the mighty mite of the squad, unleashed a steady barrage of baskets to build up a 28-point total.

When Haggerty wasn't murdering the Potters with inside shots, "Pappy" Sickler and "Red" Murray were hitting with deadly precision on beautiful set shots.

Defensive Stand

Wiltwycks led 57-49 when Sickler turned his ankle early in the fourth period and had to leave the game. Without a single substitute on (the) bench, the Wiltwycks were forced to go the rest of the way with only four players. The Motormen resorted to a tight possession game and, despite an all-court press by the Potters, they were able to hold their opponents even until the end of the contest.

The contest resolved itself into a Wiltwyck pattern a flurry of action in the first two minutes when four of the five shots attempted by both sides connected for baskets. Cliff Schoonmaker hit with two straight for Potters and Wiltwycks squared it.

Haggerty's four baskets — driving layups and pop shots from inside the foul line — set the Wiltwyck team moving. Murray drilled three long range beauties and the eventual winners ground out an 18-14 margin. By halftime they had increased their lead to 39-37.

Potters held a 22-18 edge in the third period, giving Wiltwycks a 10-point margin going into the stretch. And that's how the clubs finished, despite Wiltwyck's "four-man" scare in the closing minutes.

Haggerty, as brilliant as he has been all season, connected for a dozen fields and four singletons for his 28 points. Murray had a half dozen deuces in his 13 points; Sickler and Fred Parslow each had 11 and Al Carpouzis contributed four points to the victory.

Vince Peck and Cliff Schoonmaker scored 15 points apiece for the losers, Big Jack Doyle had 13 and Percy Greene scored 11.

The three games were very well played and the sportsmanship demonstrated by both teams was of the highest calibre, Lou Schafer, the league director, said today. He particularly praised the work of the two officials — Bing Van Etten and Al Gruner.

Schafer pointed out that more than 165 young boys and men took part in the Y.M.C.A. winter basketball program.

Challenges Accusers To Furnish Evidence

Hagerstown, Md., April 4 (AP)—The boss of the college basketball referees was sore. He made it plain he was tired of hearing reports that officials may have been mixed up in the sensational basketball fixes uncovered recently in New York.

"I'm tired of turning the other cheek," said Stewart C. Paxton, president of the National Association of Approved Basketball Officials. "Those boys who accuse us should put up or shut up."

Paxton is a mild-mannered fellow who left the hardwoods a few years ago to accept the job of managing the country's top whistle-tooters.

He didn't mention any specific incidents where officials had been accused, except that he had "read or heard" it during the Senate Crime Committee's investigations.

But it is a matter of public record that Sidney Brodson, Milwaukee gambler testifying before the Kefauver committee in Washington two weeks ago, asserted that referees may be linked with the cage "fix" scandal.

"No evidence of any kind," Paxton declared, "has been offered to support the testimony of a reputed gambler who stated four or five basketball refrees might be mixed up in the basketball gambling scandal.

"We have the utmost confidence in the NAABO officials and will insist on a definite and positive case of proven guilt or complete vindication.

"I am tired of this finger of suspicion being pointed at our members and intend to investigate with all the resources at our command. If any NAABO official is even remotely connected with such a scandal, he would be suspended for life if proven guilty."

Paxton said he was particularly anxious to have something definite on the matter to report to the Association when it meets Saturday in New York for its annual meeting.

Illness Halts Simmons' Career

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—Illness halted Al Simmons' 26 consecutive years as a major league baseballer today.

Now a coach with the Cleveland Indians, Simmons, with tears in his eyes, told manager Al Lopez that he just couldn't continue. Lopez asked him to wait awhile before making his decision.

Simmons said no.

"The Indians have been fair to me, and I want to play fair with them," he said. "I can't help you any longer. I'm going home to see my doctor in Milwaukee and find out what's wrong with me. I'm finished for the year."

Thus for the first time since 1924 Al Simmons is packing away his big league uniform.

Manager Lopez said that he would shift Jake Flowers to the third base coaching spot and Mel Harder to first. He said he would ask the Cleveland management to get him another coach to help out in the bull pen.

It is expected that Charles (Red) Ruffing, now the Tribe's roving coach, will be brought up to the Indians to fill the vacancy left by Simmons' retirement.

New York—Lou "Sonny" Volpe, 145¼, New York, outpointed Georgie Flores, 146¼, New York, 8.

Lakers Licked!

It had to come sometime, of course, but a pro basketball final playoff without the Minneapolis Lakers is like Ebbets Field without the Dodgers. You just can't picture it!

But that's the situation today following the startling elimination of Minneapolis from the N.B.A. playoffs.

Rochester performed the "impossible" last night by whipping the Lakers, 80-75, at Rochester. It gave the red-hot Royals their third straight victory in the best-of-five western division playoff. Minneapolis had won the opening game before the roof caved in.

Rochester, therefore, will meet the winner of tonight's New York-Syracuse scrap for the N.B.A. championship. The heated eastern division rivals, tied 2-2 in their best-of-five series, will clash at 8:30 p. m. (EST) in New York's 69th Regiment Armory.

It's the first time in four years the men of Minneapolis failed to gain the finals. They had cleaned up in the National League, the B.A.A., and last year in the N.B.A. They'll have to pay to see the finals this time, however.

"Basically our problem is caused by an incompatibility between our educational objectives and the requirements and practices of big time basketball," Dr. Wright said. "The situation is made more acute by a low public sensitivity to moral standards and to the responsibility of the individual. The decision is being made with the full realization that the Garden as a place for playing may be at most a contributory factor."

Last week, when New York University, Manhattan and St. John's announced they would continue to play in the Garden, it had been stated that CCNY would join them if the Board of Higher Education approves.

Dr. Wright said, however, that this statement "was wholly unauthorized by me or any member of my staff and was an unfortunate representation of my attitude."

Now a coach with the Cleveland Indians, Simmons, with tears in his eyes, told manager Al Lopez that he just couldn't continue. Lopez asked him to wait awhile before making his decision.

Simmons said no.

"The Indians have been fair to me, and I want to play fair with them," he said. "I can't help you any longer. I'm going home to see my doctor in Milwaukee and find out what's wrong with me. I'm finished for the year."

Thus for the first time since 1924 Al Simmons is packing away his big league uniform.

Manager Lopez said that he would shift Jake Flowers to the third base coaching spot and Mel Harder to first. He said he would ask the Cleveland management to get him another coach to help out in the bull pen.

It is expected that Charles (Red) Ruffing, now the Tribe's roving coach, will be brought up to the Indians to fill the vacancy left by Simmons' retirement.

Lakers Licked!

It had to come sometime, of course, but a pro basketball final playoff without the Minneapolis Lakers is like Ebbets Field without the Dodgers. You just can't picture it!

But that's the situation today following the startling elimination of Minneapolis from the N.B.A. playoffs.

Rochester performed the "impossible" last night by whipping the Lakers, 80-75, at Rochester. It gave the red-hot Royals their third straight victory in the best-of-five western division playoff. Minneapolis had won the opening game before the roof caved in.

Rochester, therefore, will meet the winner of tonight's New York-Syracuse scrap for the N.B.A. championship. The heated eastern division rivals, tied 2-2 in their best-of-five series, will clash at 8:30 p. m. (EST) in New York's 69th Regiment Armory.

It's the first time in four years the men of Minneapolis failed to gain the finals. They had cleaned up in the National League, the B.A.A., and last year in the N.B.A. They'll have to pay to see the finals this time, however.

Big Time Cagers Out at CCNY

New York, April 4 (AP)—City College of New York apparently is through with big time basketball.

Dr. Harry N. Wright, president of CCNY, announced yesterday he would recommend "to the Board of Higher Education that we should discontinue all basketball activities in Madison Square Garden."

Thus, the school that gained national acclaim only a year ago by winning both the NIT and NCAA tournaments, then saw seven of its star players arrested in the fixed games scandal, seemingly has joined the back-to-the-campus movement.

CCNY's uptown gym seats 1,100 compared to the 18,000 at the Garden.

Garden Is Factor

"Basically our problem is caused by an incompatibility between our educational objectives and the requirements and practices of big time basketball," Dr. Wright said. "The situation is made more acute by a low public sensitivity to moral standards and to the responsibility of the individual. The decision is being made with the full realization that the Garden as a place for playing may be at most a contributory factor."

Last week, when New York University, Manhattan and St. John's announced they would continue to play in the Garden, it had been stated that CCNY would join them if the Board of Higher Education approves.

Dr. Wright said, however, that this statement "was wholly unauthorized by me or any member of my staff and was an unfortunate representation of my attitude."

600 Players Due To Compete Here On May 4, 5, 6

Event First of Kind Ever Staged in City

Kingston Lodge No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will be host to the New York state Moose shuffleboard championships on May 4, 5 and 6, it was announced today.

The event, which will bring more than 600 shuffleboard players to the city, will be staged at the local Moose lodge on six new "American" shuffleboard tables.

Moose lodges from throughout the state will be represented and entries already have been received from Buffalo, Jamestown, Rochester, Syracuse, Saranac Lake, Massena, Utica, Elmira, Johnson City, Endicott, Binghamton, Gloversville, Schednectady, Cohoes, Troy Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Ossining, New York, Brooklyn and Long Island.

The Utica lodge is the defending champion, having won the 1950 state title in Endicott.

Locals First Entry

Kingston will be host to the event for the first time since the state championships were inaugurated in Newburgh in 1947. Only two teams—Kingston and Rochester—participated in that event, with the Kingston lodge defeating the upstaters, 10 to 5, for the title.

Oneida captured the title in the 1948 tournament at Rome; Perry, N. Y. was the winner in the 1949 event at Rochester and the Utica shufflers copped the corwn last year in Endicott.

Each lodge will be represented by 10-man teams, who will compete on an elimination basis. Play is continuous throughout the three days of the tournament.

Members of the tournament committee appointed by the local Moose lodge are Tony Erena, Melvin Scules, Burt Spray, Elmer Williams, George Planthaber, Robert Flynn, who will also head the housing committee, and Edward Heckel.

Saddler TKO Winner In Stormy Bout

Los Angeles, April 4 (AP)—Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, New York, emerged with a technical knockout victory over Los Angeles' Freddie (Babe) Herman last night after a non-title fight marked by almost as much verbal, as physical, argument.

Herman fans in the crowd of 7,000 gave vent to a storm of boos when Referee Abe Roth ruled it a fifth round TKO after Herman refused to come out of his corner for the sixth.

Late in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-round tussle the New Yorker landed a blow that the Herman corner claimed was a foul. From ringside the punch appeared well up on Herman's leg but not near the groin. The rival camps argued and ranted and Herman's cornermen demanded that he be given the bout on a foul.

After a 10-minute delay Referee Roth finally persuaded Herman to continue the round and in the final seconds he was knocked down for a no-count as the bell rang. Herman, refusing to go on in the sixth, claimed he had been badly hurt by the low blow.

Roth had Saddler ahead in three of the rounds and gave Herman the second and third. Saddler weighed 130¾, Herman 135½.

Williams Defends Title in May

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—Ike Williams finally has decided to defend his lightweight championship but it seems likely today the Trenton, N. J., puncher waited a little too long to make up his mind.

Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Williams' manager, said Ike will fight James Carter of New York in a title match at Madison Square Garden May 11.

This move caused the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission to lift its suspension of Williams but it didn't change the position of the National Boxing Association.

The NBA had begun polling the 14 members of its executive committee to decide whether to declare Williams' title vacant because he ignored an NBA directive to defend his crown by March 31.

Fresh from a sensational victory in the $500 Cincinnati Sweepstakes, Rose Schatzel continued to roll with a 611 triple in the Women's Major League, Monday at the Bowlodrome.

The dark-haired dynamiter wrapped solos of 196 and 171 around a rousing 244 middle set for her big triple. Runnerup Grace Sabo Wojciechowski was heading for a "600" with opening scores of 212 and 204, but she slumped to 161 and a 577. Nice slumping!

Elizabeth Schoonmaker, who will shortly defend her Class C New York State women's singles crown, powered 236-575; Mary Wyant had 215-531; Beverly Port 525; Charlotte Lapine 522; Sue Heins 512; Reta Frederick and Miriam Posner 508; Rita La Rocca 501; Kay Brodhead 500 and Dot Rawding 499.

Ronnie Mauro slapped the maples for a 601 triple, with 208-189-204, last night in the Central Rec League. Eleanor Singer set her sights for a "600" triple in the Friendship League last night and but for a third game slump she might have made it. Her 211-202-160 set did give her a 573 total which led the Tuesday night circuit by a wide margin.

Three others moved into the "500" circle, Rose Mellert with 515; Winnie Overfield 514 and Dot Rawding 513. Ada Markle 495; Rose Rhymer 486; Phyl Gehringer 483; Vi Slover 482; M. Perry 471; Marge Van Alstyne 470; Amy Mauro and Marge Mellert 468; Marge Jansen 466; Miriam Posner 466; Mabel Mackey 465; Bea Arlensky 462; G. Willard Joy, who copped high single honors and the KBA medal with a 243, shot 151.41 and Andy Krom had 151.6 to round out the first five.

CHAMPION AND HER TROPHY

Rose Schatzel, Kingston's bowling queen, proudly displays the stunning trophy which she won, in addition to $500 in cash, in a Cincinnati, Ohio individual sweepstakes on Sunday in competiton against the nation's best women keglers. Mrs. Schatzel rolled a six-game, 1243-total, with scores of 226, 192, 191, 237, 213 and 184. Vi Michaels, a Cincinnati product, was second with 1176. The Cincinnati triumph was the fifth major sweepstakes victory for the local star. (Freeman Photo)

H. Minard Cracks 266

Howard Minard, the hard working Y Federation Bowling League official, wrote a particuarly interesting set of figures in his secretary's book last night:

One was for a 266 which represents the highest single game rolled in the National division of the Federation League. If it stands up, Howard shortly will be rewarded with a K.B.A. high single medal. He tacked on other scores of 139 and 169 for a 574 triple which led the league by a hefty margin.

Ad Schultz, who must be thinking seriously of golf these days, posted 205-520. Emil Himmelsback shot 504; L. Otto 501; Ronnie Hudler 492; Ferd Short 480; John Matthews 479; Ralph Halbert 471; G. Howland 465; Warren Wood 454; Doug Harvey 449 and Donald Wood 440.

Latest official figures reveal that Jack Fatum paces the league individual averages with 167, while Don Wood's 601 is high triple.

Savannah, Ga., April 4 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies and Brooklyn Dodgers clash here tonight in their fifth meeting of the spring campaign.

The final encounter between the two teams—until the regular season begins—will be played tomorrow at Jacksonville, Fla.

Dick Sisler's first homer of the training season yesterday at Miami gave the Phils an 11-inning 5-3 decision over the Dodgers.

Rookie pitcher Paul Stuffel yesterday was sent to the Baltimore farm club.

New Orleans, April 4 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants said today he knew nothing about a report that the Giants were seeking to sign southpaw Johnny Vander Meer.

ALL-TIME ALL-AMERICA Football Selections

Hutson, Oosterbaan

New Brunswick, N. J., April 4 (AP)—One of them now is coach at his alma mater, Michigan. The other is an automobile dealer at Green Bay, Wis. The names are Bennie Oosterbaan and Don Hutson—names that will linger in the minds of football fans as long as there is football.

Hutson, the sensational pass-catching end at Alabama and later the professional Green Bay Packers, and Oosterbaan, one of Michigan's greatest athletes, have been chosen ends on the Associated Press All-Time All America team.

Oosterbaan and Hutson thus qualify for top consideration for election to the football Hall of Fame, which is planned for Rutgers University where the first game was played in 1869.

Both Players Thrilled

"I'm delighted with the honor," said Oosterbaan when told of the selection at Ann Arbor, where he is head football coach of the Michigan Wolverines.

Hutson, visiting in Hollywood, Fla., expressed the same sentiments when advised of the all-time balloting conducted in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters by the AP in conjunction with the Hall of Fame. He was assistant coach after his playing days at Green Bay until 1948.

"When I was at Alabama from 1931 to 1935," said Hutson, "there were two things I wanted very much—to be All America and to play in the Rose Bowl. There weren't a lot of bowl games then."

He realized both ambitions in the 1934 season.

"I guess the Rose Bowl game against Stanford, Jan. 11, 1935, was the highlight of my college career. I caught quite a few passes, and we won. I think the score was 29 to 13."

Bowl Thrills

Oosterbaan, too, can tell about the Rose Bowl. In his last two seasons his teams have won two Big Ten titles, and Michigan beat California last Jan. 1 in the Rose Bowl, 14-6.

Not given to boastful claim, Oosterbaan recalled a "distinct thrill" of almost single handedly defeating Ohio State, 21-0, in the 1927 game dedicating Michigan's 97,238-seat stadium. Also his part in the 7-6 win over Minnesota for the 1926 conference crown.

"I'll never forget throwing three touchdown passes when I was a senior in that Ohio State game," he said. "Actually, two were forward passes and the other was a lateral off the end-around play, with Louis Gilbert catching all three.

"But, I think my fondest recollection is scooping up that fumble against Minnesota when we trailed, 0-6." He scampered 57 yards for the touchdown that won the game.

Hutson received 629 points in the poll for ends, Oosterbaan got 349 to beat out Frank Hinkey, Yale All-America of the early 1890's, and California's great Brick Muller, 1922 All-America. They were named to the second team.

Casey Keeps Yanks Together With Tape; Mantle, Johnson, Rizzuto Are Hurt

But Rival Clubs Won't Be Sorry

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—Doctor Casey Stengel is holding his New York Yankees together with baling wire and sticking plaster (again!) as the world champions start limping back north to open the season in less than two weeks.

A series of new injuries within the past few days, added to several others that have plagued the club all spring, forced Casey to play a line-up against Cleveland here yesterday which would have difficulty finishing in the American League's second division.

Casey is becoming worried and admits he is in for trouble unless there are a few recoveries before opening day. He says he had planned to have his starting team ready to go by this coming Saturday, but had abandoned hope of that now.

"What makes it worse," he lamented, "is that these kids get hurt and don't tell me about it so I could get them out of there. Then they start running and throwing again soon."

Third Is Hot Spot

He had particular reference to third-baseman Billy Johnson, who fractured a rib in an early inning of a game the other day but said nothing about it and played out the contest. Now he is out for at least two weeks.

Gil McDougald, Johnson's understudy at third, was laid up with a bad ankle yesterday, with the result that the third sacker who faced the Indians was Gene Markland, who will not even stay with the club.

Little Phil Rizzuto has a badly pulled muscle in his left side and could be out for some time. The side is strapped up and he is taking special treatments. So it has been necessary to move Gerry Coleman over to shortstop, and the Yankees' second baseman yesterday was one Jerry Snyder.

Mantle Hurt

Mickey Mantle, the wonder rookie, has come up with a sore thumb which threatens to give him serious trouble. The thumb swells to nearly twice its normal size after he has batted left-handed, the result, apparently, of a faulty follow-through.

"I shouldn't have let him play in a couple of games that I did," Casey said, "but the kid wants to play so bad and the fans want to see him so much that I left him in the lineup. Now I wish I hadn't."

Mantle can hit righthanded without ill effect, but the Yanks have been seeing very little left-handed pitching, and until they do Mantle doubtless will stay on the bench. Casey is not going to risk such a prodigy at this stage—not when he knows Mickey will pack the park for the Yankees, final two exhibitions in New York.

Pleek Available

Miami, April 4 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers may have the benefit of Erv Palica's pitching for a few National League games before he is ordered to report for induction into the Army.

The Dodgers announced yesterday that Palica, who helped spark Brooklyn's late-season drive last year will rejoin the club pending receipts of his induction orders.

Bowling

The dark-haired dynamiter wrapped solos of 196 and 171 around a rousing 244 middle set for her big triple. Runnerup Grace Sabo Wojciechowski was heading for a "600" with opening scores of 212 and 204, but she slumped to 161 and a 577. Nice slumping!

Elizabeth Schoonmaker, who will shortly defend her Class C New York State women's singles crown, powered 236-575; Mary Wyant had 215-531; Beverly Port 525; Charlotte Lapine 522; Sue Heins 512; Reta Frederick and Miriam Posner 508; Rita La Rocca 501; Kay Brodhead 500 and Dot Rawding 499.

Ronnie Mauro slapped the maples for a 601 triple, with 208-189-204, last night in the Central Rec League. Chris Robinson knocked off 203-206-579 for runnerup honors; Chris Gallo 204-569; Joe Sangi 212-567; Jim Costello 202-562; Carl Bowser 533; Joe Bosco 212-526; Charlie Brooks 525; Warren Wood 518; Carl Lundquist 202-514; Frank Bartroff 510; E. Eleanor Singer set her sights for a "600" triple in the Friendship League last night and but for a third game slump she might have made it. Her 211-202-160 set did give her a 573 total which led the Tuesday night circuit by a wide margin.

Three others moved into the "500" circle, Rose Mellert with 515; Winnie Overfield 514 and Dot Rawding 513. Ada Markle 495; Rose Rhymer 486; Phyl Gehringer 483; Vi Slover 482; M. Perry 471; Marge Van Alstyne 470; Amy Mauro and Marge Mellert 468; Marge Jansen 466; Miriam Posner 466; Mabel Mackey 465; Bea Arlensky 462; G. Hulsair 458; Elizabeth Bruck 457; Bertha Schaller 456; Evelyn Gross 454 and Jo Smith 453.

Elizabeth Sass was top bowler in the Business Girls League with 143-182-155-480. Helen Buchholtz was in the runnerup spot with 455 and Mabel Dunn took show honors with 417. Other top scores included M. Short 392; Marge Bertram 380; L. Jordan 378 and O. Sturgeon 375.

The Freeman will publish all final standings and individual averages of local bowling leagues. Secretaries are requested to furnish such statistics as soon as possible after the end of the bowling schedule.

John Reid emerged as high individual average leader in the Scranton Lace League, with a 169.49 figure for 54 games. Runnerup John Howard, who also serves as league secretary, had 164.4. Fred Colao shot 160.47 in 63 sets, while W. Cameron posted 158.41.

Willard Joy, who copped high single honors and the KBA medal with a 243, shot 151.41 and Andy Krom had 151.6 to round out the first five.

CHAMPION AND HER TROPHY

Rose Schatzel, Kingston's bowling queen, proudly displays the stunning trophy which she won, in addition to $500 in cash, in a Cincinnati, Ohio individual sweepstakes on Sunday in competiton against the nation's best women keglers. Mrs. Schatzel rolled a six-game, 1243-total, with scores of 226, 192, 191, 237, 213 and 184. Vi Michaels, a Cincinnati product, was second with 1176. The Cincinnati triumph was the fifth major sweepstakes victory for the local star. (Freeman Photo)

H. Minard Cracks 266

Howard Minard, the hard working Y Federation Bowling League official, wrote a particularly interesting set of figures in his secretary's book last night.

One was for a 266 which represents the highest single game rolled in the National division of the Federation League. If it stands up, Howard shortly will be rewarded with a K.B.A. high single medal. He tacked on other scores of 139 and 169 for a 574 triple which led the league by a hefty margin.

Ad Schultz, who must be thinking seriously of golf these days, posted 205-520. Emil Himmelsback shot 504; L. Otto 501; Ronnie Hudler 492; Ferd Short 480; John Matthews 479; Ralph Halbert 471; G. Howland 465; Warren Wood 454; Doug Harvey 449 and Donald Wood 440.

Latest official figures reveal that Jack Fatum paces the league individual averages with 167, while Don Wood's 601 is high triple.

Phils Clip Brooks

Savannah, Ga., April 4 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies and Brooklyn Dodgers clash here tonight in their fifth meeting of the spring campaign.

The final encounter between the two teams—until the regular season begins—will be played tomorrow at Jacksonville, Fla.

Dick Sisler's first homer of the training season yesterday at Miami gave the Phils an 11-inning 5-3 decision over the Dodgers.

Rookie pitcher Paul Stuffel yesterday was sent to the Baltimore farm club.

New Orleans, April 4 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants said today he knew nothing about a report that the Giants were seeking to sign southpaw Johnny Vander Meer.

Rochester 80, Minneapolis 75 (Rochester wins best-of-five series, 3-1).

Resume Series

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—Cleveland's Indians broke camp today and prepared to start their lengthy exhibition series with the New York Giants.

The two clubs have been staging their spring warfare since 1934, with the Tribe winning 98, losing 91 and tying five.

Tomorrow's opener will be in Houston, Tex. Other stops include Fort Worth, Dallas, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Nashville, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Winston-Salem, N. C., and Norfalk, Va. The series will be concluded in New York April 14 and 15.

ALL-TIME ALL-AMERICA Football Selections

Hutson, Oosterbaan

New Brunswick, N. J., April 4 (AP)—One of them now is coach at his alma mater, Michigan. The other is an automobile dealer at Green Bay, Wis. The names are Bennie Oosterbaan and Don Hutson—names that will linger in the minds of football fans as long as there is football.

Hutson, the sensational pass-catching end at Alabama and later the professional Green Bay Packers, and Oosterbaan, one of Michigan's greatest athletes, have been chosen ends on the Associated Press All-Time All America team.

Oosterbaan and Hutson thus qualify for top consideration for election to the football Hall of Fame, which is planned for Rutgers University where the first game was played in 1869.

Both Players Thrilled

"I'm delighted with the honor," said Oosterbaan when told of the selection at Ann Arbor, where he is head football coach of the Michigan Wolverines.

Hutson, visiting in Hollywood, Fla., expressed the same sentiments when advised of the all-time balloting conducted in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters by the AP in conjunction with the Hall of Fame. He was assistant coach after his playing days at Green Bay until 1948.

"When I was at Alabama from 1931 to 1935," said Hutson, "there were two things I wanted very much—to be All America and to play in the Rose Bowl. There weren't a lot of bowl games then."

He realized both ambitions in the 1934 season.

"I guess the Rose Bowl game against Stanford, Jan. 11, 1935, was the highlight of my college career. I caught quite a few passes, and we won. I think the score was 29 to 13."

Bowl Thrills

Oosterbaan, too, can tell about the Rose Bowl. In his last two seasons his teams have won two Big Ten titles, and Michigan beat California last Jan. 1 in the Rose Bowl, 14-6.

Not given to boastful claim, Oosterbaan recalled a "distinct thrill" of almost single handedly defeating Ohio State, 21-0, in the 1927 game dedicating Michigan's 97,238-seat stadium. Also his part in the 7-6 win over Minnesota for the 1926 conference crown.

"I'll never forget throwing three touchdown passes when I was a senior in that Ohio State game," he said. "Actually, two were forward passes and the other was a lateral off the end-around play, with Louis Gilbert catching all three.

"But, I think my fondest recollection is scooping up that fumble against Minnesota when we trailed, 0-6." He scampered 57 yards for the touchdown that won the game.

Hutson received 629 points in the poll for ends, Oosterbaan got 349 to beat out Frank Hinkey, Yale All-America of the early 1890's, and California's great Brick Muller, 1922 All-America. They were named to the second team.

Casey Keeps Yanks Together With Tape; Mantle, Johnson, Rizzuto Are Hurt

But Rival Clubs Won't Be Sorry

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—Doctor Casey Stengel is holding his New York Yankees together with baling wire and sticking plaster (again!) as the world champions start limping back north to open the season in less than two weeks.

A series of new injuries within the past few days, added to several others that have plagued the club all spring, forced Casey to play a line-up against Cleveland here yesterday which would have difficulty finishing in the American League's second division.

Casey is becoming worried and admits he is in for trouble unless there are a few recoveries before opening day. He says he had planned to have his starting team ready to go by this coming Saturday, but had abandoned hope of that now.

"What makes it worse," he lamented, "is that these kids get hurt and don't tell me about it so I could get them out of there. Then they start running and throwing again soon."

Third Is Hot Spot

He had particular reference to third-baseman Billy Johnson, who fractured a rib in an early inning of a game the other day but said nothing about it and played out the contest. Now he is out for at least two weeks.

Gil McDougald, Johnson's understudy at third, was laid up with a bad ankle yesterday, with the result that the third sacker who faced the Indians was Gene Markland, who will not even stay with the club.

Little Phil Rizzuto has a badly pulled muscle in his left side and could be out for some time. The side is strapped up and he is taking special treatments. So it has been necessary to move Gerry Coleman over to shortstop, and the Yankees' second baseman yesterday was one Jerry Snyder.

Mantle Hurt

Mickey Mantle, the wonder rookie, has come up with a sore thumb which threatens to give him serious trouble. The thumb swells to nearly twice its normal size after he has batted left-handed, the result, apparently, of a faulty follow-thrqugh.

"I shouldn't have let him play in a couple of games that I did," Casey said, "but the kid wants to play so bad and the fans want to see him so much that I left him in the lineup. Now I wish I hadn't."

Mantle can hit righthanded without ill effect, but the Yanks have been seeing very little left-handed pitching, and until they do Mantle doubtless will stay on the bench. Casey is not going to risk such a prodigy at this stage—not when he knows Mickey will pack the park for the Yankees, final two exhibitions in New York.

Pleek Available

Miami, April 4 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers may have the benefit of Erv Palica's pitching for a few National League games before he is ordered to report for induction into the Army.

The Dodgers announced yesterday that Palica, who helped spark Brooklyn's late-season drive last year will rejoin the club pending receipts of his induction orders.

Bowling

The dark-haired dynamiter wrapped solos of 196 and 171 around a rousing 244 middle set for her big triple. Runnerup Grace Sabo Wojciechowski was heading for a "600" with opening scores of 212 and 204, but she slumped to 161 and a 577. Nice slumping!

Elizabeth Schoonmaker, who will shortly defend her Class C New York State women's singles crown, powered 236-575; Mary Wyant had 215-531; Beverly Port 525; Charlotte Lapine 522; Sue Heins 512; Reta Frederick and Miriam Posner 508; Rita La Rocca 501; Kay Brodhead 500 and Dot Rawding 499.

Ronnie Mauro slapped the maples for a 601 triple, with 208-189-204, last night in the Central Rec League. Eleanor Singer set her sights for a "600" triple in the Friendship League last night and but for a third game slump she might have made it. Her 211-202-160 set did give her a 573 total which led the Tuesday night circuit by a wide margin.

Three others moved into the "500" circle, Rose Mellert with 515; Winnie Overfield 514 and Dot Rawding 513. Ada Markle 495; Rose Rhymer 486; Phyl Gehringer 483; Vi Slover 482; M. CHAMPION AND HER TROPHY

Rose Schatzel, Kingston's bowling queen, proudly displays the stunning trophy which she won, in addition to $500 in cash, in a Cincinnati, Ohio individual sweepstakes on Sunday in competiton against the nation's best women keglers. Mrs. Schatzel rolled a six-game, 1243-total, with scores of 226, 192, 191, 237, 213 and 184. Vi Michaels, a Cincinnati product, was second with 1176. The Cincinnati triumph was the fifth major sweepstakes victory for the local star. (Freeman Photo)

H. Minard Cracks 266

Howard Minard, the hard working Y Federation Bowling League official, wrote a particularly interesting set of figures in his secretary's book last night.

One was for a 266 which represents the highest single game rolled in the National division of the Federation League. If it stands up, Howard shortly will be rewarded with a K.B.A. high single medal. He tacked on other scores of 139 and 169 for a 574 triple which led the league by a hefty margin.

Ad Schultz, who must be thinking seriously of golf these days, posted 205-520. Emil Himmelsback shot 504; L. Otto 501; Ronnie Hudler 492; Ferd Short 480; John Matthews 479; Ralph Halbert 471; G. Howland 465; Warren Wood 454; Doug Harvey 449 and Donald Wood 440.

Latest official figures reveal that Jack Fatum paces the league individual averages with 167, while Don Wood's 601 is high triple.

ALL-TIME ALL-AMERICA Football Selections

Hutson, Oosterbaan

New Brunswick, N. J., April 4 (AP)—One of them now is coach at his alma mater, Michigan. The other is an automobile dealer at Green Bay, Wis. The names are Bennie Oosterbaan and Don Hutson—names that will linger in the minds of football fans as long as there is football.

Hutson, the sensational pass-catching end at Alabama and later the professional Green Bay Packers, and Oosterbaan, one of Michigan's greatest athletes, have been chosen ends on the Associated Press All-Time All America team.

Oosterbaan and Hutson thus qualify for top consideration for election to the football Hall of Fame, which is planned for Rutgers University where the first game was played in 1869.

Both Players Thrilled

"I'm delighted with the honor," said Oosterbaan when told of the selection at Ann Arbor, where he is head football coach of the Michigan Wolverines.

Hutson, visiting in Hollywood, Fla., expressed the same sentiments when advised of the all-time balloting conducted in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters by the AP in conjunction with the Hall of Fame. He was assistant coach after his playing days at Green Bay until 1948.

"When I was at Alabama from 1931 to 1935," said Hutson, "there were two things I wanted very much—to be All America and to play in the Rose Bowl. There weren't a lot of bowl games then."

He realized both ambitions in the 1934 season.

"I guess the Rose Bowl game against Stanford, Jan. 11, 1935, was the highlight of my college career. I caught quite a few passes, and we won. I think the score was 29 to 13."

Bowl Thrills

Oosterbaan, too, can tell about the Rose Bowl. In his last two seasons his teams have won two Big Ten titles, and Michigan beat California last Jan. 1 in the Rose Bowl, 14-6.

Not given to boastful claim, Oosterbaan recalled a "distinct thrill" of almost single handedly defeating Ohio State, 21-0, in the 1927 game dedicating Michigan's 97,238-seat stadium. Also his part in the 7-6 win over Minnesota for the 1926 conference crown.

"I'll never forget throwing three touchdown passes when I was a senior in that Ohio State game," he said. "Actually, two were forward passes and the other was a lateral off the end-around play, with Louis Gilbert catching all three.

"But, I think my fondest recollection is scooping up that fumble against Minnesota when we trailed, 0-6." He scampered 57 yards for the touchdown that won the game.

Hutson received 629 points in the poll for ends, Oosterbaan got 349 to beat out Frank Hinkey, Yale All-America of the early 1890's, and California's great Brick Muller, 1922 All-America. They were named to the second team.

Casey Keeps Yanks Together With Tape; Mantle, Johnson, Rizzuto Are Hurt

But Rival Clubs Won't Be Sorry

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—Doctor Casey Stengel is holding his New York Yankees together with baling wire and sticking plaster (again!) as the world champions start limping back north to open the season in less than two weeks.

A series of new injuries within the past few days, added to several others that have plagued the club all spring, forced Casey to play a line-up against Cleveland here yesterday which would have difficulty finishing in the American League's second division.

Casey is becoming worried and admits he is in for trouble unless there are a few recoveries before opening day. He says he had planned to have his starting team ready to go by this coming Saturday, but had abandoned hope of that now.

"What makes it worse," he lamented, "is that these kids get hurt and don't tell me about it so I could get them out of there. Then they start running and throwing again soon."

Third Is Hot Spot

He had particular reference to third-baseman Billy Johnson, who fractured a rib in an early inning of a game the other day but said nothing about it and played out the contest. Now he is out for at least two weeks.

Gil McDougald, Johnson's understudy at third, was laid up with a bad ankle yesterday, with the result that the third sacker who faced the Indians was Gene Markland, who will not even stay with the club.

Little Phil Rizzuto has a badly pulled muscle in his left side and could be out for some time. The side is strapped up and he is taking special treatments. So it has been necessary to move Gerry Coleman over to shortstop, and the Yankees' second baseman yesterday was one Jerry Snyder.

Mantle Hurt

Mickey Mantle, the wonder rookie, has come up with a sore thumb which threatens to give him serious trouble. The thumb swells to nearly twice its normal size after he has batted left-handed, the result, apparently, of a faulty follow-through.

"I shouldn't have let him play in a couple of games that I did," Casey said, "but the kid wants to play so bad and the fans want to see him so much that I left him in the lineup. Now I wish I hadn't."

Mantle can hit righthanded without ill effect, but the Yanks have been seeing very little left-handed pitching, and until they do Mantle doubtless will stay on the bench. Casey is not going to risk such a prodigy at this stage—not when he knows Mickey will pack the park for the Yankees final two exhibitions in New York.

Pleek Available

Miami, April 4 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers may have the benefit of Erv Palica's pitching for a few National League games before he is ordered to report for induction into the Army.

The Dodgers announced yesterday that Palica, who helped spark Brooklyn's late-season drive last year will rejoin the club pending receipts of his induction orders.

Bones May Solve 26-Year Mystery

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, April 4 (AP)—Orlando Vilasboas, leader of a government expedition, has reported he believes he has found the bones of the long-missing British explorer, Col. P. H. Fawsett, in the Brazilian jungle.

Vilasboas' report, yesterday, which may solve a 26-year mystery, was forwarded to the government's central Brazil foundation.

Fawcett, famous for his Amazon explorations, dropped from sight in 1925. He had set out with his 20-year-old son Jack and friend Raleigh Rimmel, lured by hopes of finding gold and diamonds for a fabulous city of a lost civilization in the Mato Grosso jungle. He believed the Mato Grosso was the original Garden of Eden.

Vilasboas said the Kalapagos Indians killed the three explorers near the Rio das Mortes (River of Death). They threw two of the bodies into a lagoon and buried the oldest, whom he believed to be Fawcett.

His message said the Indians, "after five years of reluctance," finally led him today to the burial spot, where he dug up a skull in perfect condition and other bones.

The skeleton, he added, has been removed to his base at Xavantina. But contrary to previous reports by the National News Agency, he said the other two skeletons were not recovered because of the "strong desire of the Indians to leave the location."

The National News Agency said some belongings of Fawcett also had been recovered among the Indians, although the expedition leader's message did not mention this.

Vilasboas said he had hopes of making further discoveries, however.

A score or more of expeditions have sought a trace of Fawcett since he dropped from sight after sending a last message to the British Geographic Society on May 11, 1925.

BEATS BIKINI?—The successor to the brief, two-piece Bikini swimsuit, according to Paris designer Andre Ledoux, is this one-piece, water-repellent nylon number. Done in midnight blue, the designer calls it "far more feminine and just as sex-appealing" as the Bikini. (NEA-Acme photo by Staff Photographer Rene Henry.)

Lions Club Opens Annual Exposition

Lions' Exhibit

civic type included booths in the gym set up and manned by the American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Kingston Boys Club, Chamber of Commerce, Kingston Public Library, New York State Employment Service, 156th Field Artillery, Rip Van Winkle Council of Boy Scouts, Ulster County Girl Scouts, Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, and the newly formed 854th Engineer Aviation Battalion, Organized Reserve Corps.

A refreshment booth was in operation under the supervision of Robert E. Teetsel.

Not Without Hitches

Opening night was not without its hitches which provide Lions club members with topics for reminiscing but did not detract appreciably from the success of the affair.

A parade that had been scheduled to precede the opening of the exposition was canceled Tuesday morning when rain was falling, and the cancellation was announced by Lawrence J. MacAvery, vice chairman of the exposition.

By mid-afternoon the weather cleared and officials of the 156th Field Artillery, one of the units that had been asked to parade, notified Lions members that it would be necessary for them to parade in order to comply with certain National Guard regulations.

Parade Re-Scheduled

An "irrevocable" decision had already been made to cancel the parade, and many of the participants had already made other plans, however. At 5 p. m., when Lions officials decided they would hold the parade, hurried calls were made and the parade was rescheduled for 7 p. m. The Port Ewen Drum Corps was obtained, but the Kingston Lions Club Drum Corps, a newly formed unit of local boys sponsored by the club, did not parade.

The first appearance of the boys' corps to which many local persons have been looking forward, will probably not be until Memorial Day, Lions President C. Robert Cousins said today.

The parade was held, however, without the boys corps. The Port Ewen Corps, units of the 156th Field Artillery, Lions officials and exhibitors paraded, and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, parade marshall, led in his new chief's car, which was its first public appearance.

The exposition grounds at the state armory on Manor avenue had the usual "big-time" appearance, with a searchlight scanning the skies. The light was obtained through the courtesy of U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Service.

Chairman of the Lions Club exposition committee was Morgan D. Ryan, who supervised the many details of planning the annual event.

Krupp Director Is Opposed to Guns

Essen, Germany, April 4 (AP)—"Krupps will never make another gun—not even if we are accused of sabotaging the European rearmament program."

This assertion was made today by Dr. Friederich Wilhelm Hardach, director of the huge Krupp concern that helped arm Germany for two World Wars.

"After twice getting our fingers burned building arms for two wars, no one can justly complain if we say 'never more'," Hardach said in an interview.

"We are so much opposed to any more arms making that we are even refusing contracts to make trucks which might turn up some day in some army," he added.

Milton Man Jailed

Chauncey "Duke" Greenwood of Milton was sentenced to 30 days in the Ulster county jail by Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey Monday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of third degree assault. He was arrested by state police of the Highland station on complaint of Blanche Carter, 30, of Milton, who was taken to St. Luke's Hospital on Saturday suffering from lacerations, possible fracture of a cheek bone and loss of several teeth, state police said. Miss Carter has been released from the hospital, troopers reported.

Present law prohibits farm price ceilings at lower than parity, which inches up as other prices climb. Parity is now higher for many commodities than it was January 15. Johnston was reported hopeful he could convince Congress a parity ceiling should be established in any revision of the mobilization law, due to expire June 30.

Inn Is Damaged

Old Saybrook, Conn., April 4 (AP)—Fire believed to have been caused by a short circuit caused damage estimated at $25,000 to Ye Castle Inn at Cornfield Point here early today. Fire Chief Clifford L. Patterson said that the marine terrace and the ballroom suffered extensive damage and that the interior of the 30-room stone building suffered from smoke and water. The inn is owned by Charles Michel whose two daughters, Andrea, 11, and Sonya, eight, were awakened by smoke and gave the alarm. Michel said he would rebuild immediately.

Town Turns to Derbies

Dalhart, Tex. (AP)—This west Texas town is going to abandon the traditional ten-gallon hat and other cow-country styles temporarily. As a stunt to publicize Dalhart's golden jubilee party May 25-26, a thousand men will wear headgear of 50 years ago—derbies.

Sweetheart Swings

Seventeen year old Bill Coghill, the girl's high school sweetheart, swung at Phillips but was restrained by officers when the two came face to face at the Pittsburg county jail here.

Coghill was parked with the girl outside of McAlester's skating rink Sunday night when a man forced himself into their car and made them drive to Kinta.

Bones May Solve 26-Year Mystery

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, April 4 (AP)—Orlando Vilasboas, leader of a government expedition, has reported he believes he has found the bones of the long-missing British explorer, Col. P. H. Fawsett, in the Brazilian jungle.

Vilasboas' report, yesterday, which may solve a 26-year mystery, was forwarded to the government's central Brazil foundation.

Fawcett, famous for his Amazon explorations, dropped from sight in 1925. He had set out with his 20-year-old son Jack and friend Raleigh Rimmel, lured by hopes of finding gold and diamonds for a fabulous city of a lost civilization in the Mato Grosso jungle. He believed the Mato Grosso was the original Garden of Eden.

Vilasboas said the Kalapagos Indians killed the three explorers near the Rio das Mortes (River of Death). They threw two of the bodies into a lagoon and buried the oldest, whom he believed to be Fawcett.

His message said the Indians, "after five years of reluctance," finally led him today to the burial spot, where he dug up a skull in perfect condition and other bones.

The skeleton, he added, has been removed to his base at Xavantina. But contrary to previous reports by the National News Agency, he said the other two skeletons were not recovered because of the "strong desire of the Indians to leave the location."

The National News Agency said some belongings of Fawcett also had been recovered among the Indians, although the expedition leader's message did not mention this.

Vilasboas said he had hopes of making further discoveries, however.

A score or more of expeditions have sought a trace of Fawcett since he dropped from sight after sending a last message to the British Geographic Society on May 11, 1925.

Lions Club Opens Annual Exposition

Lions' Exhibit

civic type included booths in the gym set up and manned by the American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Kingston Boys Club, Chamber of Commerce, Kingston Public Library, New York State Employment Service, 156th Field Artillery, Rip Van Winkle Council of Boy Scouts, Ulster County Girl Scouts, Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, and the newly formed 854th Engineer Aviation Battalion, Organized Reserve Corps.

A refreshment booth was in operation under the supervision of Robert E. Teetsel.

Not Without Hitches

Opening night was not without its hitches which provide Lions club members with topics for reminiscing but did not detract appreciably from the success of the affair.

A parade that had been scheduled to precede the opening of the exposition was canceled Tuesday morning when rain was falling, and the cancellation was announced by Lawrence J. MacAvery, vice chairman of the exposition.

By mid-afternoon the weather cleared and officials of the 156th Field Artillery, one of the units that had been asked to parade, notified Lions members that it would be necessary for them to parade in order to comply with certain National Guard regulations.

Parade Re-Scheduled

An "irrevocable" decision had already been made to cancel the parade, and many of the participants had already made other plans, however. At 5 p. m., when Lions officials decided they would hold the parade, hurried calls were made and the parade was rescheduled for 7 p. m. The Port Ewen Drum Corps was obtained, but the Kingston Lions Club Drum Corps, a newly formed unit of local boys sponsored by the club, did not parade.

The first appearance of the boys' corps to which many local persons have been looking forward, will probably not be until Memorial Day, Lions President C. Robert Cousins said today.

The parade was held, however, without the boys corps. The Port Ewen Corps, units of the 156th Field Artillery, Lions officials and exhibitors paraded, and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, parade marshall, led in his new chief's car, which was its first public appearance.

The exposition grounds at the state armory on Manor avenue had the usual "big-time" appearance, with a searchlight scanning the skies. The light was obtained through the courtesy of U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Service.

Chairman of the Lions Club exposition committee was Morgan D. Ryan, who supervised the many details of planning the annual event.

Milton Man Jailed

Chauncey "Duke" Greenwood of Milton was sentenced to 30 days in the Ulster county jail by Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey Monday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of third degree assault. He was arrested by state police of the Highland station on complaint of Blanche Carter, 30, of Milton, who was taken to St. Luke's Hospital on Saturday suffering from lacerations, possible fracture of a cheek bone and loss of several teeth, state police said. Miss Carter has been released from the hospital, troopers reported.

Krupp Director Is Opposed to Guns

Essen, Germany, April 4 (AP)—"Krupps will never make another gun—not even if we are accused of sabotaging the European rearmament program."

This assertion was made today by Dr. Friederich Wilhelm Hardach, director of the huge Krupp concern that helped arm Germany for two World Wars.

"After twice getting our fingers burned building arms for two wars, no one can justly complain if we say 'never more'," Hardach said in an interview.

"We are so much opposed to any more arms making that we are even refusing contracts to make trucks which might turn up some day in some army," he added.

Present law prohibits farm price ceilings at lower than parity, which inches up as other prices climb. Parity is now higher for many commodities than it was January 15. Johnston was reported hopeful he could convince Congress a parity ceiling should be established in any revision of the mobilization law, due to expire June 30.

Inn Is Damaged

Old Saybrook, Conn., April 4 (AP)—Fire believed to have been caused by a short circuit caused damage estimated at $25,000 to Ye Castle Inn at Cornfield Point here early today. Fire Chief Clifford L. Patterson said that the marine terrace and the ballroom suffered extensive damage and that the interior of the 30-room stone building suffered from smoke and water. The inn is owned by Charles Michel whose two daughters, Andrea, 11, and Sonya, eight, were awakened by smoke and gave the alarm. Michel said he would rebuild immediately.

Town Turns to Derbies

Dalhart, Tex. (AP)—This west Texas town is going to abandon the traditional ten-gallon hat and other cow-country styles temporarily. As a stunt to publicize Dalhart's golden jubilee party May 25-26, a thousand men will wear headgear of 50 years ago—derbies.

Phillips admitted to Police Chief Roy Anders that he took the girl to the shack and molested her. But he said he never actually harmed her.

Sweetheart Swings

Seventeen year old Bill Coghill, the girl's high school sweetheart, swung at Phillips but was restrained by officers when the two came face to face at the Pittsburg county jail here.

Coghill was parked with the girl outside of McAlester's skating rink Sunday night when a man forced himself into their car and made them drive to Kinta.

Bones May Solve 26-Year Mystery

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, April 4 (AP)—Orlando Vilasboas, leader of a government expedition, has reported he believes he has found the bones of the long-missing British explorer, Col. P. H. Fawsett, in the Brazilian jungle.

Vilasboas' report, yesterday, which may solve a 26-year mystery, was forwarded to the government's central Brazil foundation.

Fawcett, famous for his Amazon explorations, dropped from sight in 1925. He had set out with his 20-year-old son Jack and friend Raleigh Rimmel, lured by hopes of finding gold and diamonds for a fabulous city of a lost civilization in the Mato Grosso jungle. He believed the Mato Grosso was the original Garden of Eden.

Vilasboas said the Kalapagos Indians killed the three explorers near the Rio das Mortes (River of Death). They threw two of the bodies into a lagoon and buried the oldest, whom he believed to be Fawcett.

His message said the Indians, "after five years of reluctance," finally led him today to the burial spot, where he dug up a skull in perfect condition and other bones.

The skeleton, he added, has been removed to his base at Xavantina. But contrary to previous reports by the National News Agency, he said the other two skeletons were not recovered because of the "strong desire of the Indians to leave the location."

The National News Agency said some belongings of Fawcett also had been recovered among the Indians, although the expedition leader's message did not mention this.

Vilasboas said he had hopes of making further discoveries, however.

A score or more of expeditions have sought a trace of Fawcett since he dropped from sight after sending a last message to the British Geographic Society on May 11, 1925.

Lions Club Opens Annual Exposition

Lions' Exhibit

civic type included booths in the gym set up and manned by the American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Kingston Boys Club, Chamber of Commerce, Kingston Public Library, New York State Employment Service, 156th Field Artillery, Rip Van Winkle Council of Boy Scouts, Ulster County Girl Scouts, Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, and the newly formed 854th Engineer Aviation Battalion, Organized Reserve Corps.

A refreshment booth was in operation under the supervision of Robert E. Teetsel.

Not Without Hitches

Opening night was not without its hitches which provide Lions club members with topics for reminiscing but did not detract appreciably from the success of the affair.

A parade that had been scheduled to precede the opening of the exposition was canceled Tuesday morning when rain was falling, and the cancellation was announced by Lawrence J. MacAvery, vice chairman of the exposition.

By mid-afternoon the weather cleared and officials of the 156th Field Artillery, one of the units that had been asked to parade, notified Lions members that it would be necessary for them to parade in order to comply with certain National Guard regulations.

Parade Re-Scheduled

An "irrevocable" decision had already been made to cancel the parade, and many of the participants had already made other plans, however. At 5 p. m., when Lions officials decided they would hold the parade, hurried calls were made and the parade was rescheduled for 7 p. m. The Port Ewen Drum Corps was obtained, but the Kingston Lions Club Drum Corps, a newly formed unit of local boys sponsored by the club, did not parade.

The first appearance of the boys' corps to which many local persons have been looking forward, will probably not be until Memorial Day, Lions President C. Robert Cousins said today.

The parade was held, however, without the boys corps. The Port Ewen Corps, units of the 156th Field Artillery, Lions officials and exhibitors paraded, and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, parade marshall, led in his new chief's car, which was its first public appearance.

The exposition grounds at the state armory on Manor avenue had the usual "big-time" appearance, with a searchlight scanning the skies. The light was obtained through the courtesy of U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Service.

Chairman of the Lions Club exposition committee was Morgan D. Ryan, who supervised the many details of planning the annual event.

Milton Man Jailed

Chauncey "Duke" Greenwood of Milton was sentenced to 30 days in the Ulster county jail by Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey Monday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of third degree assault. He was arrested by state police of the Highland station on complaint of Blanche Carter, 30, of Milton, who was taken to St. Luke's Hospital on Saturday suffering from lacerations, possible fracture of a cheek bone and loss of several teeth, state police said. Miss Carter has been released from the hospital, troopers reported.

Present law prohibits farm price ceilings at lower than parity, which inches up as other prices climb. Parity is now higher for many commodities than it was January 15. Old Saybrook, Conn., April 4 (AP)—Fire believed to have been caused by a short circuit caused damage estimated at $25,000 to Ye Castle Inn at Cornfield Point here early today. Fire Chief Clifford L. The inn is owned by Charles Michel whose two daughters, Andrea, 11, and Sonya, eight, were awakened by smoke and gave the alarm. Michel said he would rebuild immediately.

The office of Senator Monroney (D-Okla.) said last night Selective Service had advised the senator the new plan would go into effect in June. An Italian informant said in Rome Saturday that 5,000 persons have been executed for political reasons since Communist Enver Hoxha became Albania's premier five years ago.

The answers to everyday insurance problems •
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: I understand only 10% of the $10,000 fire insurance policy we have on our house applies to the garage. We recently built a playroom over our garage at considerable expense and I would like to know how to insure the increased value.

ANSWER: The garage may be insured separately and it would be wise to handle it that way in the circumstances you describe.

• If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Now you Know!
The answers to everyday insurance problems •
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: I understand only 10% of the $10,000 fire insurance policy we have on our house applies to the garage. We recently built a playroom over our garage at considerable expense and I would like to know how to insure the increased value.

ANSWER: The garage may be insured separately and it would be wise to handle it that way in the circumstances you describe.

• If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
